NO QUESTIONS ALLOWED . . .

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal human rights commission has developed a policy which bars federal employers from asking job applicants to pass medical examinations or to provide basic personal information about sex, age, marital status, birthplace and other details.

The policy affects all employers under federal jurisdiction ranging from government departments and agencies to Crown corporations and institutions such as chartered banks.

It was developed in detail after the commission received requests from employers for guidance on a section of the Human Rights Act prohibiting the collection of any "potentially discriminatory" information on an employment application form or in an employment interview.

The policy becomes effective when the employers have received policy guides currently being translated for publication in coming weeks and have had a chance to design and print new job forms.

The commission flatly bars some questions, including any indicating the applicant's race or color of skin, eyes and hair.

The employer is barred from seeking some information until after the person is hired. This includes a medical examination, verification of age, marital status, documentary proof of eligibility to work in Canada and photographs.

And for some questions now routinely asked, the commission recommends "acceptable" replacements.

Go Slow Again In France

AIX EN PROVENCE, France (Reuter) — French air controllers will start a new work slowdown on Friday for an indefinite period, union officials announced Wednesday.

The slowdown—after a summer of similar work actions that left thousands of vacationers stranded at airports for days—was announced after talks here between unions from France's four air control centers.

A joint statement said the controllers were resuming their action to protest the French government's refusal to negotiate.

Talks between controllers' delegates and the French Transport Ministry broke down last week when the controllers walked out, saying the ministry had made no new proposals and was refusing to negotiate.

$750 MILLION IN U.S.

More Borrowing To Prop Dollar

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Jean Chretien made another move Wednesday to support the troubled dollar, saying the government plans a new sale of $750 million U.S. worth of bonds in New York.

Counting this issue, the government has arranged for credit and loans totalling $7.7 billion in the last year to back the dollar. Interest payments on those loans and arrangements are costing the country more than $100,000 daily, finance department estimates indicate.

The announcement brought a call from Sinclair Stevens, the Progressive Conservative finance critic, for Chretien's resignation. The finance minister has lost control of his portfolio, Stevens said.

Chretien's statement came after money markets closed, showing the Canadian dollar at a new 45-year low of 85.43 cents U.S. At noon today the dollar was up 4-25 at $0.8559.

The decline came despite efforts last week by the Bank of Canada to halt devaluation through an interest rate increase.

The bond sale will be the second this year in the New York market. The first also totalled $750 million U.S. and was supplemented by credit arrangements with Canadian and foreign banks, sales of reserves holdings and a borrowing of 1.5 billion West German marks (about $705 million) as the government struggled to defend the dollar.

Chretien said the new borrowing represents another step in an ongoing government program to attract foreign capital that could help prop up the dollar's value.

He gave no details of the issue, saying these will come when the government files a required registration statement with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission.

Stevens, noting that recent government efforts have failed to halt the dollar's fall, said one of the more important steps that could be taken is for Chretien to resign.

NEWS BRIEFS

GOLDFISH MISTREATED

CARDIFF, Wales (AFP) — Two actors went on trial here Wednesday for maltreating a goldfish.

Nigel Watson and Stewart Cox were accused of hurling a bowl containing the hapless fish to the floor during the course of a play. Charges were laid by the SPCA.

Belfast Bombs

BELFAST (UPI) — Three bomb explosions in Belfast Wednesday night damaged a newspaper warehouse and demolished a building near Queens University. Five men also attempted to kill a young prison guard.

Alaska Quivers

PALMER, Alaska (CP) — A small earthquake occurred early Wednesday about 32 kilometres southeast of Palmer, registering 3.8 on the Richter scale. No damage was reported.

Winsday Winners

WINNIPEG (CP) — Five tickets worth $100,000 each in the Western Express lottery were drawn Wednesday night. The winning numbers appear in the official advertisement on page 13.

Smokes Hijacked

MONTREAL (CP) — Police said two hooded men hijacked a truck carrying 250 boxes of cigarettes with a value of about $96,000 Tuesday night.

Last-Minute Bid To Halt Mail Cut

OTTAWA (CP) — Government and union negotiators took 11th-hour action today in attempts to head off a series of rotating strikes today by the 19,000-member Letter Carriers Union of Canada.

Acting Labor Minister Andre Ouellet broke away from an all-day meeting of Liberal MPs to huddle with post office and labor department negotiators concerning details of stalled contract talks.

Ouellet emerged from the session to tell waiting reporters that the government was attempting to line up a meeting with union leaders later in the day.

However, the acting labor minister refused to say whether a new or revised wage package would be placed on the bagaining table.

Union spokesman Bill Findlay later confirmed in a telephone interview that the meeting was scheduled to begin at 4:30 p.m. EDT. He said the strike could be called off as late as 10 p.m. EDT. If no settlement was reached the rotating strikes would begin at midnight.

A spokesman for the Toronto local of the letter carriers said earlier the membership would go on strike there at midnight.

The contract talks bogged down last month when the government rejected union proposals for a cost-of-living formula which is 19 cents more than the government says it can accept over a planed 18-month contract.

Postmaster-General Gilles Lamontagne was in Montreal Thursday attending a stamp-launching ceremony but spokesman said he was in constant communication with his department.

Union leaders said Tuesday they chose rotating strikes rather than a country-wide walkout to allow delivery of monthly old age pension and family allowance cheques.

But since then two groups have split with the national executive on the issue. About 1,000 Quebec City members voted Wednesday to undertake a general strike in their area rather than follow the executive's order for rotating strikes.

And letter carriers in Red Deer said the Alberta plan calls for rotating strikes in Calgary and Edmonton only.

NEW OWNERS FOR AIRWEST

VANCOUVER (CP) — AirWest Airlines Ltd. has been sold to a group of B.C. and Alberta businessmen for between $4 million and $8 million, according to the Vancouver Sun.

The agreement is subject to the new group of owners getting a commercial licence from the air transport committee of the Canadian transport commission. The commission is expected to rule on the application next month. AirWest head Norm Gold was not available for comment.

Transport Canada provides the operational licence dealing with such matters as whether an airline is meeting safety and operational requirements.

Daryl Smith, regional comptroller of civil aviation of Transport Canada in Vancouver, said AirWest "last week, as a matter of course, was subjected to an audit.

"AirWest, according to that review, was found to be complying with all the various pieces of legislation affecting an airline. That review concluded that the company's performance was satisfactory."

AirCan Strike Backed

MONTREAL (CP) — Even though all strike votes have not been counted, the union for Air Canada's 2,700 flight attendants says it has overwhelming support for a walkout to back contract demands.

Merl Day, business agent for the Canadian Air Line Flight Attendants' Association, said Wednesday he could not give exact figures on how many ballots had been counted, nor on the margin in favor of striking.

But he said results from the major centres of Toronto and Montreal had been tabulated, and outstanding ballots — mainly from Winnipeg and Halifax — would not be enough to reverse the results.

There appeared to be some confusion as to just when the attendants will be in a position to strike.

One report said the mediator's report had been sent to the federal labor department on Monday allowing the employees to walk off the job next Monday.

Federal labor law requires employees to wait seven days after the labor minister has received a mediator's report before going on strike.

However, Gordon McCaffrey, a special adviser to the labor minister, said today the mediation report has not yet been received by the department.

He said he doesn't know when the report will be forwarded to the department. That was up to the mediator.

"But we expect the collective bargaining to continue after the report is received," said McCaffrey.

The airline has already said it will keep flying if the attendants walk out, using more than 600 office volunteers trained to take over the jobs of cabin crews.

Assad Fears Attack on Syria

Syrian President Hafez Al-Assad has opened a summit of Arab leaders bent on wrecking the Camp David Mideast peace package with a blistering attack on President Anwar Sadat of Egypt.

He suggested Wednesday that Egypt and Israel might launch a joint military attack against Syria.

Assad is host to a summit meeting of the five-member Front for Steadfastness and Confrontation, which groups Syria, Algeria, South Yemen, Libya and the Palestine Liberation Organization.

All regard the Camp David agreements between Israel and Egypt as a sellout of the Arab cause and an Egyptian surrender to Israeli and American conditions.

"I do not rule out the possibility that Sadat, in association with his friend Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, will launch an offensive operation against Syria," Assad told the Arab leaders at the opening of the meeting.

Sadat, meanwhile, begins his campaign today to win Arab support for the Camp David proposals when he confers with Morocco's King Hassan.

Egyptian officials said he hoped to gain the private backing of the king, who last year spoke in favor of Sadat's peace mission to Jerusalem.

U.S. State Secretary Cyrus Vance failed to win Jordan's backing for the Camp David accords and flew to Saudi Arabia today to seek that powerful kingdom's help in the U.S.-mediated peace plan.

Jordanian Foreign Minister Hassain Ibrahim, standing with Vance at Amman airport, said Jordan still has reservations about the Camp David plan's failure to deal with the question of the ultimate status of the Israeli-occupied West Bank and the Palestinian people.

Pat Bay Highway Kills Again

A 69-year-old Abbotsford woman was killed Wednesday in a two-car collision at the Pat Bay Highway and Sayward Road.

Derkje Oldenhof was the second person to die in Greater Victoria traffic mishaps this week.

She was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Gerrit, 74, who is in serious condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital with multiple injuries.

Saanich police said the Oldenhof car was proceeding south on the highway and turning on to Sayward when in collision with a northbound van driven by Erich Eichhorn, 48, of 9882 Seventh Street in Sidney.

Eichhorn escaped with only a bump on his head.

LEGION MUST SHARE ROAD DEATH BLAME

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — An Ontario Supreme Court jury Wednesday awarded damages totalling $387,000 to two children who were injured and whose parents were killed in a 1975 car accident.

The jury found the Royal Canadian Legion — where a man involved in the accident was said to have been drinking prior to the mishap — 15 per cent responsible and ordered the legion to pay into court $58,000 for Jeffrey Picka, 15, and his sister, Jennifer, 11, for their injuries and the loss of their parents.

Brenda and Jerry Picka of Kitchener were killed Sept. 12, 1975, in a collision with a car driven by Beverly Porter, 60, of Woodstock, on a highway near New Hamburg, Ont. A passenger in the Porter car, Wilfred Callan of Woodstock, also was killed.

Porter, who from earlier evidence was said to have run a stop sign at high speed before the accident, was held 85 per cent responsible.

The jury found Porter had been drinking beer at the legion branch in Woodstock on the afternoon of the accident and had in his blood at least twice the legal limit of alcohol for impaired driving.

The legion allowed Porter to drink to excess and was negligent in not providing adequate supervision of its patrons on the day of the accident, the jury held.

Only one man was assigned to keep an eye on patrons and the legion bartender apparently was too busy to do so, the jury found.

The patrons' practice of buying rounds of drinks for the table was also cited as a factor in the inadequate supervision.

Jennifer, now living in Hamilton, who suffered extensive facial scars and head injuries in the accident, will receive $259,000. Medical specialists said she suffered brain damage that causes spells of forgetfulness and vagueness.

Jeffrey, now living in Ottawa, will receive $119,000. He suffered a broken collarbone and what medical specialists called a delayed grief reaction over his parents' deaths.

The award consists of $252,000 for general damages, mainly physical injuries, and $135,000 for the loss of the parents.

Socred Surplus Shelled

Social Credit financial policies that led to a $140.5 million surplus in the last fiscal year have been attacked on both the political and economic fronts.

NDP finance critic Dave Stupich (Nanaimo) said today if the surplus had been injected into the economy instead of stashed away for propaganda purposes at least 10,000 new jobs would have been created.

And Prof. Leonard Laudadio, chairman of the economic department of the University of Victoria, says such a surplus only shows politicians get a "psychological kick" out of overtaxing the people.

The surplus does nothing to fight inflation or reduce unemployment, he said.

Finance Minister Evan Wolfe Wednesday released the province's financial and economic review for the 1977-78 fiscal year which ended March 31.

He said surprisingly high revenues, especially from the sale of oil and gas exploration permits and from increases in sales tax revenues, led to the $140.5 million surplus.

Conservative leader Vic Stephens said the surplus shows the people have been overtaxed and that Wolfe's statement that it resulted from good money management was nonsense.

"Creating a surplus doesn't take a genius, just a heavy hand with taxes."

Surplus Threat Irks Civic Leaders

PENTICTON (CP) — A threat by the British Columbia government to control excessive municipal surpluses brought an angry response from civic politicians attending the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention here Wednesday.

Hugh Curtis, municipal affairs and housing minister, warned that the provincial government was examining controls in view of what he saw as excessive surpluses.

Speaking to about 1,000 delegates, the minister said they meant "an unjustified surtax on every class of property taxpayer."

Curtis said over the years municipalities have accumulated a total of $324.6 million in surpluses, while provincial government guidelines permit them to have a total surplus of $144 million.

Victoria Ald. Murray Glazier, chairman of the city's finance committee, said today in Penticton that Curtis' remarks were obviously not directed at Victoria because the city had an exemplary record in this respect.

"We just don't have these undesignated surplus accounts," he added.

Glazier noted that the city does have a waterworks capital reserve of around $125,000 in the event of major replacements being required for water services.

Its general revenue reserve stands at about $300,000 and in addition there is "a bunch of equipment depreciation accounts."

But he pointed out that a $514,000 surplus last year was carried forward to appear as a revenue item in this year's budget, and the same thing was done with a $1.18 million surplus at the end of 1976.

New Westminster Mayor Muni Evers, a former president of the UBCM, accused the minister of "making accusations against municipalities that are really a matter of book-keeping."

"I could come up with any manner of surpluses in the different ways I could juggle the books," he said. "It all depends where the money is and what is earmarked for the future."

Kelowna alderman Jim Stuart, chairman of the Municipal Finance Authority, said Curtis' comments are misleading and "show the old expression about figures don't lie but liars can figure."

Rebels' Last Bastion Attacked

MANAGUA (Reuter) - Government troops with tanks and machine guns assaulted the town of Esteli, the last bastion of rebels against Nicaraguan President Anastasio Somoza, refugees said today.

A doctor who left the town during a lull in a rocket attack by five government planes estimated that several hundred people had been killed. He said hardly a building remained unscathed. "They are burning bodies in the streets," Dr. Salvador Mairena said.

The rocket-shattered northern city fell two days ago, the last of four where rebel insurrection was crushed in fierce fighting. The other towns were Masaya, Leon and Chinandega.

Mairena and other refugees said the invading troops turned people out of their houses and opened fire on the buildings with heavy machine guns and two Sherman tanks.

National guardsmen prevented news correspondents from entering Esteli, 140 kilometres north of Managua.

Mairena, a member of the Esteli Chamber of Commerce, said: "It is wrong to call this a guerrilla war. It has been a war of the people against the army."

In Washington, meanwhile, the Organization of American States today faced the thorny task of attempting to mediate in Nicaragua without seeming to intervene in its internal affairs.

The hemispheric foreign ministers, after the U.S. called for an urgent OAS human rights investigation of reported civilian atrocities in Nicaragua.

Proposed by Venezuela, the OAS meeting may last three days and could, at most, result in a multination mediation team that would attempt to negotiate a ceasefire between the Somoza regime and the growing opposition to his rule.

SYRIA FEARS ATTACK BY EGYPT-ISRAEL

In New York, meanwhile, Begin said Wednesday he believes a framework for peace has been set.

He said in a speech that first the Knesset (parliament) must decide in the next two weeks whether to withdraw Israeli settlers from the occupied Sinai Peninsula.

In an hour-long speech to 2,000 American Jewish leaders, he then declared that Israeli troops would not leave the West Bank of the Jordan River after the Camp David-envisioned five-year transition period leading to Palestinian self-rule.

Begin's comment renewed a debate over whether the Camp David accords barred an Israeli military presence after the transition period. To Begin, the Israeli military presence is vital to the security of Israel.

At one point, he warned of the dangers posed to Israel by PLO leader Yassar Arafat, whom he called the most diabolical and barbaric foe of the Jewish people since the Nazis.

Begin spoke of terrors that could confront Israel if Arafat was in control of the West Bank and there was no Israeli military presence.

He also said Israel, for security reasons, would never give back to Syria the Golan Heights, captured during the Six-Day War in 1967.

INTEGRATE AID: VANDER ZALM

Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm said Wednesday all federal and provincial income maintenance programs should be integrated.

Vander Zalm made the statement to a conference of provincial human resources ministers in Ingonish, N.S. A copy of his paper was released in Victoria.

Vander Zalm said a new approach to the various income maintenance programs is needed.

He said unemployment insurance, social assistance, family allowances, old-age security, Canada pension plan, workers' compensation, veterans' allowances and tax credits should all be integrated into a comprehensive monthly living allowance.

Socred Surplus Critics Say B.C. Taxes too High

Liberal leader Gordon Gibson said the surplus is either a deliberate tactic prior to an election call by the Social Credit party or incompetence in estimating revenue and expenditure.

"Obviously they are building up a bankroll for an election next spring."

Stevens said he thought the election call would come this fall and the Social Credit party will have all the public relations behind them and be able to spend $1 million on their campaign.

Stupich says the surplus represents what the government has overtaxed through increased income tax, increased sales tax (the higher 7 per cent tax was in effect during the fiscal year in question) and the shifting of more school costs onto property owners.

Sales tax, for example, brought in $748 million in revenue compared with $443 million in the 1975-76 fiscal year, the last year the NDP were in office.

And the government shouldn't be proud of the revenue generated by the sale of gas and oil exploration permits, Stupich says, because they were granted at fire sale prices in order to build up the government's immediate revenue.

Stupich predicted that future generations would be the real losers in what he calls a case of desperate shortsighted financing.

Laudadio said Wolfe had no right looking so smug about the surplus when inflation is so high and unemployment at about nine per cent.

Laudadio said it's particularly ironic that on the same day the record government surplus was announced, Municipal Affairs and Housing Minister Hugh Curtis was railing at municipalities for accumulating what Curtis called "excessive and unwarranted surpluses."

Curtis said such surpluses would not be tolerated by the provincial government.

Wolfe's responsibility is to stabilize the economic activity of the province, the economics professor said. "Anyone can get a surplus by overtaxing."

But Laudadio says he does not counsel increased government spending to get rid of the surplus.

"That money would create more jobs and be put to far better use if it was left in the hands of the people," he said.

There are a number of obnoxious taxes — especially the sales tax — which should immediately be reduced.

Such a move puts more money in the hands of the poor who are most likely to turn around and spend it, setting off a chain reaction in the economy that economists call the multiplier effect.

This means that the economic activity increases by a multiple of two to two and a half every dollar the tax reduction leaves with the consumer.

Laudadio would not speculate on how many jobs this could create, but he said there's no doubt it would lead to a reduction in the unemployment rate.

Stupich said the surplus is nothing to boast about.

"Indeed, it should be a source of shame in these times when people are being taxed beyond their capacity to pay."

George Johnson, president of the B.C. Federation of Labor, said the surplus was shameful and the government should not be taking money out of the economy but should be putting it back in.

"I think it's disgraceful at this period when the economy is in poor shape that we have this type of surplus."

Bill Hamilton, president of the Employers' Council of B.C., said the government controlled expenditures well

He said no major tax cuts are needed at this time and a $140 million surplus in a $4 billion budget is very close to a balanced budget.

Don Lanskail, president of the Council of Forest Industries, said he hoped some of the surplus would be channelled into forest management programs.

"I really hope some of that money is used for management and tree planting programs but we've always favored a balanced budget so I suppose a surplus is even better."

T.O.M. Stalks Trustees

A Colwood carpenter who is determined to get cuts in property taxes is taking his fight to Sooke school trustees.

In a letter, Don Stansall has demanded trustees review their 1978-1979 budget of more than $16,600,000 with a view to a more realistic figure taxpayers can afford.

"If you feel at this time that re-examination of the budget would be futile, then I must demand all trustees of Sooke School District 62 resign immediately. The immediate resignation of all trustees will allow a new slate of trustees to be elected on Nov. 18," Stansall told the trustees.

He said the school district is responsible for 67 per cent of the property tax.

Que. Fight Dying Out

By PETER HADEKEL
Times Quebec Bureau

MONTREAL — Quebec's English speaking school system has all but conceded defeat in its battle against Bill 101.

The resistance campaign mounted last September after the language legislation was passed met with modest success as an estimated 3,000 children enrolled in English schools illegally last year.

But after the first two weeks of school this September it seems the protest movement is almost dead. Unfavorable court decisions and continued government firmness over the language law have taken the starch out of Quebec's language dissenters.

Under Bill 101, a child may attend English school if at least one parent received an elementary education in English in Quebec or if an older brother or sister is already enrolled.

Children of parents educated elsewhere in English may attend English school if the parents were resident in Quebec at the time Bill 101 was passed in August, 1977.

Last year, the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal refused to obey the law and threw its classes open to anyone wanting an English education.

The board took in 1,700 illegal students despite the Parti Quebecois government's decision to cut off per-student grants to the board amounting to $3 million.

The government also ruled that the illegal students would not be given report cards, diplomas or credit for their school work.

The board announced a public financing campaign to replace the lost grants and took the government to court over its failure to pay the money.

But the board lost its court case this summer and soon after the trustees voted 9 to 3 to give up their civil disobedience campaign and respect the law.

Stop Pushing Bilingualism, Gov't Told

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government should stop trying to promote bilingualism and realize there is an irreversible trend in both English- and French-Canada towards unilingualism, Leon Dion, a Laval University political science professor, said Wednesday.

Dion, a leading Quebec intellectual who was an unofficial adviser to former premier Robert Bourassa, said the government has erred in presenting proposals for a new constitution that attempt to spread bilingualism across the nation.

"The trend in Canada is not towards bilingualism but acceptance in each territory of co-existing unilingualism," he told a committee of MPs and senators studying the constututional proposals.

The federal government should take a cue from the Parti Quebecois, which made French the sole official language in Quebec.

Legislation such as the federal Official Languages Act which attempt to promote bilingualism only promote antagonism between the two founding ethnic groups and create unrealistic expectations such as being able to be served in French in Vancouver and Toronto, he said.

The Quebec City professor, who served on the royal commission into bilingualism and biculturalism during the 1960s, said the public service should remain bilingual and a new constitution should provide some guarantees for linguistic minorities in the provinces.

Nevertheless, the provinces should be able to declare themselves unilingual as Quebec did, he said.

Dion said he realized his ideas were contrary to the bilingualism policies of both the governing Liberals and Opposition Progressive Conservatives.

Raynald Guay (L—Levis) asked what kind of federalism would be necessary if Dion's thesis was accepted.

The professor replied he had no solutions but perhaps God could help.

20% Home Cost Cut If Tories Win: Clark

By PAUL WHITELAW
Times Ottawa Bureau

TORONTO — Conservative leader Joe Clark promised Wednesday a Tory government would reduce the average cost of buying a home by at least 20 per cent, allowing personal income tax deductions for mortgage interest and municipal taxes.

Clark, speaking at a news conference here in one of Canada's costliest metropolitan housing markets, said taxpayers would be allowed to deduct full annual interest costs on a mortgage of up to $50,000.

The program would apply to first mortgages on one principal residence.

Municipal taxes would be deductable up to a maximum annual limit of $1,000.

Clark told reporters that to reduce the immediate impact of tax losses to the federal treasury, the two deductions would be phased in over four years — a period he optimistically predicted would correspond to the life of a Conservative government.

In the first year after a Tory election victory, 25 per cent of mortgage interest and property taxes would be deductable; in the second, 50 per cent; in the third, 75 per cent, and 100 per cent, up to the allowable limits, would be deductable in the fourth year.

600 MILLION FACE DESPAIR

MONTREAL (CP) — More than 600 million people will be "living on the margins of existence" by the end of the century, even if there is optimal economic growth among the less developed countries, the Commonwealth secretary-general said Wednesday.

Shridath Ramphal told the opening session of the Commonwealth finance ministers' conference that efforts to combat international poverty with a new mix of the old responses developed during the last 25 years will prove fruitless.

Ramphal, addressing about 200 delegates from 35 of the Commonwealth's 37 countries, focussed attention on a recent World Bank report on world development.

It says that even on the optimistic assumption that the developing countries' economies generate the maximum possible output and income, there would virtually be no impact on absolute poverty by 1985.

The report is a background document for a World Bank meeting next week in Washington, D.C., where the Commonwealth officials will meet with their counterparts from around the world.

The report's value lies in its ability to "help shock mankind into abandoning current regressive trends and moving more vigorously towards" a new order, Ramphal said.

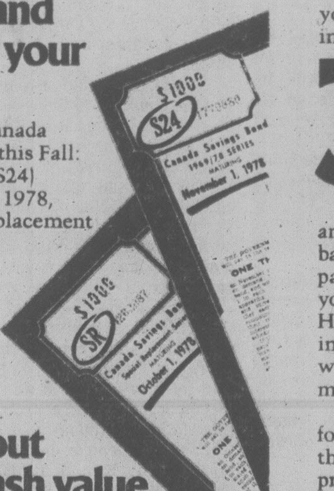
Do your Canada Savings Bonds mature this year?

Here are three easy steps to help you reinvest in new Canada Savings Bonds

1 Locate and identify your bonds

Two Series of Canada Savings Bonds mature this Fall:
☐ 1969/70 Series (S24) maturing November 1, 1978,
☐ 1968 Special Replacement Series (SR) maturing October 1, 1978.

Look for "S24" or "SR" preceding the serial number on the corner of your maturing bonds.



2 Find out the cash value of your bonds

At maturity, every holder of "S24" or "SR" bonds will receive the face value shown on the bond, plus a special cash bonus payment. In addition, depending on the type of bond you own and whether you have been clipping your interest coupons, you may also be entitled to receive interest up to an amount equal to the face value of your bonds. For example, if you own a $1,000 Coupon Bond with all interest coupons attached, you will receive at maturity:

	S24	SR
Face Value	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Cash Bonus Payment	115.00	177.50
Regular and Compound Interest	1,000.00	1,000.00
TOTAL VALUE	$2,115.00	$2,177.50

If you have any questions about the value of your bonds, just ask the people where you bank or invest after October 1.

3 Special arrangements make it easy to reinvest

After October 1, simply present your "S24" and "SR" Series Canada Savings Bonds to your bank or other authorized redemption agent. All the paper work in connection with the redemption of your bonds will be done for you at that time. Holders of "SR" bonds will receive their funds immediately. For "S24" bonds the transfer of funds will take place automatically on November 1, the maturity date of this Series.

In the same transaction, you can sign up for your new Canada Savings Bonds. And this year there is a dual purchase limit. You may reinvest all proceeds from your maturing bonds, including face value, cash bonus and interest, in the new Series. In addition, you may also buy up to $30,000 of the new Bonds. It's a great way to keep your money working for you!

Act soon

There are more than 900,000 Canadians who own maturing bonds. If you are one of them, go to your bank, investment dealer, trust company or credit union as soon as possible after October 1 and avoid the rush!

New Canada Savings Bonds offer you a great choice

New Canada Savings Bonds are dated November 1, 1978 and yield an average annual interest of 8.90% when held to maturity in 1985. Each new bond earns interest of 8.50% the first year and 9% for each of the remaining 6 years.

And you have a choice of bonds. There's a Regular Interest Bond that pays interest each year by cheque or, if you prefer, by direct deposit into your chequing or savings account. And a Compound Interest Bond that reinvests your interest automatically after the first year at the guaranteed annual rate of 8.90%.

Whichever type of bond you choose, you will own a safe, secure investment which can be turned into instant cash whenever you need it. Buying Canada Savings Bonds has been a great Canadian tradition for over 30 years. They're the proven choice.

Air Piracy

Every time a spectacular act of terrorism occurs, there are repeated calls for international action to halt this political cancer of modern times. Sometimes something gets done; witness the recent agreement of the leaders of the industrialized nations at the Bonn summit on an air hijacking countermeasure.

It was a simple, forceful idea: any nation allowing aircraft hijacked by terrorists to land would find airports in all of the nations party to the agreement closed to its own commercial aircraft, and the hijackers would be surrendered to the country where the aircraft was commandeered. As the signatories were the U.S., the Common Market nations, Canada and Japan, the threat of reprisal carries considerable economic clout.

The Bonn plan — first proposed by Prime Minister Trudeau, incidentally — has yet to be seriously tested as an anti-terrorist measure. Perhaps it will work — the western world's spine has been stiffened against political terrorism, and terrorists demoralized, by the successes at Entebbe and Mogadishu.

But international efforts against terrorism, by the United Nations and some of its specialized agencies, for example, appear to be very far off. There have been discussions at the UN of the problem but they always peter out when the talk turns to doing something. Treaties and international co-operation against airplane hijacking and terrorism will never materialize until the deep political differences between nations over what actually constitutes terrorism are bridged.

What is terrorism to a European prime minister, a black African nationalist calls fighting for freedom. Each holds this conviction firmly and sincerely, but out of radically different experiences. As long as diametrically opposite political beliefs contend for domination, with all that this implies in differing approaches to ends and means, there will be international incidents of terrorism.

Even those nations where air piracy and incidents of airborne terrorism arouse the greatest revulsion are guilty of a double standard sometimes. Just a month after the leaders of the western world formulated the Bonn agreement to attack air piracy unconditionally, a Polish jet was hijacked at West Berlin by an East German seeking political asylum.

It would seem to be a straightforward act of "terrorism." But at this date, hijacker Detlev Alexander Tiede remains on West German soil. German opinion was almost entirely on his side; the press explained at length that as long as East Germany forbids routine travel to the west, then its citizens will be compelled to resort to strenuous measures.

With this justification of hijacking on the grounds of ~~political~~ oppression by the communist sphere, left-wing terrorists will continue to exploit air piracy as a political weapon against the non-communist world. When supposedly ironclad international undertakings like the Bonn resolution are shown to have little loopholes which favor "good" hijackers, then it becomes an indifferent weapon to employ against the general problem of hijacking.

Yes, But It Works

Education Minister Pat McGeer says he is willing to introduce a new system of bargaining between teachers and school trustees — if the teachers and trustees can find one.

The minister described the current system as a "costly and elaborate war dance that goes on every fall," and said that if the participants could produce an alternative, he would be glad to recommend it to cabinet. McGeer should be glad that the only problem he has is a system that seems to take a long time and cost a lot of money.

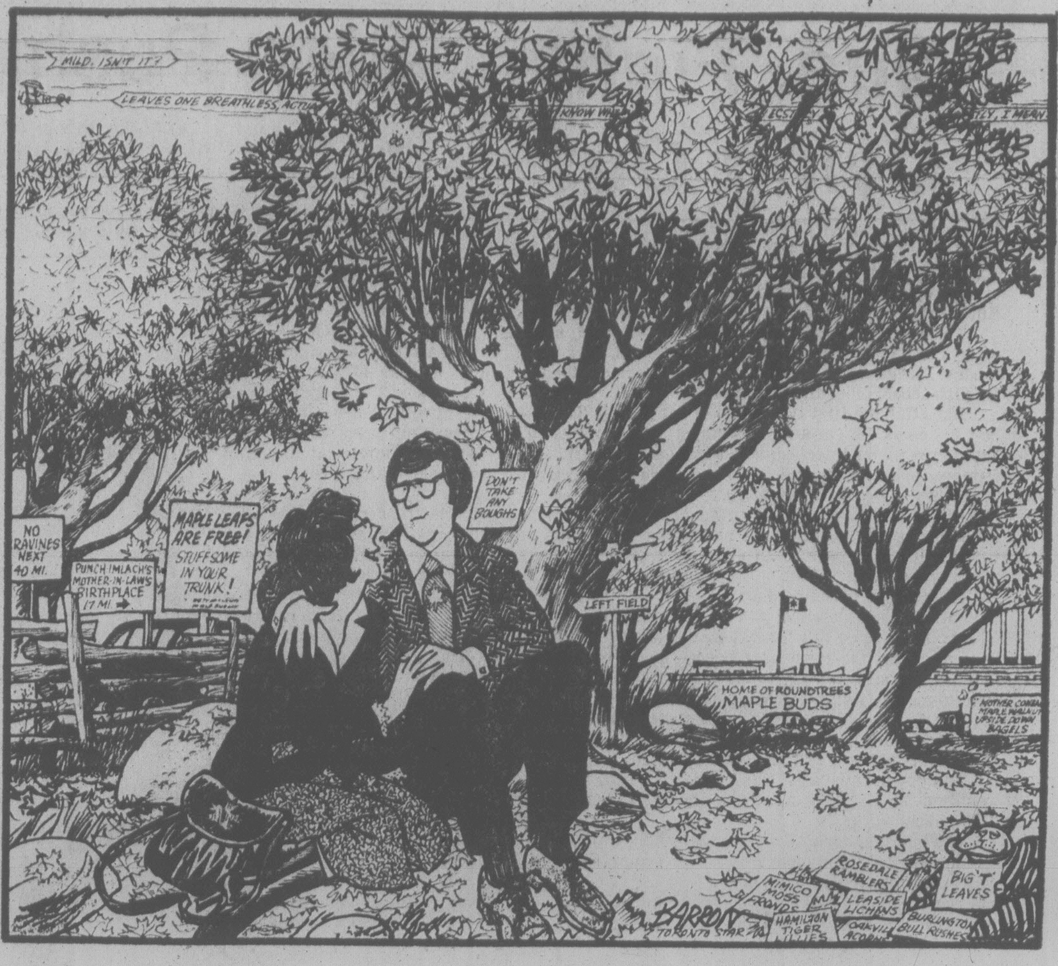
It is quite true the B.C. system of teacher bargaining has both those faults: it is essentially a system that relies on arbitration to settle the disputes in the end, and arbitration is an expensive, time-consuming system. It is also true that some school districts and teachers' associations probably bargain a little lackadaisically because they know the arbitration process is always there to fall back on if talks break down.

All the same, in today's labor climate, the current system has one overwhelming advantage that appears to overrule all its disadvantages. It works.

It works in that it gets contracts signed. More particularly, it gets them signed without work stoppages, and usually, it seems, without bad feeling on either side. The last teachers' strike in B.C. was so long ago that nobody can remember when it was.

There are few other professions or industries that can make that boast. Witness, for example, the current situation in Edmonton where school children have not yet been able to return for the fall term because their teachers, who work under a more traditional system of collective bargaining, are all on strike. As usual in public service strikes, it is the public interest — in this case the education of the children — that suffers the most.

McGeer should not change the system just because teachers and trustees don't like the time and money involved. He should insist that any new system should protect the public interest and prevent work stoppages as well as the present one does.



". . . oh Harold, I'm so excited you could get season's tickets for the hockey game . . . tell me the name of the Toronto team again . . . I can never remember the name . . ."

Energy Policy

The recent statement made by B.C. Hydro Chairman, Robert Bonner, is most disturbing:

"We must reawaken the public to the need, if not necessarily the desirability of nuclear power development. Nuclear power is growing rapidly in Ontario, starting in Quebec, soon will be needed in the Maritimes, and eventually will be needed in B.C."

Is B.C. Hydro under Mr. Bonner's direction to accomplish the reawakening or is he referring to the B.C. government? Whatever the policy is or will be demands clarification from the B.C. premier.

If in actual fact the government is disposed toward nuclear power then the concerned public must marshal its forces to halt any moves in this direction. The anti-nuclear lobby has successfully slowed down nuclear proliferation in the U.S. Similar action has to be taken here, including refusal by the labor unions to ever work on such diabolical projects.

To date there is no real energy and energy conservation policy in this province. Provincial and local levels of government are widening existing roads and building others to permit more vehicle utilization thus ensuring more consumption of oil/gasoline. There is a singular lack of planning and development of systems to utilize society's wastes (sewage and garbage) which will conserve both energy and non-renewable resources.

Though years late, the federal government is now attempting to promote the use, development and production of solar energy systems in Canada. No such promotion is evident from the B.C. government or its minions, B.C. Hydro and B.C. Energy Commission.

Our energy policy through B.C. Hydro appears committed toward continuous growth. As for the B.C. Energy Commission is it a puppet of the government or are its strings being pulled by B.C. Hydro?

It would be interesting to learn what policy recommendations were submitted to the B.C. cabinet by the Energy Commission earlier this year, or perhaps this is a secret document.

Our premier, Bill Bennett, in common with other political leaders, is concerned about employment. He is also an exponent of free enterprise. Let us hope his concern and interests can be welded together to stimulate the growth, development and production of renewable energy resource systems in B.C. The resultant economic and employment advantages would be welcomed by all. — Derrick Mallard, President, Citizens Association to Save the Environment.

Rhodesia: the Politics of Charity

By STUART UNDERHILL

The first white settlers to spread over the fertile land of Rhodesia are commemorated annually by Pioneer Day. This year was no exception. On Sept. 12, while a Union Jack fluttered overhead, crowds gathered in Salisbury to mark the 88th anniversary of the migration. The event had a special poignancy. With the end of white rule in sight, it may never be repeated.

Those Rhodesian pioneers were part of an exodus from western Europe, especially Britain, which put down roots in undeveloped areas with scant concern for the rights of the indigenous populations. Their governments supported them and fellow countrymen who stayed at home admired them. The white settler fighting off native attacks was automatically the hero. Conscience might prick later, but usually too late.

Heroes and Villains

The opening of the Canadian west was part of the general movement. Sometimes members of the same family sought fortunes by different routes. One brother might go to Canada, another to Africa. The Union Jack waved serenely over both. More than one family in Victoria today has Rhodesian relatives and friends with whom letters and visits are exchanged.

Within this family circle there is deep concern about the physical dangers that dominate rural life in Rhodesia: the constant alert against guerrilla attack, the dangerous security patrols that keep young men away from their farms for long periods. The black tide threatens to brim over and destroy them. As in the Indian-fighting of North America, the heroes are readily identified.

Where such emotional involvement exists any offer to succor the enemy, however vaguely the help or the enemy may be defined, is tantamount to treason. Those who were conscious of and sympathetic to the white man's precarious foothold in southern Africa therefore reacted violently when the World Council of Churches, in which Canada's principal Protestant churches are actively involved, announced that it was making an $85,000 grant to the Patriotic Front of Rhodesia, the most intransigent of the black independence groups.

The fact that the aid was intended for helpless civilian victims of black-white fighting did not temper their anger. The militant Patriotic Front, which so far has spurned the Salisbury agreement on which a new black-white society in Rhodesia might be based, was too easily identified as the enemy.

Those who have a personal involvement in Rhodesia were not alone in their protests. Many church-going people in Canada with little or no knowledge of the affairs of that faraway country are troubled by the grant to the Patriotic Front. It raises an age-old question about the role of the Christian church. Should its spiritual responsibility to mankind spill over into the turbulent worlds of commerce and politics?

Clergymen in Victoria whose churches are linked to the World Council have been fielding questions from worried parishioners ever since the grant was made. Some explain it as a simple act of Christianity. For others it is an act of deeper responsibility, part of a Christian crusade to free those whom they identify as the oppressed of the world.

"As Christians we believe our task is to help all who suffer the cruel consequences of war," said Rev. Albert E. King of Metropolitan Church (United Church of Canada) in a letter to the Times. "If someone is seriously wounded in crossfire between two opposing sides, we don't withhold aid until we determine who did the shooting and which side is right. We move in and help the sufferer. Our response is to the human condition and not to the political situation."

A broadside that reveals how sensitive the church is to the issue came from the Anglican church of Canada whose primate, Archbishop Ted Scott, is moderator of the World Council of Churches. It was touched off by an emotional editorial in Victoria's morning paper, The Daily Colonist. The paper's publisher has family ties with Rhodesia and makes no bones about where his sympathies lie.

The editorial described the grant to the Patriotic Front as an "incredible decision" and accused the Anglican church of hypocrisy in supporting it. It said the World Council was doing all in its power to hinder a search for a peaceful solution in Rhodesia.

The Anglican bishop of British Columbia, Rt. Rev. F.R. Gartrell, responded with a testy letter to the Colonist which denounced the editorial as absurd and untrue. He quoted extensively from an editorial in The Sunday Times of London which said the council "is making the humanitarian judgment that the Front has the sole care of a large number of unfortunates and needs help in looking after them."

The strongest reaction from the Anglican church came from Rev. Robert MacRae, rector of St. John the Divine on Quadra Street, a man with international experience in church aid to refugees. He took to his pulpit last Sunday to express his views, an act of stubborn courage since he knew that many of his parishioners would be opposed to them.

To judge from his remarks, the political factor is inseparable from the humanitarian factor in dealing with the Rhodesian situation. The regime of Ian Smith is illegal and the provisional government proposed in the Salisbury agreement is unrecognized by any other country, he said.

Furthermore, if implemented, the agreement would perpetuate domination of the black majority by the white minority, MacRae said. No wonder influential black groups like the Patriotic Front refused to accept its terms. No wonder other governments declined to endorse it: "Western powers fear any agreement that would encourage the Patriotic Front to invite Cuban forces or increase the use of communist-supplied military resources."

MacRae stressed that all church aid in Africa and elsewhere is for humanitarian purposes. The $85,000 to the Patriotic Front was "paltry" in contrast to other expenditures, including $3 million within Rhodesia itself.

ONE MAN

Who Is Right?

"Withholding help from anyone in need means that the church would be unfaithful to its Lord's own example and the Gospel imperatives," he said. "Indeed, to withhold help we would quite rightly be accused of playing political games. However, if we share limited church resources to assist the victims of both sides, where then is the judgment?"

MacRae took a predictable swipe at the media for its failure to report all aspects of the Rhodesian situation. He himself ran into a problem familiar to the media: time was too short to cover all aspects. Thus we did not hear of the current rifts within the Patriotic Front, or of the intricate, behind-the-scenes manoeuvres to find a constitutional formula acceptable to it, moves all too often jeopardized by the Front's penchant for child abduction and atrocity.

Men like Bob MacRae are fortunate to be so unswerving in their convictions and to hold them at a time when they are acceptable to the church hierarchy. Less fortunate are those who believe that the gentle solace they identify with Jesus Christ is somehow being overwhelmed in a dangerous game of power politics.

God alone knows who is right.

Give 'Em a Trade

With half of B.C.'s construction workers unemployed and a prediction for worse conditions yet to come in the year ahead, it seems that there is a huge drain on the unemployment funds in this job area. Something is very wrong when people can take up a trade where there is no probable employment for them. This is a common habit and fault of the potential work force in today's society. Perhaps it is too easy to get funds for doing nothing, and this is what appeals to these people. It is destroying the fibre of the young, as they no longer look for a challenge in life, because it is all too easy not to. With money the end-all and be-all of their existence, why do anything that takes any effort if it isn't necessary? If there is no work for them in their line, why shouldn't they seek any job available at any rate of pay? If not why should they be given benefits? How about the old adage of "an honest day's work for an honest day's wages!" Why must only the same type of job at the same rate of pay be found for them and refused by them, before they can be refused by the UIC? Why shouldn't they be given a compulsory free government course in another necessary trade in the area they wish to live in, if they don't care to take any available job?

More trade schools with a wide variety of courses and easy entrance qualifications sponsored by the government as part of the educational system, from grade eight and up and for all age groups, would be needed. The money saved from the UIC and the wasted schooling on the wasted youth of society, could be used to help finance these. The savings in humanity, crime and associated costs, let alone all the extra useful hands available to profit from these trades when they were finally put to work in industry, would be in line with a new conserver society. The Canadian merchant navy should be reborn and in conjunction with it, the government, or private sector, or both, should develop viable goods and services industries that can utilize the merchant ships. Many hands would be necessary to work the factories and the ships and make Canada more prosperous and self-supporting. But most of all it would save the wasted humanity, in mind as well as body and perhaps start a return to the worthwhile values of the past. — Joan Bittorf, 1073 Davie Street.

Quebec: Another Cuba Crisis?

It is doubtful that Rene Levesque's vaguely-defined economic association would offset the subersive threat if Quebec withdrew from Confederation.

By ROWLAND MANS

The Institute for the Study of Conflict, a London-based private organization whose members include military men and academics who are students of subversion, has recently issued a report on subversion and terrorism in Canada. The following excerpts from the concluding sections of the report are reprinted from the Vancouver Sun. Major General Mans, a British career military officer, has served as an instructor at Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont.

A subversive threat of the utmost gravity, masterminded and co-ordinated by the Soviet KGB, undoubtedly exists in Canada. The political situation in Quebec, in particular, provides an ideal environment for the growth of subversion, for not only are there sufficient dissident elements to be fostered and supported but these can also be penetrated by dedicated Marxists.

Those who in their naivete believe that they will achieve their political aims in alliance with militant Marxists and yet preserve the existing democratic framework will find that when the Marxist juggernaut really gets under way, they will be the first to go to the wall.

It would be strange if the United States and the North Atlantic Treaty Organizatin were not maintaining a very careful scrutiny of current political events in Canada. Apart from the very real opportunity for Russia and, indeed, other powers not especially well disposed to the Western alliance to exploit unrest in Quebec, any material change in the province's relationship with the rest of Canada will have a profound effect on the strategic stability of North America — the heartland of the Western deterrent against total war.

Guarded Reaction from U.S.

Thus far, official United States reaction to separatism has been guarded. The White House appreciates that Canadians are particularly sensitive to any overt interference in their internal affairs from south of the border.

Nevertheless, any move by Quebec away from unity with the rest of Canada, even short of secession, would cause alarm bells to ring loudly in Washington, for Canada in crude terms is the United States' strategic early warning system. Washington must take account of the contingency that a future government in Quebec, even of only quasi independent status, might be tempted, especially if it were left-inclined, to buy some kind of questionable neutrality at the expense of the defence of the United States.

Just how long the United States would be prepared to stand idly by if the situation worsened north of its borders would be a matter of nice judgment. The threat of the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the vital seaway into the heart of the continent being controled by a power capable of denying the strategically vital contiguous Quebec air space and coastal waters would make the 1962 Cuba crisis dwindle into insignificance.

Moreover, both NATO and U.S. strategic thinking would be haunted by the possibility of the "domino theory" becoming a reality within Canada itself; would Canada survive as one entity if Quebec separated?

It is often overlooked that the western provinces, especially relatively affluent Alberta and British Columbia, have from time to time expressed their own misgivings over Confederation in its present form. An independent Quebec might well cause them to seek their own destinies.

Certainly a separate Quebec interposed between west and east would have a catastrophic effect on the Maritime provinces, never Canada's most prosperous area; indeed, they could become a North American Bangladesh. It is doubtful whether such a divided Canada could remain autonomous for long before being absorbed by the United States.

Even if the rest of Canada survived the shock of secession or separation, it is problematical whether the other provinces would be well disposed toward Rene Levesque's vaguely defined "economic association." The likely attitude would be nearer that expressed by one of Canada's leading businessmen: "The one who breaks up the marriage must not expect to take away the furniture."

Wilder elements in the PQ privately threaten extreme retaliation, such as closing the St. Lawrence Seaway, if the rest of Canada declines to co-operate with their new state. However fantastic such threats may seem, they indicate that there is a ready supply of dry tinder which, if it did not actively generate conflagration, would ensure a sullen antagonism that could jeopardize existing defence arrangements.

Whatever the equivocation in the rest of Canada over even contemplating military action, the PQ has not shied away from recognizing that force may be used against Quebec. Marcel Sauve, a military thinker close to Rene Levesque, has argued in the now defunct Le Jour that Quebec needs a military deterrent against the rest of Canada.

Plans for a Citizens' Army

To achieve this, Sauve propounds a detailed plan for a citizen army on the Swiss pattern, based on conscription. He sees the latter as an excellent disciplinary education for Quebec youth as well as a way of building up a military force quickly. It is also noteworthy that Sauve is keenly aware of Quebec's vulnerable eastern littorals, for he talks of giving priority to the estabilishment of a small professional navy.

It would be dangerous to dismiss Sauve's ideas as naive. In spite of Quebec's opposition to conscription in the 20th century, it was a fundamental institution in the Ancien Regime. Therefore, any call for its return now could be seen by many as one more way of fostering French-Canadian nationalism. Whether or not young Quebecers would be prepared to go this far in their enthusiasm for survivance is perhaps open to question.

John Starnes put Canada's current crisis in vivid terms when writing in the October, 1977, edition of Survival. In discussing the problems inherent in any move toward independence by Quebec, he wrote:

"Whatever the outcome and whenever the matter may be decided, none of this should give much comfort to Canada's friends and allies. It means that Canada, for over 25 years a stable if not always enthusiastic partner in NATO can no longer be considered as such.

Battlefield in a Secret War

The Soviet Union is acutely aware of the strategic value of Canada to the NATO alliance and to the United States. In the secret war between the Soviets and the U.S, Canada is a major battlefield. Therefore, it goes without saying that Russia and her surrogates will strain every subversive sinew to extract the maximum advantage from Canada's current constitutional turmoil.

The origins of the Canadian crisis are deeply rooted in its history, yet this is no reason to deem the current problems insoluable. Indeed, there are now a few encourageing signs that rational discussion is replacing emotional prejudice in the national debate. Moreover, eventual economic recovery could do much to relieve present tensions.

In the nation's short history, the fractious quarrel between French-Canadian and Anglo-Saxon has resulted in constant political confrontation, erupting from time to time into violence. Ironically, the 1867 constitution, with its inbuilt checks and balances, has over the years become a major obstacle to a satisfactory solution. It is to be hoped that the recent proposals for radical amendments to the constitituion will go a long way toward convincing the Quebecois that whatever the past injustices, real or imaginary, they are now "first-class Canadians" in every way.

Labor Unrest Bodes Ill for Chile Junta

By HUGH O'SHAUGHNESSY
London Observer

The government of General Agusto Pinochet is surveying the bruises it has received after the tensest month it has ever spent in conflict with Chilean organized labor. The conflict is a bad omen for Pinochet's future on the eve of the fifth anniversary of his bloody military coup on Sept. 11, 1973.

At the beginning of last month the miners at Chuquicamata, the world's largest opencast mine in the middle of the waterless Atacama desert in far northern Chile, decided that they had had enough of the strict control over wages, steadily rising prices and continuous erosion of their standards of living that they have been suffering since 1973.

As strikes are banned in Chile and thousands of trade union leaders have gone to their deaths for opposing the policies of the military junta, the action of the miners at Chuqui, as it is familiarly known, did not take the form of an all-out stoppage. Instead workers simply decided to boycott the works canteen and thus demonstrate the strength of their feeling while minimizing risks to individual workers.

The timing of the miners' action could not have been worse from the junta's point of view. Pinochet is already under great pressure from the U.S. government because of the evidence of his clear implication in the murder of Orlando Letelier, a minister in the previous left-wing government, in Washington two years ago.

In addition, the powerful U.S. trade union federation, the AFL-CIO, a body usually in the past allied to the most conservative political groupings in Latin America, publicly warned Pinochet that if there was not some improvement in the trade union situation in Chile it would declare economic warfare on him.

Across the eastern border Argentina is making bellicose noises in the dispute about the Beagle Channel near Cape Horn and the junta has few friends among the politicians of Europe. Not least important is the fact that the stoppage at Chuqui has allowed the Catholic Church once again to express its hostility to the junta's policies towards organized labor.

Lawrence Remains a Hero To Lowell Thomas at 86

By HENRY ALLEN
Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Lowell Thomas, who is 86 now, has been blessed by the three-breasted goddess at Madura, filmed the legendary Leopard Men of Africa and smashed his thighbone in the 17,000-foot fastnesses of the Tibetan Himalayas.

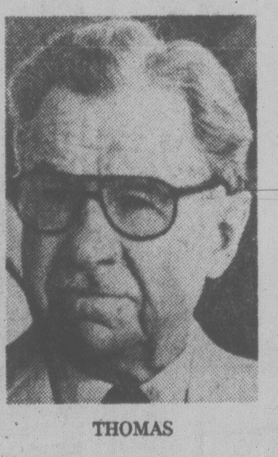
The other day, he ordered an omelette at the Palm Restaurant. The globe-girdling radio legend stopped eating it when he was asked about his hero, Lawrence of Arabia, and the latter-day attacks on him, such as Malcolm Muggeridge calling Lawrence a "mendacious little sodomite."

The reply, like a lot of Thomas replies, required a bit of unfolding.

"I never got into politics, but I would like to get in now," he began in that winning-friends-and-influencing-people baritone that resonated for 53 straight years on radio ("Good evening, everybody . . ."), crackled out of the Fox Movietone news, and nowadays underscores TV's Lowell Thomas Remembers.

"I would like to help some man become president. When he got to be president (dramatic pause) he would name me ambassador (dramatic pause) to the Court of St. James. For one year. Long enough that I could address the major gatherings, at the Pilgrim's Club at the Guild Hall, for instance.

"I would tell the British how stupid they've been. Lawrence played a key role in ending World War I and then the bastards try to tear him apart. I would like to be ambassador someplace where I could tactfully tell them . . . the Pilgrims Club . . ."



THOMAS

Thomas made a million dollars in 1919 showing his films of Lawrence, shouting the narration over orchestral accompaniment for two hours to crowds in Madison Square Garden, the Royal Albert Hall, crowds all over the English-speaking world.

That was just the beginning of Thomas' metamorphosis from Colorado newspaperman and Princeton professor into an international celebrity.

"After 80," he likes to say, "everything reminds you of something."

At the restaurant, for instance, he ran into Cornelius Roosevelt, grandson of Teddy. "Teddy used to hunt on the north rim of the Grand Canyon," he said over his omelette. "He had a guide who used to climb trees and capture mountain lions by sticking his hand down their throats. I had him on my radio show. People were frightened of radio back then. He wet his pants. This mountain lion strangler got up and the chair was wet."

Thomas, of course, is one of the last of yet another breed: the raconteur.

Just in passing a few minutes, he can mention Norman Vincent Peale, Mickey Rooney, Gerald Ford, polar explorers Scott and Amundsen, Clarence Darrow, Jimmy Doolittle, Dale Carnegie. One of his regrets in life, he says, was that "when I was doing the Lawrence shows, every night my manager would tell me: "Shaw's in the audience! Kipling! Hardy!' And I never had time to meet them."

The Nazis Were English

katharine whitehorn

LONDON — First America, tomorrow the world: Holocaust is burning its way through country after country and this month it has been Britain's turn.

The four-part U.S. epic on Hitler's destruction of the Jews has produced reactions ranging from outrage that the greatest tragedy in human history should be turned into soap opera at all, to the feeling that, for all its tastelessness, it's better to have a new generation told what happened than to leave it in ignorance — especially since half of Germany's schoolchildren have apparently only the haziest idea who Hitler was.

But there was another TV series put out by the BBC recently which may have made Holocaust's most important point more effectively than the American horror story ever did.

An Englishman's Castle, starring film actor Kenneth Moore, imagined a Britain after a German victory, with Nazi overlords dictating to the BBC and The Times, the beating-up going on in a normal British police station.

One youngster put his finger on it when he said, "It seemed so awful that the people who were Nazis weren't Germans, they were ordinary English people."

The point of going over what happened with Hitler is not to show that disgusting and unspeakable things occur, but to see how a nation can gradually get to the state where such things can happen. It's easy to condemn persecution, once it's all over; what's far more uncomfortable is the realization that it isn't just beastly Germans who can behave like that; it's anybody, it's all of us, it's "the darkness in the heart of man."

To see, as we saw in An Englishman's Castle, people just like ourselves making reasonable-sounding noises about Nazism, to hear familiar voices describe outrage as "grossly exaggerated," brave gestures as "useless heroics," abominable betrayals as "it's only realistic" — that tells you something about how tyranny grows and thrives; simply watching horror pictures does not.

And in this respect the British have had a sharper lesson than the cushioned Americans. They were given Jews and heroes who woke with American accents — but the wicked Nazis were made to speak with English voices, to spare American feelings.

Did the makers of Holocaust think the Americans couldn't take it? Or did they just think the public could take it, all right, but that the sponsors would have thought it bad for sales?

The chart above shows you all the standard features Le Car gives you that other small cars don't. But there are other reasons for buying Le Car that no chart can show you.

A small car with big-car roominess.

No chart can show you how much comfort you enjoy when you drive Le Car.

The kind of comfort that comes from having more room than you'd expect inside a small car. And more room than you'd get from some big cars: more front headroom and legroom, for example, than luxury cars like the BMW 530i and the Jaguar XJ6L.

A new standard in small-car ride.

No chart can show you the remarkably smooth ride that Car and Driver says sets "a new standard for small cars." Underneath a body even shorter than Honda Civic's is a wheelbase longer than any other car listed above. This longer wheelbase gives Le Car an exceptionally bumpless, shockless, stable ride.

A small sedan that outperforms sports cars.

No chart can show you the kind of handling and performance that have steered Le Car to 52 racing victories in the Sports Car Club of America's Showroom Stock Class "C," beating out-and-out sports cars like MG's, Triumph Spitfires, and Fiat X 1/9's.

And no chart can show you all the little touches of luxury, craftsmanship, and thoughtfulness that make Le Car such a pleasure in normal driving. Touches like side-window defoggers, individual front seats that move up as they move forward to make getting into the back seat easy, an optional sunroof larger than those on any other car in the class, and the amazingly solid sound of a well-made car that you get whenever you slam one of Le Car's doors.

So if you're considering small cars, make sure Le Car is one of them. Between its features and its price, if you buy a small car without driving Le Car first, you could be making a big mistake.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

A father and his son elected trial by judge and jury Wednesday in provincial court on a charge of conspiracy to possess $33,120 in counterfeit U.S. $20 bills.

Georges Girard Normand, 51, of 1250 Pembroke, and Real Joseph Georges Normand, 27, of 1445 Simon, are jointly charged with 26-year-old Daniel Joseph Jacques Vallee, 2111 Spring.

Vallee elected trial by judge and jury Sept. 13 and a preliminary hearing date was expected to be set Wednesday by Judge Harold Alder.

But defence lawyers William Southward (for Georges Normand), Derek Brindle (Real Normand), and Malcolm Macaulay (Vallee) were not able to agree on a date with Crown counsel Richard Law and the trio was remanded until today to set the hearing date.

A 25-year-old woman was charged with two counts of false pretences and one of impersonation involving controlled drugs.

Lorna Price, also known as Lorna Lesher, 1318 Walnut, was remanded until Friday for bail hearing and possible election.

Richard Maurice Stanley, 26, was declared unfit to stand trial and remanded to Riverview's Forensic Psychiatric Institute on the Lower Mainland to "await the pleasure of the lieutenant-governor."

Stanley was charged with breaking into the Empress Hotel at about 6 a.m. Sept. 4 and causing wilful damage to gauges and fluorescent lights in the boiler room.

"I'm quite fit to stand trial," Stanley told the judge.

It was the first words he had spoken in a number of appearances in court.

Fined for drinking-driving were: Hugh Love, 46, of 145 Wellington, $400; Patrick Michael O'Neil, 18, of 1936 Kings, $400; Michael Frederick Rush, 19, of 614 Esquimalt, $400; David Bruce McFarland, 21, of 4674 Deerwood, $400; and Robert Willman; 17, of 1115 Donna, $100.

In addition, Willman was placed on 12 months' probation and ordered to perform 100 hours of community service work.

'Terrible Record' Judge Tells Youth

Burglary plus theft of motorbikes committed while on probation added up to a jail term for 17-year-old Richard Allen Ferguson Wednesday in county court.

Ferguson pleaded guilty to two charges before Judge Leslie Cashman, who said before considering sentence that Ferguson had "a terrible record" for one so young — both as a juvenile and adult offender.

He imposed nine months to be served in Haney correction centre, with six months indeterminate sentence, "and if at all possible at Boulder Bay Camp where he may receive the direction and guidance he so badly needs," Cashman said.

Ferguson took a motorcycle, owned by George Dalziel, from a parking lot at 2940 Douglas, picked up a juvenile friend and went joyriding Aug. 26. They ended up at Goldstream Park where they pushed the bike over a 100-foot cliff, causing $500 damage.

Five nights later, in company with the same 15-year-old, Ferguson broke into a skylight at Brooklands Motorcycle Sales and Service Ltd., 937 Fort. They made two trips through a rear door into Pioneer Square, each taking a motorbike which they failed to start, said Crown counsel R.A. Mulligan.

They went back, took two more bikes out and were able to start these before returning again to the shop to take black leather jackets, helmets and belt buckles.

These motorcycles were valued at $1,589 and $1,300, Mulligan said.

Ferguson, who had been on probation for two earlier convictions including theft of a motorcycle, was arrested later.

Counsel Patrick Sweeney said Ferguson had been drinking and to some extent was misled by the 15-year-old, who had accompanied him on earlier occasions. He said the accused had an unhappy childhood, had been mistreated by his father and finally was the victim of a broken home.

Cashman said Ferguson had apparently been unable to rehabilitate himself and did not respond to previous jail sentences and probation orders, and it was in the best interests of the public and himself that he serve a jail sentence where discipline and direction would be available to him.

Museum Debt Cut

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal Museum of Fine Arts reduced its accumulated deficit from $1,110,000 to $38,000 at June 30 thanks to special grants from the Quebec government and National Museums Canada, the museum announced Tuesday.

RIDE & POWER:
The Chevette won't ride like a Datsun 210, because it doesn't have the 210's independent front, 4-link coil rear suspension. And it's power to weight ratio is less than that of the 210.

MANOEUVERABILITY & MODEL CHOICE:
The Omni and Horizon can't turn in the 210's 32.8 ft. circle. And they only offer 2 different body styles versus 4 for the 210.

COMFORT & CARGO ROOM:
You get 3.0" more legroom in a new 210 than the 40.0" in Corolla. And Corolla's cargo area is less than the roomy 9.0 cubic feet in the 210.

ECONOMY:
The VW Rabbit can't match the low 6.9 litres per 100 kilometres* gasoline economy of the new Datsun 210. And it can't match 210's prices either.

WHERE OTHER ECONOMY CARS LEAVE OFF, THE '79 DATSUN 210 KEEPS RIGHT ON GOING.

The Datsun 210 – new for '79. Put it all together for yourself. Sit in it. Stretch out. You'll find you have more head and shoulder room than you'd have in a GLC.

Ride in it. With an independent front suspension, a 4 link coil rear suspension, and wider track, you'll be enjoying a much smoother ride than you'd have in either a GLC or a Chevette. Park it. You'll need a lot less turning space for this than you'd need for an Omni or Horizon. Drive it. You'll go at least 150 kilometres* further on a tank of gasoline* than you would in a VW Rabbit.

The new Datsun 210 comes with an impressive list of standard features, too. And Datsun dares to put its six year anti-corrosion policy in writing. The new Datsun. See it at your local dealer.

Keep Name The Same, Voters Order

VANCOUVER, Wash. (CP) — Vancouver, Wash., voters like the name of their city the way it is.

They voted by a 70.4-per-cent margin this week against a proposal to vote on changing their city's name, which some viewed as a way to end confusion with Vancouver, B.C.

With all 179 precincts counted, 5,131 persons voted against any effort to change the name of this southwest Washington city on the Columbia River.

A favorable vote would have put on a later ballot the question of what to call the city.

A purely advisory question on whether to change the name to Fort Vancouver also was unpopular. Only 2,177 persons said they liked the sound of Fort Vancouver, while 4,932 or 69.3 per cent said they did not.

Vancouver city councilman Martin Wolf led the drive to place the name-change issue on the ballot. He said the Canadian Vancouver runs away with with prize in any name familiarization contest.

Rhodesia Letting Kent In

TORONTO (CP) — Peter Kent, the CBC's new African correspondent who was ordered to leave Rhodesia when he arrived Monday, now has received permission to enter Rhodesia, a CBC executive producer said today.

Trina McQueen, executive producer of national television news for the CBC, said the Rhodesian government will allow Kent to enter the country and report if he still wants to.

Kent flew to Rhodesia on Monday to begin a two- to three-week assignment there and was to join producer Don Dixon, a cameraman and a soundman who had been in Salisbury since Friday.

Kent was stopped at the airport in Salisbury, was refused a visitor's visa and was put on a plane to London by immigration officials.

"There hasn't been any explanation at all," Mrs. McQueen said. "Our belief is in fact it was a mistake."

Kent is to leave London tonight and arrive in Salisbury on Thursday, she said.

"It seems now that Kent will be given a military pass to cover military operations," Mrs. McQueen said.

Kenneth H. Towsey, director of the Rhodesian information ministry in Washington, D.C., said Tuesday that "this is a general comment on the refusal to allow Mr. Kent into the country, but we have found CBC reporting of the Rhodesian scene to be extremely biased."

"There is some evidence to suggest that he was trying to sneak into the country without going through the proper channels," Towsey said.

Kent said in an interview Tuesday that "we think we have been fair and even-handed."

"There are some aspects that are unpleasant to people living outside Rhodesia, but it is not biased reporting."

Kent said he was not trying to sneak in and had sent a telegram to the head of the information ministry last week saying that he would be joining the camera crew in Salisbury.

It is his first assignment since he was made head of the network's African bureau. He previously was principal reader for The National, CBC's major nightly newscast on television.

DUNCAN MAN FINED FOR MISLEADING AD

A Duncan man who operates a business out of St. Catharines, Ont., has been fined $7,500 for misleading advertising.

John H. Tobe was one of 35 individuals and companies convicted in the April-June period listed in the federal consumer affairs department's quarterly misleading advertising bulletin.

Tobe advertised that the book Cataract, Glaucoma and Other Eye Disorders contained cures and ways of preventing those diseases.

The claims were untrue, the federal consumer affairs department reported Wednesday.

Other convictions listed in the bulletin:

Daon Development Corp., Victoria, fined $1,000 for advertising houses for sale at an eight-per-cent mortgage rate when in fact only 10¼-per-cent first mortgages were available, the payments on which could be reduced by a Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. interest reduction loan repayable over five years;

Sea Gull Leasing Ltd., now carrying on business as Budget Rent-A-Car, of Langley, fined $500 for advertising a special weekend car rental rate of $13.95. Investigation showed that cars could not be rented at that price.

Gas Spill In Sewer System

EDMONTON (CP) — Police and firemen cut natural gas and power supplies to 40 city homes Wednesday after a tanker truck crashed and spilled some 32,000 litres of gasoline into the sewer system.

Gasoline vapors seeped into the basements of the surrounding homes but there was only one fire, which was caught in its early stages and caused only minor damage.

Ken McLeod, deputy fire chief, said it he was surprised the spilled gasoline had not ignited. The resulting explosion would have levelled scores of houses, he said.

Police said the truck's driver apparently lost control while negotiating a traffic circle during rush-hour.

MDs Set to Move Out of Medicare

FAIRMONT HOT SPRINGS (CP) — The British Columbia Medical Association must "start moving so members have some options like balance billing and opting out" of the province's medicare plan, BCMA President Dr.Tony Milobar said Wednesday.

"These are ways we are going to have to go," Milobar told the annual meeting of the BCMA general practice section.

Participation in the plan to opt out or charge extra will be voluntary and some doctors will probably not want to get involved, he said.

Milobar said the association has received hints from government that doctors will be allowed only a four per cent fee increase.

Health Minister Bob McLelland is touring hospitals in northern B.C. and was unavailable for comment.

Negotiations are expected to begin in November between the BCMA and the provincial government to hammer out a fee schedule to take effect next April.

Under federal anti-inflation board rules, fee increases were limited to 5.6 per cent in 1976 and 7.2 per cent in 1977.

Milobar said there is "no way" that doctors can live with a four-per-cent increase this time.

Animals Take Kids' Place

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pets are being born at a greater rate than people in Canada now because animals are taking the place of children in today's society, Dr. Wally Stonehouse, chairman of the humane practices committee of the Canadian Veterinary Medicine Association, said Tuesday.

Stonehouse told a news conference during the annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Humane Societies that this trend has become well defined during the last four or five years.

"Fewer and fewer children are being born and as a result people are keeping pets as a replacement," he said.

"Also, there are more and more broken homes and often one member of this family acquires a pet because he or she has no one else to talk to. These are trends which have led to a greater number of pets in our homes."

Nuclear Industry Propped?

TORONTO (CP) — An environmental group says a study which called for acceleration of domestic nuclear power programs is an attempt to prop up a dying industry.

Chris Conway of Energy Probe said in an interview that the Canadian Nuclear Association study is an attempt by the nuclear industry to cut its losses in a slow economy.

With the combination of rising prices, energy conservation and slow economic growth, it is natural for the nuclear power industry to lose business, Conway said.

The study said Canada's nuclear industry is under-utilized and losing export potential. It recommended acceleration of domestic nuclear power programs and increased exports of CANDU nuclear power stations.

Conway added that Canada already has a surplus of power generating capacity and does not require increased nuclear power development.

The Canadian Nuclear Association is composed of nuclear industry firms, Ontario Hydro and researchers in universities and government agencies.

U.K. Seal Hunt Latest Target

LONDON (Reuter) — Greenpeace, an international conservationist movement, said today it will send volunteers to Scotland's Orkney islands in October to interfere with a government-sponsored seal kill.

A Greenpeace trawler, Rainbow Warrior, will carry 20 volunteers to breeding areas in an attempt to prevent Norwegian marksmen from killing thousands of grey seals.

The department of agriculture and fisheries for Scotland has hired a Norwegian firm to kill 900 female seals with their pups and 500 molted seals.

Openings In PPCLI Cadet Unit

A few openings are left for male and female cadets, aged 13 to 19, in the 2483 Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry Army Cadet Corps, Capt. Bob Lekivetz said today.

Training is Tuesday and Thursday evenings, on weekends and at summer camps.

The evening programs include training in map and compass, first-aid, drill, radio communications and small arms instruction.

About every two months weekend camps are held at which the cadets learn mountain rapelling, outdoor survival techniques, map and compass, as well as sports.

Those joining the corps now can also qualify for three or six-week summer courses at army cadet camps.

For further information Lekivetz can be reached at 479-8166.

Right Opera Choices This Time

By AUDREY JOHNSON
Times Staff

It seems the Vancouver Island Opera Society has made all the right choices this time around.

The first night of The Bartered Bride proved Wednesday that the opera, the directors, designers and most of the cast worked to the mutual benefit of everyone, including the audience.

In general the impression is that the production, fourth in the society's short history, is not only the most colorful and animated, but the best balanced and co-ordinated of them all.

Its run at the McPherson Playhouse, unfortunately, is a short one — Friday and Saturday performances ending with a Sunday matinee — but all opera lovers should make a point of seeing it.

Bartered Bride is a folk opera only in the sense that it deals with Czechoslavakian folk traditions. Smetana's rich, exquisitely melodious and spirited score borrows scarcely at all from folk music except in inspiration in the several vivid dance sequences.

In Timothy Vernon VanIsle Opera had found the ideal conductor. To his musicianship and technical brilliance are added an authoritative knowledge of the style and character of the work which brought the whole vividly to life.

His personal style is dynamic and impassioned — a total immersion of self in the score and with the forces under his command. Tempos were excellent and the whole opera moved constantly with a consistent focused intensity.

Anthony Jenkins' staging was well conceived and fluid with the massed scenes particularly pleasing in movement and composition. His innovations to the text also worked well; the village wedding for instance, incorporated into the opening and sustained throughout, underscoring the bride theme and lending point to the actions of the chorus.

Ensemble numbers are a constant delight as to vocal balance and grace in phrasing and much of the solo work is well handled. A great deal seems to have been learned by the singers concerning acting with the result that most scenes have meaning and life.

Richard Margison has come a long way and his fine tenor voice is one of the opera's real plusses in the "hero" role of Jenik, the lover who apparently barters his sweetheart for money.

There is a truly lovely phrase or two from Erika Kurth in a tiny but eye- and ear-catching role; a good performance (with unclear words but otherwise vocally capable) by Hans Steffen as the wily marriage broker, and a delightful performance both as to singing and characterization by Rory Hammond.

Soprano Pierann Moon, a former Victorian who has been studying abroad and in Toronto, proves herself an appealing and believable actress and undoubtedly the possessor of a voice of quality and potential beauty.

But at this point there are problems in production — an unevenness, a tendency to force tone, particularly in the higher register and an excessive and too broad vibrato. Strangely, Miss Moon's use of her voice before she left the city nearly three years ago revealed none of these problems. Hopefully she will find her way out of the present predicament, for her instrument is too fine a one and her artistic capability too positive to conceive of her not finding a solution.

There are nicely-done support performances from Peter Bradley, Peggy Packard, Bert Johnston, David Bird, young Andrew Sabiston, Nancy Holmes and Michael Eckford.

Adding much to the brilliance and enchantment of the production is the dancing, particularly in the second and third acts. Choreographer Gini Lefever has done excellent work in reflecting Czech national dance throughout, but especially so in the highlight scene in Act III when the circus arrives with its tumblers, jugglers and acrobats to the familiar music of the Dance of the Comedians. This whole scene is so well designed and executed that it deserves in itself a standing ovation.

Tom Taggart is responsible for a picture-perfect set that works well for the actors and does not clutter the McPherson's limited stage space. He has been well and happily abetted through the lovely colorful costuming of Biddy Gaddes and good light design by Larry Eastick. Altogether it's a fine example of effective and closely integrated teamwork.

The McPherson Playhouse, delightful as it is, is not an opera house and the principal problem that arises in all productions of this kind concerns the too-shallow pit which places the orchestra on a level with the audience, creating a sound-curtain between it and the stage, a problem for which there seems no immediate solution.

Sweet Revenge for B.C. Wine Makers

By PAUL MOSS
Times Staff

Pat McGeer, where were you when we really needed you?

A bunch of us news media types agreed Wednesday we'd just had a pretty convincing demonstration that it's difficult, if not impossible, to tell the difference between B.C. wines and the imported product.

But — who knows? — perhaps those sneaky guys from the Wine Council of B.C. were putting one over on us, knowing we were gulping gluttons rather than galloping gourmets.

If McGeer's refined palate had been similarly baffled, we'd have been even more convinced.

Recall that time some four years ago, back in the days when McGeer was a Liberal MLA and saying nasty things about the B.C. wine industry? He said their plonk was an inferior product and probably always would be.

At the time, McGeer put his taste buds where his mouth was. In a tasting test he successfully distinguished half a dozen imported wines from their B.C. counterparts.

A similar test was arranged Wednesday by the Wine Council of B.C., the industry association formed in 1974 to promote B.C. wines, and this time the wine makers tasted revenge as sweet as the sweetest Baby Duck.

Six white table wines were poured from bottles anonymously wrapped in brown paper, and the news media types were invited to rate them under five categories: appearance and color, aroma and bouquet, flavor, body and general quality.

Only after all cards had been completed were the labels and prices unveiled.

The result was a total mishmash of selections, with no discernible preference for imported over domestic wines. On the contrary, six of the amateur tasters gave the highest score to a B.C. label — Casabello's Fleur de Blanc, which sells for $2.45 a bottle.

The Times representative, an enthusiastic imbiber much given to using such wine cliches as unassuming, earthy and provocative to disguise a total ignorance of the subject, placed Fleur de Blanc first, followed closely by Andres' Moulin Blanc ($2.20) and a 1976 Californian vintage, Beringer's Chenin Blanc ($3.70).

Tied for fourth highest mark on his card were an import and a domestic — Mouton Cadet ($3.75) and Ste. Michelle's Chasselas ($2.45).

And in last place, barely escaping the lowest "fair" rating, was another foreign wine, Alsace Coquillage ($4.50).

Neither at the wine tasting conducted by Vancouver wine consultant Ted Appleby nor the luncheon which followed was McGeer mentioned by name.

But Wine Council president Robert Holt, vice-president and general manager of the Ste. Michelle Winery which moved recently from Victoria to Surrey, recalled that not so long ago certain politicians and members of the Vancouver media were taking "some pretty cheap shots" at the B.C. wine industry without fear of retaliation.

Holt declared that those days are over, and the wine producers have lost their inferiority complex as the industry has come of age.

Now the council, which includes Ste. Michelle, Andres Wines of Port Moody and Casabello Wines of Penticton (but not Calona or Uncle Ben's) is launching a major public relations program to spread the word across the province that the homegrown product is a good one in its right, he said.

Holt said the council believes that within 10 years B.C. wines can match the reputation and level of acceptance that Californian wines now enjoy, and is pinning much of this faith on a grape-growing experiment now under way which he called the Becker Project.

This program, funded by the federal and provincial governments, the grape growers and wine companies, arose out of a chance visit to the Okanagan by pre-eminent German viticulturist Dr. Helmut Becker.

Holt said Becker had selected 27 varieties of European grape best suited to the conditions in the Okanagan, the vines were planted last spring on acreages near Kelowna and Osoyoos and already the growth is "tremendous."

It will be about four or five years before the various types can be fully evaluated for quality, yield and winter survival, he said, and the wine will not be available in commercial quantities for six or seven years.

"Stick around and see what happens," Holt told the press conference. "There won't be many wines that will be able to hold a candle to the B.C. product."

B.C. WINERIES USE U.S. STOCK

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia wineries are importing 400,000 gallons of white wine from the United States, but the U.S. product will not appear on liquor store shelves.

The foreign wine will be blended with local products and will appear under B.C. labels.

Vic Woodland, general manager of the liquor control and licensing branch, said Tuesday that B.C. wineries have been given permission to import the wine to make up for stocks depleted during a three-month strike-lockout at B.C. breweries.

He said while there has been an increase in demand for white wine, the beer dispute meant that a winery which might have expected to sell 25,000 gallons sold 75,000 gallons.

Doctors' Consultant Wins Appeal

Provincial court convictions against an investment consultant to the medical profession were quashed in Victoria county court Wednesday when an appeal was granted.

In the earlier proceeding P.G. Professional Group Service Ltd. was fined a total of $900 on nine counts, and its president R.E. McMullan, 52, of West Vancouver, a total of $450 on nine counts alleging trading in securities without proper registration and participating in the trading of such securities.

The firm was established to assist members of the medical profession to invest money and the charges related to an opportunity to finance a motion picture, Judge E.J.C. Stewart was told.

The appellants were represented by counsel C.O.D. Branson, and the Crown as respondent by J.W. Anderson.

Return Barred

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Prof. Alexander Zinoviev, who was given an exit visa last July to teach abroad, has been stripped of his Soviet citizenship and effectively barred from returning to the Soviet Union, according to a Kremlin decree published Wednesday.

Postal Talks Stalled

union has maintained throughout that it would rather settle than strike.

The first strikes are expected to hit either Vancouver, Montreal or Toronto on Friday and continue until Monday, disrupting mail delivery until Tuesday. Union locals will be given 24 hours advance notice of a strike.

Meantime, the inside postal workers, represented by the Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW), say they will not cross letter carriers' picket lines.

The union blasted the federal government in a press statement Wednesday for "squandering public money in a further attempt to attack the union."

CUPW president Jean-Claude Parrot said "We are not on strike now, nothing is happening except that we are waiting for the conciliation board's report. Yet the employer is now forcing every one of the 25,000 postal workers across the country to spend one hour of his work time at an 'information session.'

"This is the same employer who refused to allow the union representatives to provide information to our members during their rest or meal periods. The supervisors running the meetings are armed with a 37-page manual, a six-page handout for each postal worker and a set speech attacking the union," he said.

He claimed the meetings were started Tuesday and were scheduled to continue across the country over the next few days.

He said this demonstrated the "hypocrisy" of the government's position because last Friday Trudeau said in Toronto the right to unionize and the right to negotiate and to strike are basic freedoms that workers must have. "But," said Parrot, "the government as an employer was doing everything possible to break unions, avoid negotiations and eliminate the right to strike."

Ottawa Borrows

"He's been almost completely discredited," Stevens said, adding that international traders might show more respect for a new face in the finance portfolio.

The government has sold off about $4 billion in international reserves to support the dollar since Chretien took office a year ago, Stevens said.

The Bank of Canada, which has raised its interest rate four times since March in an effort to attract foreign capital into Canada, has also been playing into the hands of speculators, he said.

"The easiest way to make a buck is to play against the Bank of Canada," Stevens said of the central bank, which co-ordinates monetary policy with the finance department. "They are so predictable."

Since the beginning of the year, when the dollar was valued at about 91.5 cents U.S., the government has sold off about $3.2 billion U.S. of its international reserve holdings. In August alone, the government sold off $700 million.

Prior to the first New York bond sale, the federal government had not borrowed outside the country in 10 years.

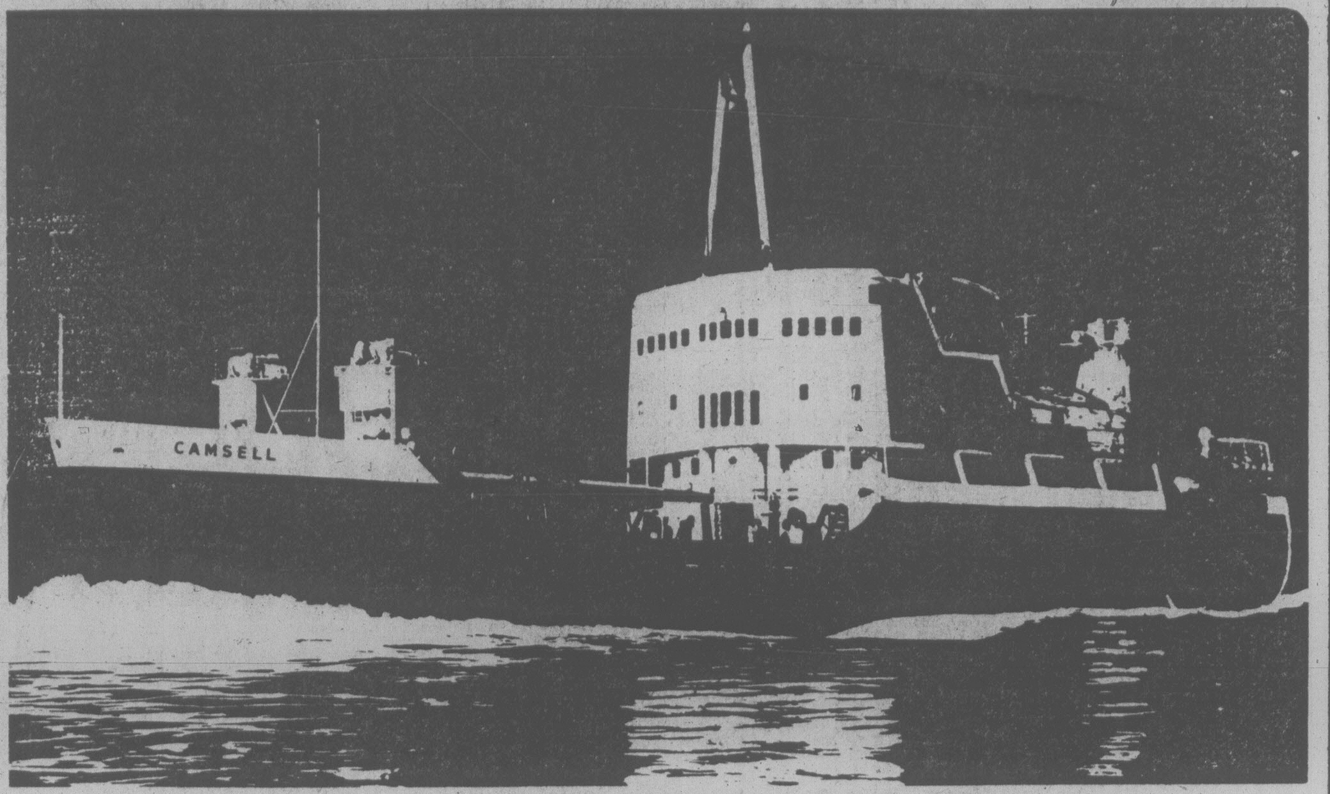
Oiler Anne Cameron of Sidney was asleep when the Victoria-based icebreaker Camsell was holed . . . but in seconds she had pulled on her coveralls and was heading for the watertight door she was assigned to close



The engine room of the Arctic veteran Camsell was flooded in only 20 minutes

'A Hollow Thud' She Won't Forget

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

IT was 5:05 a.m. Sept. 10 when the icebreaker Camsell was holed by Arctic ice and Anne Cameron, 24, of Sidney will never forget the moment and what came after.

An oiler on the ship, Cameron was asleep in the cabin she shared with the only other woman aboard, ship's clerk Alice Goldsmith.

She said even when sleeping she is aware of the various shipboard noises and it was the abnormal sound that awakened her.

"You could hear this sort of hollow thud."

She looked out the porthole, saw what appeared to be oil on the water and knew something was wrong.

She scrambled into her coveralls, after waking Goldsmith, and was making her way to the engine room when she heard Harry Jones, the oiler on watch, calling for the other oilers.

"He was yelling about a hole in the ship's side."

At the same time the Camsell's deck crew was organizing a damage control party.

She said the watertight door was closed, sealing off the shaft tunnel, and her job was to secure the watertight door in the generator flats. The ship's pumps were put into action but the water came in so fast the engine room was flooded in 20 minutes.

"It was the huge pumps dropped from the Hercules (aircraft) that saved the day," she said.

"You could see some of the pumps short-circuiting and surges of electricity going through the water."

She recalled the only time she was really concerned was when two crew members were trapped on the other side of the engine room and had to thrash through the water, over the engines, to make it to the ladder near where she stood watch.

"We had an excellent crew, everybody was acting so quickly and reliably for the safety of the ship.

"People were tender with their feelings. I never had my hand shaken so much or my back patted. That was a great feeling."

The mishap happened in 20 fathoms off Jenny Lind Island shortly after the Camsell had escorted the tug Agnes Sherwood to the island.

Cameron said the Camsell's helicopter later that day transported some of the crew to the D.E.W. Line camp on the island. She was on the fourth flight.

The next day they were flown back to Victoria.

Cameron said the experience has not affected her desire to go to sea because seamen have "no pretensions . . . I love it."

This was her first time in the Arctic and she says, like many other crew members, she spent a lot of time outside when she was off watch during the first month watching the Camsell crashing through the ice fields.

Some of the crew, she said, reported ice conditions were the worst in 15 years.

Before joining the Camsell, Cameron worked aboard the weatherships Quadra and Vancouver.

She had studied English classics for two years in university, but her love of the sea drew her to where the Vancouver was docked. It was the summer of 1976 and she was looking for a job.

SHE met Bob Stuart, the ship's engineer, who gave her her first job — cleaning bilges.

The day before the Vancouver sailed she was given the option of becoming a stewardess but chose to stay in the engine room.

She said her biggest challenge was to gain confidence in herself.

"As soon as I realized I had to be tough and know what I was doing then I was on an equal with the others."

She asked for a transfer from the weatherships because she wanted experience in steam and diesel. She's set her sights on earning her fourth-class combined ticket.

"It kind of gets into your blood," she said, "Being at sea, you live in a vacuum, you become part of an intense family."

$140,000 Damage In Fire At Nursery

Fire investigators are attempting to determine the cause of a $140,000 fire that destroyed the main building and a greenhouse at the Marigold Nursery in Central Saanich Wednesday night.

A Central Saanich police spokesman said a nursery employee spotted a small fire at the rear of a large storage-cum-office building at 7874 Lochside about 6:45 p.m.

As the employee approached to investigate, the front door blew off and the structure erupted in flames.

It took Central Saanich volunteer firemen more than two hours to control the blaze. One nearby greenhouse was destroyed and three others damaged.

The spokesman said the fire had probably smouldered for some time before it was detected. Several residents reported seeing smoke as early as 6 p.m. but thought it came from the nursery's incinerator.

The fire is believed to have started behind a large boiler in the area of an electrical panel. A quantity of oil burning and heating supplies was stored nearby.

The nursery is owned by Leslie Smith of the same address.

FALL VICTIM ON MEND

An 83-year-old woman has undergone hip surgery for injuries suffered in a fall down her basement stairs.

Mrs. Florence Richards, who spent the night Monday on the floor of her basement, is in satisfactory condition, a Victoria General Hospital spokesman said.

She was found Tuesday morning by two passers-by after tapping on her basement window for almost 24 hours.

Ad Nets Return Of Tools

A $1,000 reward has led to the recovery of more than $15,000 worth of tools stolen from two Victoria automotive repair shops last week.

Ken Fleming, owner of Victoria Four-Wheel Drive, 597 Hillside, made the offer in ads in local papers following the theft of the tools and a jeep from his shop and Ellice Automotive Repairs of the same address overnight Sept. 13.

The ads ran six days and paid off when a Port McNeil man called on Monday to say he had the tools.

Fleming and Neil Gustafson of Ellice Automotive flew to the northern Island community the next day.

Fleming said the man told them he got the tools from his brother who had acquired them and the jeep in a trade-in of his (his brother's) car with another person.

The jeep has not been recovered.

Fleming said he decided to place the ads on the advice of his father, but was skeptical at first.

"I didn't think it would work," he said today. "But I had to try something. Those tools were my bread and butter."

He said the reward won't be paid until he recovers all items taken, including the jeep.

Lt.-Gov. Facts Wrong on Lakes, Says Sierra Club

Lieut.-Gov. Henry Bell-Irving — who holds what has traditionally been considered a non-political office — drew fire today for criticizing opponents of the use of the herbicide 2,4-D in the Okanagan Lake system.

Sierra Club executive officer Bob Nixon said Bell-Irving' claim that 2,4-D opponents have their priorities wrong is both uninformed and a transparent attempt to cover-up government errors in establishing priorities to preserve the Okanagan Lakes.

In a speech to the annual meeting of the Union of B.C. Municipalities in Penticton Wednesday, Bell-Irving said environmentalists are too concerned with the dumping of 2,4-D to control milfoil in the lakes.

He said they do not show enough concern with the "disease itself, which perhaps come out of the bathroom and how it is disposed of."

He was referring to Okanagan cities disposing of sewage in the lakes.

Bell-Irving said he was recently asked to oppose the provincial government's use of the herbicide but refused.

Nixon said Bell-Irving has got his facts wrong.

NIXON
. . . 'sane approach?'

He said environmentalists fighting the 2,4-D milfoil program have waged a ceaseless campaign to convince the government to implement disposal techniques which would eliminate dumping of sewage in the lakes, he said.

Environmentalists have already achieved moderate success in achieving their primary goal of preserving the water quality of the lakes but have faced a major obstacle in the government's willingness to ignore needed clean-up for simplistic political solutions such as 2,4-D spraying.

Nixon said the provincial government is not ready to provide funds for this purpose.

"If Bell-Irving is announcing that his government is changing its priorities to address the basic issue of concern — maintenance of Okanagan water quality — then the lieutenant-governor has indeed endorsed the position of environmentalists and found cause to seek a realignment of government priorities," Nixon added.

He said a major problem for environmentalists has been the curtain of silence imposed upon government staff because of orders to promote 2,4-D spraying as the solution to lake problems.

"Perhaps now we shall witness the implementation of a sane approach to solving Okanagan water qualilty problems," he said.

"However, 2,4-D still has no place in such a program."

Ask the Times

Q. Could you please tell me the addresses of Mae West, Bob Hope and Arnold Palmer? R.P.

A. Mae West's address is: c/o William Morris Agency Inc., 1740 Broadway, New York City, N.Y. 10019. Bob Hope, 10000 Riverside Drive, Suite 3, North Hollywood, Calif. 91602. Arnold Palmer, Box 52, Youngstown, Pa. 15696.

Q. It is imperative that I locate the present facilities of Narcanon, X-Calay and Synanon in Western Canada and northwestern United States. Could you be able to provide me with this information? J.D.

A. We have only two phone numbers for Narcanon. They are 382-0762 and 385-3851. Synanon can be contacted at P.O. Box 786, Marshall, Calif. 94940 and 5025 17th. N.E. or 1525 37th Street in Seattle. We could find no address for X-Calay.

Q. I have a couple of questions for you. (1) Do you know where I could write to Buster Crabbe? I just saw him on TV in Flash Gordon and I think he's great. (2) Is the Alan Hale that played on Gilligan's Island related to the Alan Hale who made films all through the 30s and 40s? D.C.

A. Buster Crabbe lives at 11216 N 74th St., Scottsdale, Ariz. 85260. Yes, The Alan Hale who made films throughout the 20s, 30s and 40s is the father of Gilligan's Alan Hale.

Q. Can you tell me where the term "fourth estate" comes from and what are the other estates? B.R.

A. The term was first coined by British essayist William Hazlit to describe the power of British journalist William Cobbett, who was born in 1763. Cobbett was fined and jailed for his writings against the establishment, both by the British and Americans. He had such a following, however, he was finally elected to Parliament where he was able to put some of his reformist ideas into effect. The other estates are: First, the clergy; second, the House of Lords; third, the House of Commons, and fifth, scientists.

Salmonella Strikes 65

No common source has been found for the scattered outbreak of salmonella in the Capital Regional District in the past six weeks, regional health officer Dr. Allen Arneil said Wednesday.

Arneil says 65 persons from 45 families were affected.

Of these, about one quarter of the patients contracted salmonella while off the island. Those who had not been out of town appeared to have nothing in common but the salmonella.

"They hadn't been to the same place, or eaten the same foods," Arneil said. "Some had eaten out and others had only eaten at home."

He said the outbreak had peaked around the end of August and now appears to be abating.

"Still, I would feel happier if we had been able to pinpoint a source," he said.

Arneil said ways to control salmonella include washing hands after handling food or going to the bathroom, keeping hot foods hot and cold foods cold.

BNA Act Used As 'Scapegoat'

By LORRAINE LOCHERTY
Times Staff

The British North America Act is alive and well and being used as a scapegoat, says lawyer Edward McWhinney.

A specialist in federal constitutional law, McWhinney told the Canadian Club Wednesday a new Canadian constitution isn't the balm needed to soothe the country's discontent.

McWhinney, a professor at Simon Fraser University, said Canada's ills stem mainly from people's frustration with the bureaucratic process.

Major constitutional reform is not the remedy.

McWhinney is an advocate of what he called "direct action" by people — participatory democracy.

He will appear next week before the Senate-House joint committee studying the constitution.

The committee will get the same message, McWhinney said.

The biggest problem facing Canada is the same one other countries must contend with — a popular reaction against governments.

Alienation toward large bureaucracies is a major cause of discontent, McWhinney said.

It resulted in Proposition 13 in California where citizens protested against government spending by demanding large tax reductions.

And it has caused separatist movements in other countries that make Canada's Quebec separatism problem seem like a minor headache.

Corsica must contend with plastic bombs in town halls and in West Germany, terrorist activities are rampant, McWhinney pointed out.

He predicted Quebec will eventually work out its problems in the traditional way and reject a referendum to separate.

Quebec's examination of nationalism is nobody's fault and everything that could be done has been done and in the long run, Quebec's conception of the constitution will emerge as conventional.

McWhinney said a decade from now Quebec will participate in constitutional negotiations with the rest of the provinces.

He said the holier-than-thou attitute of federal negotiators is changing back toward one of co-operative federalism involving sensible discussions between governments.

He said the federal government should show more self-restraint instead of seeking the power of the courts to impose its will on provinces.

It also needs to use more diplomacy and pragmatism in provincial relations.

Normandy Suites Listed in Error

Victoria fire officials said today they erred Wednesday in including the Normandy Apartments at 1106 Balmoral among apartments posted as fire hazards.

Deputy chief Mike Belton said notices have not been put up in the apartment as discussions are still under way between the owner and fire inspector Ray Best over what work must be done to bring the building up to safety standards.

Seven city apartments and the Empress Hotel have already been posted as unsafe and fire chief Eric Simmons said Wednesday three other apartments and five hotels are on the hazard list and may face the same exposure.

Firebombing Charge

A 36-year-old man has been arrested in connection with a firebomb attack at the Hillside Auto Court in the 700-block Hillside late Tuesday.

The man will appear in provincial court charged with setting a fire.

The firebomb caused little damage to the auto court, described by police as a headquarters for the Bounty Hunters Motorcycle Club.

A firebombing of an elderly couple's home at 1136 Empress earlier this month saw the arrest of a 24-year-old man.

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — A reversal at New York sent the Toronto stock market moderately lower in active mid-session trading.

A trading halt issued about 10:30 a.m. continued in shares of Steetley Industries Ltd. at the company's request pending dissemination of news of a planned amalgamation with two subsidiaries. Shares last traded at $13½.

Among other industrials, Bow Valley Industries declined 1¾ to $39¾, Husky Oil ¾ to $42½, Power Corp. A ¾ to $18¾, Westburne International ¾ to $33½ and Dofasco A ¾ to $27.

Canadian Tire A gained ⅞ to $26, Nu-West Development A ¾ to $18⅛, Northern Telecom ¼ to $38, Dominion Textile A ¼ to $12½ and Interprovincial Steel and Pipe ⅛ to $16⅛.

McIntyre Mines fell ⅝ to $25⅞, Dome Mines ½ to $101½ and Afton ⅜ to $10½. Canada Tungsten Mining advanced 1⅛ to $21⅜ and Camflo Mines ½ to $17.

Total Petroleum North America eased ¼ to $14⅜, Canada Southern Petroleum ¼ to $5½ and PanCanadian Petroleums ¼ to $33¼. Ocelot Industries B rose ¼ to $13¾ and Ranger Oil Canada ¼ to $17⅜.

London

LONDON (CP) — Prices moved moderately lower at the close of light trading on the London stock market.

The Financial Times Index of 30 industrials closed at 525.7, off 3.4.

Leading industrials declined, while oil issues firmed and gold shares climbed sharply with higher bullion prices.

China To Buy Sask. Potash

REGINA (CP) — China has agreed to purchase 300,000 metric tons of potassium chloride worth about $18 million from Saskatchewan, Canpotex president Roger Hatch said.

Hatch said the contract, the largest single purchase of potash by Peking, calls for shipment of the potash between Oct. 15, 1978, and June 30, 1979.

"Potash price levels in the off-shore market have started to increase significantly during the last few months and the Chinese recognize that now is a good time to buy," Hatch said in a statement.

"The Chinese have established challenging agronomic targets in recognition of the importance of agriculture in providing a solid foundation for industrial development," he said.

The Chinese recently constructed a substantial number of modern urea plants and have found that much greater use of potash fertilizer is required to obtain maximum benefits from their urea, Hatch said.

Gov't Bond Details

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Jean Chretien has revealed more details of a planned $850 million Government of Canada bond issue to be dated Oct. 1.

The amounts of the issue will be as follows:

— $50 million worth of 8¾ per cent bonds due June 1, 1981.

— $350 million of nine per cent bonds due Dec. 15, 1983.

— $450 million of 9.5 per cent bonds due Oct. 1, 2003.

The Bank of Canada has agreed to take at least $250 million of the issue. Proceeds of the bonds will be used for general government purposes and to redeem $425 million of bonds maturing Oct. 1.

GRAND OPENING

Come Celebrate a Victoria First!

Yesterday we were City Savings & Trust. Today we're the same company—stronger than ever, still 100% Canadian—but now with a new first name: First City Trust.

But that's only part of the news. Because now we're in our beautiful new Victoria office, where we're putting even more emphasis on service. Result? A gala Grand Opening, promising pleasant surprises for you, including our unique photo murals of historic Victoria.

Free refreshments! Coffee or tea—served with delicious fresh-baked croissants or crumpets. Four valuable grand antique prizes! Sony radios for new depositors. A personal tour of our handsome new quarters and more. These are just some of the highlights of our opening celebration. You'll also have a chance to meet new Western friends—like Savings Manager, Nick Melber, and Assistant Manager, Vern McDougall.

Nick Melber
Savings Manager

Vern McDougall
Assistant Manager

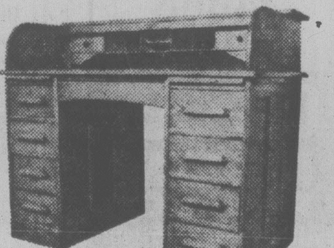
*Perhaps best of all, you'll learn about the earning power of money deposited with us—7½% interest on regular savings; 9¾% interest on GIC's.

And, if you have a special dream, you'll discover how easily financing from First City Trust can make it real.

The Grand Opening of First City Trust—weekdays, September 14th through September 27th, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Won't you please attend? It will put us on a first-name basis.

Four Grand Prize Drawings!

Four valuable, authenticated antiques! Enjoy unlimited chances to win, deposit an entry form with every visit until September 27th.



First Prize!
A magnificent double pedestal roll-top desk of solid oak. A rare and highly desirable piece. Circa 1910.

Second Prize!

SOCKEYE SHOW ON ADAMS RIVER

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 150,000 tourists are expected to visit the Adams River between Oct. 7 and Oct. 22 to witness the four-year cyclical return of more than one million sockeye salmon, gvernment spokesmen say.

The river, the most prolific spawning grounds of the Fraser River system, is one of the most accessible in the province. It flows for more than four kilometres between Adams and Shuswap lakes midway between Kamloops and Salmon Arm in the B.C. interior.

To aid in viewing, platforms have been built over the shallow river bed and arrangements have been made for educational displays.

The two-week project is sponsored jointly by federal and provincial government departments, the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission and the Fisheries Association of B.C.

$45.7 Million Mill Planned

VANCOUVER (CP) — Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. said Wednesday it plans to build a $45.7 million sawmill at its Fraser Mills plant in Coquitlam.

Company chairman R.G. Rogers said the new mill will be constructed in three stages and will replace the existing sawmill built in 1892.

Work will begin immediately on a planer mill to be followed by the sawmill and other related facilities, Rogers said.

The construction is part of the company's $250 million modernization program which includes a recently-completed $16.3 million green veneer plant at Fraser Mills.

Rogers said that competitive forces in the forest industry demand that the antiquated sawmill be replaced by machinery that can handle the increasing number of smaller logs coming from the woods.

he said the construction will require a net reduction of the 350 employees at the existing mill but attrition and retraining will offset the shift in manpower requirements.

Diamonds Lifted

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police Wednesday were investigating the theft of four diamonds valued at $37,000 from Goldcraft Jewelry Ltd. Owner John Rodney Quick said a display window had been pried open and the loose stones removed.

Seabus to Rescue

VANCOUVER (CP) — Five sailors from the British Royal Navy ship HMS Leander were rescued by a Seabus from Burrard Inlet Wednesday after their eight-metre motor launch caught fire. None was seriously hurt.

Puppets of B.C.?

PENTICTON (CP) — Municipal councils and school boards in British Columbia are merely "puppets on shoestrings" pulled by the provincial government, the president of the B.C. School Trustees Association said Wednesday. Dave Kandal made the remarks to delegates attending a luncheon meeting the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention here. Hugh Curtis, minister of Municipal Affairs and Housing, was present.

Suspect Caught

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Police have arrested a suspect wanted by Winnipeg police in a $1 million bank robbery. Police said Gordon A. Kendall, 32, was arrested Sunday at a downtown hotel. Two other suspects in the robbery were being held — a woman in Winnipeg and a man in Las Vegas, Nev.

Cleanup Goes On

FIELD — Cleanup crews are still using bulldozers to clear away the last of the mud and rocks from a stretch of Trans Canada Highway buried by a mudslide eight kilometres west of here two weeks ago. Traffic flows are near normal but highway repairs will not be finished until next week.

Prince Bander Comes to Town

VANCOUVER (CP) — A man driving a turquoise, rhinestone-studded Lincoln with Prince Bander written on the doors and trunk lid registered as Prince Bander Al Saad when he checked into a downtown hotel Tuesday.

A Prince Bander Saad pleaded not guilty by reason of diplomatic immunity in Oregon Monday to charges of assaulting a Portland, Ore. woman.

And a Prince Bander Bin Saud Bin Sad Al Saud said here last January that Vancouver-based companies could lose more than $71 million in contracts if he was prevented from taking some B.C. falcons to Saudi Arabia.

The prince's secretary answered the hotel phone Tuesday and said the prince could not be disturbed. He denied that the prince is the man charged with assault, or the falcon enthusiast.

However, a hotel employee positively identified the prince as the man who made the comments about the falcons.

The falcon prince said in January that he had a brother in Portland.

Train Ransom Victim

VANCOUVER (CP) — An Amtrak train arrived here from Seattle, Wash. early today without incident but under protection after a threat was made against Burlington Northern Railway on Wednesday.

Kim Foreman, a Seattle spokesman for the railway, said an unidentified caller had demanded $8,500 be placed at a prearranged location along the train's route.

He said a police helicopter followed the train out of Seattle and police observed its progress along the route.

But neither RCMP here and in White Rock, the first scheduled stop after arriving in British Columbia, or an Amtrak spokesman here could confirm that the train had any special security.

Foreman said the caller had placed a letter in the car of Burlington-Northern's freight agent at Mount Vernon, Wash. and later called the agent to make his demand.

"It was a threat of violence, but it wasn't a bomb threat in the normal sense," Foreman said.

Deadly Rail Freight Restrictions Sought

VANCOUVER (CP) — The city's fire chief says he is dissatisfied with the safety precautions used to transport highly inflammable or poisonous chemicals through the city by rail.

Chief Armand Konig said in an interview that he wants restrictions placed on the number of cars carrying dangerous items and special precautions that take into consideration the size and population density of Vancouver.

Konig said it is irresponsible to move 40 cars filled with highly inflammable liquid gas.

"And there are 8,000 cars loaded with dangerous stuff going through the city each year," he said. "That's a pretty ominous situation."

Last August, the fire department was called in to handle a potentially dangerous situation when several runaway boxcars crashed with a slow-moving Canadian Pacific Railway train containing thousands of gallons of liquid propane.

The cars never ignited but dozens of trainmen had to flee the scene and residents within a four-block radius were asked to leave.

Konig said he was to meet Wednesday with local transportation officials to request "that certain quantities (of dangerous goods) should not be transported in the city.

Battle for the Bridge Jobs

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — A small provincial forest service bridge east of here is creating a controversy over whether British Columbia jobs should be preserved, regardless of cost.

The forests ministry opened tenders July 6 on a 60.5-metre bridge across the Fraser River near Dome Creek, about 160 kilometres east of here.

Dominion Bridge Co. Ltd. submitted a bid of $416,305. Although B.C. workers would be hired for construction of the bridge, steel fabrication would be done in Alberta because Dominion's B.C. plant was sold in 1975.

Britain steel also bid on the job, offering $423,057. That company has fabricating facilities in B.C.

The forests ministry awarded the contract to Dominion on July 20.

The International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers claims that 30 jobs will be lost in B.C. and has petitioned Forests Minister Tom Waterland to overturn the contract award.

The union says Britain would have been given the job if the province had applied a preference for B.C. firms whose bids were not more than five per cent above outside competitors.

The provincial government does have a B.C. first rule with regard to purchasing goods, but it does not cover the awarding of contracts.

A forests ministry spokesman said in a telephone interview from Victoria Wednesday to apply the B.C.-first policy to contracts would lead to complications.

He said contractors hire a number of subcontractors on many projects and it would be difficult to enforce the policy.

Meanwhile, Tom Lauriente, general manager of Dominion, said in a telephone interview from Vancouver the situation is being blown out of proportion.

He said the union's figures are wrong and that if 30 men were hired for the fabrication job, it would take them 11 days, and not three months, as the union says, to complete the work.

Preliminary fabrication work on the bridge has already started.

BREAK No 8 OVER FOR TERESA

VANCOUVER (CP) — Teresa Brewer, who holds the dubious distinction of escaping a record eight times from the Lower Mainland Regional Correctional Centre (Oakalla), was captured by police Wednesday after 10 days at large.

She escaped Sept. 9 with Katherine McCauley, 21, and Deborah Taylor, 25, after sawing through the bars of a metal door.

Brewer, 21, is serving a two-year sentence for armed robbery which was to end next July.

Her companions were picked up by Vancouver police Sept. 14 and Sept. 18.

Estrogen May Prevent Cancer Deaths: MD

FAIRMONT HOT SPRINGS (CP) — Estrogen hormones, often blamed as the cause of cancer in menopausal women, may actually help prevent cancer deaths, says a British Columbia general practitioner.

Addressing a meeting of the B.C. Medical Association Wednesday, Dr. P.G. Finch of Kimberly said physicians should not be afraid to give women hormone therapy to relieve symptoms of menopause.

He said warnings about the drug issued by the Canadian government are not justified by research.

Federal authorities last year cautioned against use of estrogen to relieve hot flushes, aches and pains and depression sometimes experienced during menopause, citing studies linking estrogen to a high incidence of endometrial cancer.

Studies conducted in the United States examined women listed in official tumor registries and compared them with similar healthy patients.

Women who had used estrogen were found to be five to eight times more likely to have uterus cancer, the studies showed.

Finch said the reason for the high incidence is that many women who take estrogen suffer bleeding that can uncover a dormant tumor.

"I believe estrogen can be used freely in a cyclic manner for the treatment of menopause symptoms . . . it can be used indefinitely," he said.

"If there is a hidden cancer, the estrogen will usually activate it, leading to early discovery."

College Reaches Pact

KAMLOOPS (CP) — A tentative agreement was reached Wednesday between Cariboo College and its 73 non-teaching employees, who have been locked out since Aug. 18.

Chuck Bishop, college affairs manager, said a memorandum of agreement was signed with Local 900 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees at the labor ministry offices in Vancouver.

Last Monday, the college council announced a one-week closure of the college in this Interior British Columbia city because of disruptions caused by the labor dispute.

The Cariboo College student association said Wednesday it had asked its lawyer to initiate a breach-of-contract suit against the college for monetary losses such as travel expenses, housing and utility deposits incurred by the students because of the closure.

Multiplex or Ensphere, Or a Little of Both?

The danger in the proposal for a $57.5 million wooden domed stadium for Vancouver rather than the $163 million Multiplex is that it leaves both plans open to death by inertia.

A larger version of the gluelaminated (Glulam) lumber domed stadium in Flagstaff, Ariz., could be a better answer for the PNE-stadium problem than Multiplex. Dr. Wendell Rossman of Phoenix, architect of record for the Flagstaff project, says a 60,000-seat domed Ensphere encompassing almost all the needs of both sport and the PNE as expressed in the Multiplex complex could be built in two years for $50 million in U.S. dollars (roughly $57.5 million Canadian.

"We are not here to bid to build such a dome or make a presentation unless asked," he said. "But we have been challenged from many quarters here—particularly Dr. Bill Gibson (of city council)—as to what sort of construction we could offer and at what cost, so we've done considerable studying of it. As to whether it's taken any further, that's not for me to decide."

Dr. Rossman is here from Phoenix along with Marshall Turner of Western Wood Structures, Inc., of Portland, who was in charge of construction of the Flagstaff dome—the first of its kind. They conducted a seminar at Western Forest Products Laboratory Wednesday and were to speak to the Vancouver Kiwanis Club today.

They represent both a possible breakthrough and a potential killing blow to any stadium project here.

Until now, the people who don't want Multiplex or any form of stadium complex have had to fight it on grounds of cost and location alone. Now they've been handed an issue. Dr. R. W. Kennedy, director of WFPL, says the wooden dome should be built but charges that PNE president Erwin Swangard shot down the plan last August because the Multiplex design had already been selected.

I can't quite see Swangard holding still for that.

Thus the matter of Multiplex vs Ensphere will be an Issue, however short-lived. Armed with it, the anti-stadium mob will hit city council demanding that any decision on the Multiplex project be shelved pending further study of the wonderful wooden alternative. They can quite literally committee it to death.

And don't think there aren't people out there who'll try.

The Flagstaff dome has always fascinated me.

It sits on campus at University of Northern Arizona. It seats 15,000 people for college hockey, football, soccer, basketball, volleyball, tennis and lacrosse. It was built, in 1977, for $8.3 million. The Tartan Turf rolls back off the concrete in five-yard widths that are stored under the seats. The entire football field can be removed in four hours, leaving it open for conventions, displays or stage shows when the various court sports aren't in progress. One year ago Bill Cosby played to 15,000 fans in the afternoon, the turf was rolled back out as he left, and the UNA football team played before 15,000 that night.

Obviously, such a structure is entirely unsuitable for local use. But it was the first Ensphere, not the biggest.

"I cannot say for certain what the limits are as to size," Dr. Rossman said. "But we have fully investigated a 750-foot dome. That would give you 60,000 seats, and there wouldn't be a bad one. Rougly speaking it would be 20 storeys high, but since the field and a good part of the stands are below the surface you're actually talking about a structure 11 storeys above ground level.

"Multiplex—and I have not studied it in detail—centres around two issues: the stadium and the exhibition. A good part of the exhibition space it encompasses would be taken in by the floor space of the dome, and the balance adjacent to it on the concourse around the dome."

Construction, he said, would take two years.

Engineering is not my racket. Nor is construction. Who knows, maybe the best answer is a compromise: the Multiplex plan with the concrete and steel beams replaced by laminates.

But for the sake of argument let's assume the Ensphere would fill most of the requirements built into the Multiplex design and that it could be put up for $57.5 million (The $163 million tag on Multiplex is for the entire project. The stadium alone could be handled for $80 million).

It still gets down to the money and where to find it. I'd like to repeat a suggestion first offered last December when I first read about the Flagstaff dome.

We are sitting in a province loaded with wood, the site of two major and competing forest product companies. So what you do is have the dome designed to be the biggest wooden dome in the world. That makes it both a tourist attraction and a ready-made convention site (Hello there, Grace McCarthy). And could not one or both of those jillion-dollar forest product firms be pursuaded to donate materials or at least come up with a deal just to be associated with such a project?

If Multiplex is stalled—and I have a queasy feeling it is—then the Ensphere looks worth investigating. Prefereably yesterday, because time is short. Personally, I'd like to see it built. Because we could hold a name-the-dome contest, and I'd win.

I'd call it Lumberland.

Goalkeeping Cougar Problem

GARY LUPUL
. . . Cougar marksman

CAMPBELL RIVER — Goaltending is still one of the major question marks hanging over the Victoria Cougars, and rookie Paul Fricker kept it hanging.

Fricker, an 18-year-old who played for Vancouver Canucks of the Pacific Coast Junior Hockey League last season, is one of three netminders still on the roster of the Western League's Cougars.

Kevin Eastman, only 17, but a holdover, appears to be assured of a job.

He was a standout in the playoffs last spring and has been consistently solid in pre-season performances.

Steve Amiss also is back from last year's team, but as an "overage" hopeful. Amiss' position, despite his experience, is shaky because coach Jack Shupe openly admits he would prefer the team's one allowable 20-year-old be a defenceman.

Leroy Heck, Kim Spencer and Glen Cochrane, all trying out with National League teams, have indicated they would return to Victoria if they are not signed to pro contracts.

Fricker, with two years of junior ahead of him, caught Shupe's eye. He didn't have a particularly brilliant game Wednesday but still is much in contention for the second job.

Fricker was tagged for six goals in 25 minutes of play as New Westminster Bruins, the defending national champions, skated to an 8-3 victory over the Cougars here.

Amiss finished up the remaining 35 minutes and allowed two goals.

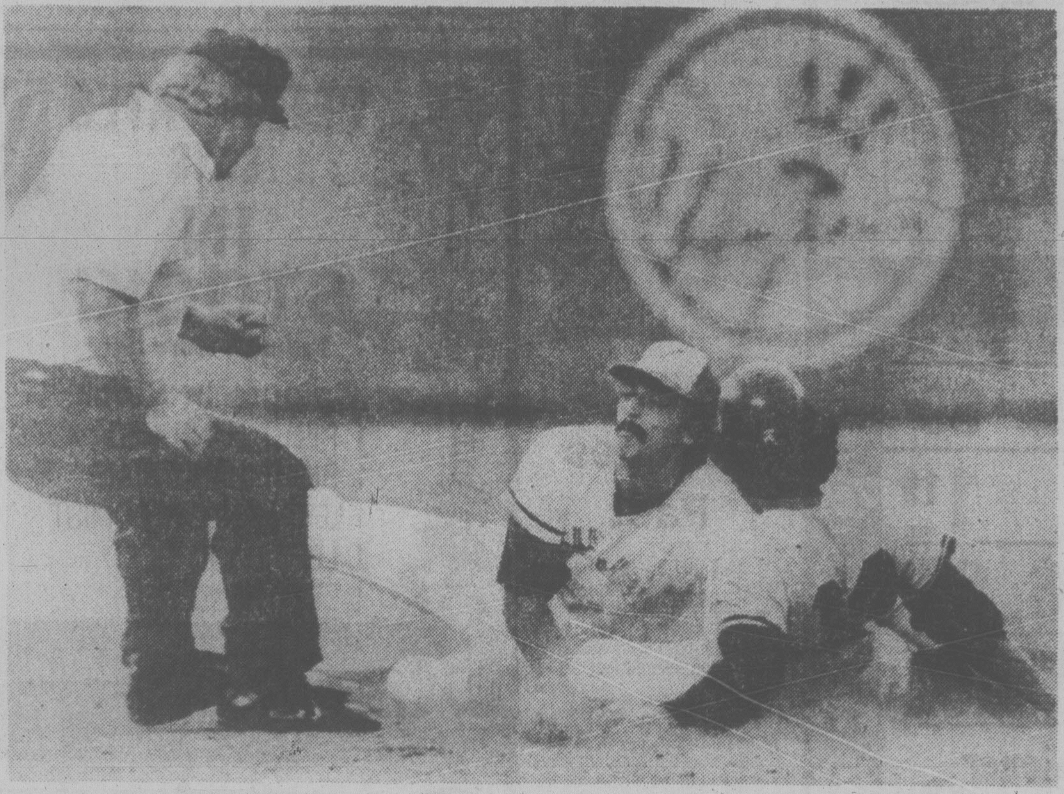
Gary Lupul, Mickey Willgress and George Fritz replied for the Cougars.

Victory gives Westminster a 2-1-2, won-lost-tied edge over the Cougars in a series that continues tonight in Gold River and again in Victoria's Memorial Arena on Friday.

In other WHL action Wednesday, Rick Knickle and Scott Olson shared the shutout while Brad Kempthorne, Laurie Boschman and Brian Propp scored a goal apiece as Brandon Wheat Kings blanked the Pats 3-0 in Regina.

Victoria's farm club showed its power by defeating Delta Sun Gods 9-0 in a B.C. Junior League exhibition in Nanaimo.

Nigel Thomas led Nanaimo's attack with three goals while Brent Denat added a pair. Singles came from Len Dawes, Ryan McAdams, Daryl Coldwell and Paul Parker.



OUT AT SECOND is Lou Piniella (14) of New York Yankees as Dave McKay of Toronto Blue Jays puts tag on him in first game of American League doubleheader at Toronto, Wednesday. Umpire is Durwood Merrill. Teams split twin bill, Blue Jays winning 8-1 and Yankees 3-2. (AP wirephoto).

Jays Take Care of Guidry But Sox Not Up to Rozema

By The Associated Press

Boston Red Sox were so busy playing scoreboard baseball they forgot about the game on the field.

Before the Red Sox came to bat in Detroit, they were delighted to see that New York Yankee ace Ron Guidry had lost to lowly Toronto.

"We couldn't wait to get on the field when we knew Guidry got beat in the first game," said Gerry Remy, who had four of Boston's six hits in a 12-2 clobbering by Detroit Wednesday night. "Then we saw Toronto ahead 2-0 in the second game and we were really psyched up."

But it didn't help as the Tigers strafed four Boston pitchers for 15 hits, while Dave Rozema got his third complete-game victory in a row. In fact, Remy was so intent on playing scoreboard baseball that he wasn't sure who the opposing pitcher was.

"You've got to give credit to Rozema, or whatever his name is," said Remy. "He pitched a great game."

Meanwhile, Toronto handed Guidry only his third loss in 25 decisions, 8-1, in the opener, but the Yankees rallied for three runs in the ninth to win the nightcap 3-2.

With both Boston and New York having 10 games left, the Yankees lead the Red Sox by two games in the American League East.

"We're two down with 10 to play," said Boston manager Don Zimmer. "It ain't good, but we're not dead."

Elsewhere, Milwaukee moved to within 5½ games of the Yankees with a 5-4 victory over Kansas City, which now leads California by five games in the AL West. Minnesota beat Texas 5-3.

Rusty Staub and Lou Whitaker each belted three-run homers for Detroit. Boston's Jim Rice, the major league home run leader, belted his 42nd, a two-run shot in the ninth.

In the National League pennant races, Philadelphia Phillies got a diet of fastballs from Dan Schatzeder.

That's the kind of stuff big league hitters fatten up on. Especially hitters like Greg Luzinski and Mike Schmidt.

"If they throw you enough of them and keep coming after you with fastballs, you can make an adjustment and maybe find your stroke," says Schmidt, who found his Wednesday night while helping the Phillies beat Montreal Expos 4-2.

NHL To Appeal McCourt Ruling

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Hockey League announced Wednesday it will appeal a United States federal judge's ruling that Detroit Red Wings centre Dale McCourt does not have to report to Los Angeles Kings as compensation for Detroit's signing of former Kings goalkeeper Rogatien Vachon.

NHL president John Ziegler said in a prepared statement:

"The National Hockey League and its counsel have now had an opportunity to review the court's opinion. It is our counsel's firm opinion that the court committed reversible error in its conclusion of facts and interpretation of the applicable law. Consequently, I have instructed counsel to prosecute and appeal to the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals as quickly as the court rules will permit.

"It is my opinion that the NHL must exercise every effort to preserve the sanctity of the collective bargaining agreement which includes equalization, one of its essential provisions.

"This is crucial to the well being of every player, every employee and every club in the National Hockey League. In the meantime, the NHL will, of course, abide by the preliminary ruling of the court."

Judge Robert DiMascio of U.S. District Court issued a temporary restraining order on Monday which allowed McCourt to stay with the Red Wings while he pursues a lawsuit against the NHL, the Kings and Wings and the NHL Players' Association in an effort to overturn an arbitrator's decision that he go to Los Angeles.

The arbitrator awarded McCourt to Los Angeles after the Kings and Wings were unable to agree on compensation for Detroit's signing of Vachon who had played out his contract with the Kings.

Dues Ruling Hits Island Puck Teams

British Columbia Amateur Hockey Association's decision to revise its dues structure may mean the Lower Island may wind up with only one contender for the Coy Cup, emblematic of the provincial intermediate "A" championship.

The five teams that form the Lower Island Big Six League reluctantly approved a move Wednesday to accept intermediate "B" status. The door will be left open, however, for one team, probably Esquimalt Maple Leafs, to campaign as an "A" team.

In the past, intermediate teams contributed two per cent of their net gates to the B.C. body. The BCAHA this week changed it to a straight $15 a game.

"It's just too rich for our blood," said Big Six spokesman Alex Leatham, who noted that Big Six teams usually play before very small crowds. "Player cards are up to $5 a head, team registration is $10, we have to pay $35 a game for ice. We also have to pay for the ice for practices and let's not forget the referees' bills, which are substantial."

BCAHA regional representative Grant McKinstry met with Big Six president Fred Rowett and said the alternative is to operate as a "B" league, which means a dues contribution of only $5.

One team can claim "A" status, a decision that must be made before Dec. 31.

If two team claim "A" standing, the entire league must go that route.

Maple Leafs, said Leatham, "at this point, are the only ones who would like to go 'A'."

Leafs, Western Home Buckaroos, Victoria Athletics, Juan de Fuca Merchants and Duncan Blades make up the Big Six League. Duncan, coached by Earl Morris, has replaced Chemainus Blues.

League action will start Sept. 28 with the annual all-star game being held in Duncan's new arena.

Triactor Anyone?

SAINT JOHN, N.B. — (CP) — Two big pays highlighted a 10-dash harness-racing card here Wednesday.

The fifth-race triactor paid $6,298.40 when Kelaurie Buddy won followed by Day Dream Believer and John Junior.

Ringer Case Goes to Jury

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — The jury, deliberating the case against the Belmont Park veterinarian accused of switching horses at the track, recessed shortly before midnight Wednesday without reaching a verdict.

They were to resume deliberations this morning.

Eagleson, Bulls Face Suit

TORONTO (CP) — Two Ontario major junior hockey team owners are suing Toronto lawyer Allan Eagleson and Birmingham Bulls of the World Hockey Association for allegedly inducing underage players to breach existing contracts and turn professional.

Eagleson and his company, Sports Management Ltd., the Alabama Hockey Ltd., which controls the WHA team, and players Craig Hartsburg, Pat Riggins and Robert Ramage were named in three separate civil actions filed in Ontario's Supreme Court Wednesday on behalf of London Knights and Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds.

Eagleson, his firm and the Alabama company, headed by John F. Bassett, are being sued for "inducing breach of contract and wrongfully interfering with contractual relations."

Hartsburg was under a two-year contract signed in 1977 with the Greyhounds, Riggins had a similar contract with London while Ramage had a three-year deal signed in 1976 with the Knights. All three were 18 when they signed their contracts.

The players are being sued for breach of contract and payments owed under clauses designed to protect owners in cases such as these, Toronto lawyer Gavin MacKenzie said.

The problem of underage signings without compensation to owners arose in 1974 when several players, including Mark and Marty Howe, jumped from major junior hockey to the WHA's Houston Aeros.

"There was nothing we could do about it because the payment of development fees was not part of the player contracts," said OMJHL commissioner Clarence Schmalz.

A clause calling for payment of $40,000 for development fees should a player bolt camp was added to the contract the following year. An uneasy truce between the owners and the WHA was broken in 1976 when Ken Linseman of Kingston Canadians jumped to the WHA.

The Canadian Major Junior Hockey League threatened legal action but that was dropped when the WHA finally agreed to pay development costs of $40,000.

"We don't want a pile of money at centre ice...we want the players themselves," said Knights' co-owner Howard Darwin.

Darwin vented his anger at Eagleson, player-agent, executive director of the National Hockey League Players' Association and Hockey Canada's international negotiator. Eagleson was involved earlier this year in a deal which saw six underage juniors join Birmingham for the 1978-79 season.

Neither the league nor the government wanted underage juniors turning professional, Darwin said.

Darwin said WHA negotiators last week had assured him the Bulls would be bought out by the league and the players would be returned to their junior clubs.

"The following day we read in the paper they would not buy the club and the Bulls would keep the players," Darwin said.

"Now, I wouldn't believe a word the WHA says."

Being Irish a Big Help; Seale To Stress Juniors

(First of Two Parts)

RUGBY

max low

Teacher Peter Seale, latest member of what he calls "the Irish Mafia which is taking over rugby in Canada," is the new president of the Vancouver Island Rugby Union.

Ed Bryans, Victoria-based president of the B.C. Rugby Union, and Canadian Rugby Union president, Bob Elder of Toronto, are both originally from Ireland.

"I used to play against Ed in high school rugby in Dublin," says Peter who was born in Ireland and, after living for some time in Rhodesia, came to Canada 26 years ago.

In his playing career, Seale turned out at standoff-half or wing for the strong London Irish Club in 1947 and '48, the years Ireland won the Triple Crown. He has taught English at Central Junior High School for the last 18 years and was the Island Union's second vice-president last season.

If being Irish helps you into high offices of the rugby world, seems that being a teacher is practically a prerequisite. Bryans is a teacher, too, as is Alan Rees (the man from whom Seale takes over as Island president) and Don Burgess, the president before Rees.

Now 54, Peter Seale wants to stress in his new post the amateur attitude toward the game and the importance of continuing promotion of juniors.

"It's pleasing to see the Island's Junior Crimson Tide with such quality players," he says.

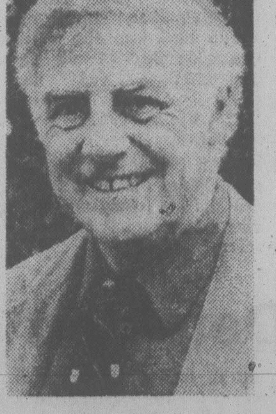
Rugby kicks off here for the season Saturday with first-division matches between UVic Vikings and James Bay Athletic Association, and Castaways and Oak Bay. Sunday it's Saanich Velox versus Cowichan.

B.C. (with Mick Eckardt, K.C.Walt, Ray Rogers and Gary Johnston aboard) takes on the French national team next Tuesday at Burnaby's Swangaard Stadium.

If you'd like to see that match but haven't yet made arrangements, you can still do it by phoning Seale at 386-3591 or 595-1785. There'll be a bus running from the Town and Country shopping centre to Burnaby and back Tuesday with the cost, including fares and a ticket to the game, at $15 per person.

France plays Canada in a test match in Calgary the following Saturday.

Something really new on the rugby scene this season will be the Premier League, an official interlocking series of fixtures featuring all clubs from the Island, Vancouver and the Fraser Valley. Interspersed with regular Island league games, the interlocking matches will run all season and will have playoffs at various levels.



PETER SEALE
. . . Island rugby president

"This new setup should get us away from clubs having to meet the same opponents all the time and from always having familiar referees in charge," says Seale.

But, he adds, the Premier League — arranged after a lot of work over on the mainland by James Bay's spiritual leader Jim (Mother) Hubbard — won't be anything like the series of interlocking exhibition matches tried a couple of seasons ago.

Then, few of the Mainland clubs bothered to show up for scheduled games as they really didn't have to, but this time Seale says there'll be a $100 fine for any team that fails to play.

It's a good move and, if all runs smoothly and the whole thing doesn't prove too much of a travel burden, it should brighten the game here for players and fans alike. Which, after all, is the name of the game.

Plenty of British clubs are just itching to play on the Island this season — including Bridgend (again), Pontypridd and Mosely — but as Seale points out, it's the old problem of them all wanting to come at the same time: around May and June when their own season is ended. It's hard to get them to spread it around a bit.

And finally, James Bay's impressive second-row forward Hans de Goede, who went over to Wales to live for what he hoped would be a couple of years so he could play for the mighty Cardiff Club, just might be back sooner than he expected . . . seems that nobody thought about getting Hans a work permit! (Next week: Cleaning up the act)

Vikes Meet UBC Tonight

School is in at the University of Victoria and that means the Vikings and Vikettes soon will be in the news again in their various athletic endeavours.

Matter of fact some teams already are competing.

That means soccer and the first home appearance of the Vikings team which meets University of British Columbia Thunderbirds at Royal Athletic Park tonight at 6 p.m.

The game is important to both teams as it will help to determine who will represent the West in the CIAU championships in Montreal, Nov. 10.

The Vikings are still smarting from their recent upset at the hands of the Calgary Dinosaurs. They lost 2-1 after winning the season's opener against the Univeristy of Alberta 2-1.

And a loss to UBC tonight or to Saskatchewan Huskies, whom they face at Athletic Park, Saturday, would be disastrous to any playoff plans they may entertain.

Sunday the Vikes travel to Nanaimo for their first action in the 1978-79 Island Soccer League's Premier Division.

The Vikings rugby team is home from a successful European tour and many of its players will get a severe test right away when it clashes with James Bay at Macdonald Park, Saturday at 2:30 p.m. The UVic Norsemen will meet JBAA second-division team in a preliminary match at 1 p.m.

The Vikettes' field hockey team will travel to Calgary, Friday, for the University of Calgary Invitational Tournament. This will serve as a tune-up for the Canada West championships in Saskatoon, Oct. 19.

In basketball, the defending Canada West champion Vikings opened camp this week and coach Ken Shields is already impressed. He said: "the 1978 crop of freshmen is the best group ever to attend the University."

Six of the 10 starters in last year's B.C. high school championship final and four of the five first team provincial all-stars will be looking for places on the 1978-79 Vikings squad.

Prominent in early drills have been the Kazanowskis— John, Greg and Gerald— from Nanaimo; Paul Davis, described by Shields as "the unsung hero of the 1978 B.C. champions;" and Oak Bay's Kelly Dukeshire and Ken Kirzinger.

Shields also announced that Ken Olynyk, a veteran of four season at Simon Fraser University, one at Laurentian under Shields, and a player with Burnaby Bullets of the Vancouver Dogwood League, would be joining Jim Duddridge as an assistant coach of the men's team. Olynyk has also spent two years coaching at the high-school level in Vancouver.

Grant Boland, co-captain of the Vikings for the past two seasons, has taken over the junior varsity team.

Wests in Final

Victoria West turned out to be a winner and a loser Wednesday.

The Wests advanced to the Vancouver Island Soccer League's McGavin Cup final but in doing so lost the services of Frank Woods.

Playing in only his second game with the Wests, Woods suffered a broken leg when he collided with Mark Wyatt of Cosmopolitan Royals at the 29-minute mark.

Ironically, the McGavin Cup competition was instigated as a means to raise money for the league's injured players fund.

The unfortunate mishap at Royal Athletic Park overshadowed a strong performance by Bob Duncan, who rammed in his team's first three goals to spark Wests' 5-0 victory over the Royals.

The Royals also lost a player to an injury when goalkeeper Gord Reading jammed his thumb while blocking a shot. Wests were leading 1-0 when Reading was replaced by Mike Kliska in the first half.

Duncan scored at 20, 29 and 61 minutes. Dan Henry made it 4-0 in the 77th minute and Waining Lee wrapped up scoring four minutes later.

Wests now will play either Nanamo United or Oak Bay in the cup final next month. Nanaimo and Oak Bay will play their semi-final Sept. 27

MANAGER DOWNPLAYS ROLE IN TEAM'S SUCCESS STORY

Yanks More Relaxed Under Lemon

NEW YORK (AP) — In his 30 years in major league baseball, Bob Lemon never has pulled a rabbit out of his hat. He would be the first to tell you that the only things he makes disappear are a couple of belts after the game.

"I never took the game home with me," Lemon said in 1976 before his induction into the Hall of Fame. "I always left it in some bar."

Lemon is not some magician, but the easy-going manager of New York Yankees has been instrumental in helping turn a supposedly insurmountable 14-game deficit to Boston Red Sox in the American League East into a 2½-game division lead through Sunday's games.

Since Lemon took over for Billy Martin on July 25, the Yankees themselves have caught fire, playing at a .717 clip.

"A while back, when we were 14 games out, it stung our pride," said pitcher Ron Guidry, the Yankees' Mr. Consistency all season long with a record of 22-2. "We are world champions and we wanted to make it closer. Now what has happened is unbelievable."

Of course, the turnaround is a lot more than a twist of Lemon.

It's taken a combination of Boston's near-total collapse and a healthy Bucky Dent and Willie Randolph, who give the Yankees one of the most dependable double play combinations in baseball.

Throw in Jim (Catfish) Hunter's miraculous recovery from a shoulder injury to give the team an inspirational edge and eight important victories since he returned from the disabled list July 17 and all the elements are there.

But it's taken Lemon's cool, steady hand to take advantage of those elements and keep everything running in smooth order, a state of affairs that was noticeably missing during Martin's explosive regime.

To be sure, Martin did win a World Series with the Yankees last year. But there were daily tensions. Martin, ever the battler, knocked heads with owner George Steinbrenner and some of his players, particularly slugger Reggie Jackson.

As Lou Piniella noted last year, all the in-fighting was draining; it was counter-productive to winning baseball games.

"Things are different now," said Hunter. "Instead of everybody worrying about what the other guys are doing, they are just going out every day and doing their jobs.

"This is a better team than last year. We're playing as a team, not individuals. Lemon has been very instrumental, especially with our pitchers. As a former pitcher himself, he spots little things."

"He treats me like a man," said pitcher Ed Figueroa, who often asked to be traded during the Martin regime. "He lets me pitch to the hitters my way. I have more confidence with him than with Martin."

Then there was the game in Baltimore last month when Jackson pulled himself from the lineup, complaining of a bellyache. He was later seen devouring soft-shell crabs, and some of his team-mates suggested his illness was caused by seeing his name in the No. 8 spot in Lemon's lineup.

No one can be sure how Martin would have reacted to this situation. However, Martin never liked Jackson and used similar incidents to bait and bad-mouth the sensitive outfielder.

Lemon handled the matter his way: "All I know is that he told Clyde King he didn't feel good. I'm not going to play the guy that isn't feeling good."

Since then, Jackson has been a regular in Lemon's lineup—even playing with a damaged thumb—and he's been a big run-producer during the team's climb into first place.

"This is a whole ballclub now and it's playing very well," Jackson said. "Lemon has me a lot more relaxed. He has confidence in me and it's wonderful coming to the park and knowing you're going to play. . . . He isn't trying to make a fool of you all the time, like Martin did."

As is his style, Lemon downplays his role in pulling the Yankees together.

"I think the main thing I contributed was leaving things alone and playing the lineup that won the world championship," he said Sunday after the Yanks had taken six of seven from the Red Sox in two crucial weekend series.

But if Lemon won't do the applauding, the team's record and his happy and winning players speak for themselves.

Soccer Fans Open Season On Schedule . . . With Riot

By REUTER

Police were called out and at least 15 people were injured when English and Danish fans clashed Wednesday night at Idraetspark Stadium in Copenhagen where England beat Denmark 4-3 in a European championship soccer match.

The English fans crowded behind one of the goals, throwing hundreds of apples on the field before the match began. As play began, they tossed a smoke bomb in front of the Danish goal.

Toward the end of the first half, with the score 2-2, tempers flared and fans engaged in fist fights while empty bottles flew.

Police moved in to halt the fighting and as the injured were taken away, police formed a buffer between the two factions and maintained peace. But there were more clashes as the crowd poured out of the stadium at the end of the match.

The game developed into an exciting see-saw affair. Kevin Keegan scored twice to put England ahead 2-0 but Henning Munk Jensen scored from the penalty spot and Frank Arnesen made it 2-2—four goals packed into 10 minutes. Bob Latchford regained the lead for England soon after the break and Phil Neal extended it.

Five minutes from the end, Danish captain Per Rontved made it 4-3 and inspired a brave but vain final rally.

The Netherlands, World Cup finalist three months ago, began its bid for the championship with a 3-0 win over Iceland but Scotland and Hungary, sharing unhappy memories of Argentina, flopped again— in Austria and Finland respectively.

Two countries return home happy with drawn matches—Northern Ireland from the neighbouring Irish Republic and Norway from Belgium.

Skipper Ruud Krol put the Dutch on their winning path in Nijmegen and second-half goals by Erny Brandts and Rob Rensenbrink settled the match.

The Finns' 2-1 win in Helsinki over a much-changed Hungarian team was the best performance, though Hungary picked up a consolation goal 16 minutes from the end.

Norway did even better by sharing two goals in Belgium. Larsen-Okland put the Norsemen ahead in eight minutes but on the hour Julien Cools equalized. With eight minutes to go, Georges Leekens missed a penalty that would have given the Belgians an undeserved win.

Canada Defeated

MADRID (CP) — The Netherlands beat Canada 6-0 Wednesday and joined Argentina in the Group B semi-finals of the women's World Cup field hockey tournament.

The Netherlands and Argentina both have six points from three matches and have clinched places in the semi-finals. India, with three points, Canada with one and Czechoslovakia with none are the other Group B competitors.

West Germany moved close to a semi-final spot in Group A with a 1-0 win over host Spain in another Wednesday game. The Germans lead Group A with six points, followed by Spain and Belgium with four, Japan with two and Nigeria none.

Canada, ranked 15th in the world, had a tough match against the Netherlands which is ranked near the top. It was the Canadians' second loss against one tie in three matches.

"It's very rough, physical contact hockey here," said Canadian team captain Sandy Drever of Calgary. "I think it is why we can't seem to score. We're not used to the tough defences they have here."

Does the Arrow Point to Winner?

EDMONTON (CP) — Bob Silverthorn, who claims to have cracked the Interprovincial Lottery Corp.'s Scratch 'N Win ticket system, says one of the clues is an arrow on the ticket stub.

Silverthorn said an arrow touching or almost touching a grey patch marked "Bank Use Only" is one of five clues to picking the special tickets, which offer a small cash prize or free tickets, as well as a chance to win a larger prize.

Silverthorn would not disclose the other factors he claims are clues to breaking the system.

But an official of the British American Bank Note company, which prints the tickets, denies there is a relationship between the arrow and the winning tickets.

After examining a few hundred tickets, Hector Boyley said he found some winning tickets on which the arrow touched the patch, but he also found losing tickets with a touching arrow.

He said the company plans no changes for the next batch of tickets going on sale.

Frank Wright, director of the Interprovincial Lottery Corp., said he sees nothing wrong with new regulations which forbid customers to be given a random choice of all tickets on stock.

Customs Changes On Import Records

OTTAWA (CP) — The government Wednesday announced a new customs valuation policy applying to low-cost imported musical recordings called deletes, effective Nov. 13.

Deletes are recordings produced in another country and sold at substantially reduced prices because of limited demand or declining popularity in the home market. Imported deletes have often flooded the Canadian market at much lower prices than Canadian-produced records, the revenue department said.

The result is an undermining of Canadian manufacturers, the department said in a statement.

Under the new policy, deletes will be valued at current line prices in the exporting country, less a maximum discount of 20 per cent.

Claim Made for '43 Injury

TORONTO (CP) — The Quebec Compensation Board has reopened the case of a scientist who was crippled in 1943 while conducting research at a federal research centre but never received compensatiion.

Prime Minister Trudeau also has asked the National Research Council, the victim's wartime employer, and the federal labor department to invstigate.

For years the compensation board refused to consider a claim for Wilfred Maynard because officials at an artillery proof and development centre in Valcartier, Que., where the accident occurred, could not prove that an explosion had occurred in the laboratory or that chemicals Maynard was handling contributed to his physical condition.

Maynard lost most of his sight, the use of his legs and much of his ability to talk. He now lives with his wife in Sydenham, Ont., near Kingston and receives a $400 monthly allowance from the Ontario government. His allowance was between $10 and $61.25 until his wife quit her clerk's job earlier this year to look after her ailing mother.

In a letter to J. Earl McEwan, MPP for Frontenac-Addington which includes Sydenham, Leslie Barnes, a co-worker with Maynard at the research centre, said he and other workers were certain Maynard's condition was related to his work.

"It is beyond belief that 35 years later Mr. Maynard is still without compensation," Barnes said.

Jacques Paquet, chief of the medical secretariat of the Quebec Compensation Board reopened the case after newspaper stories on Maynard's situation.

He arranged for Maynard to be taken by ambulance to Montreal for a medical examination Oct. 13.

ENTRY BY RCMP ILLEGAL?

TORONTO (CP) — Ample provisions can be found in Canadian criminal and civil law to prosecute RCMP members for surreptitious entry during intelligence probes, a former Crown prosecutor says.

Peter McWilliams, writing in Chitty's Law Journal, said a prosecutor would have no difficulty pressing charges against RCMP members under the Criminal Code sections involving breaking and entering, conspiracy and mischief.

Prosecutions could also be brought against the RCMP for violations of civil law trespass provisions, McWilliams said.

RCMP members have testified before a federal royal commission of inquiry into their activities that they conducted hundreds of surreptitious entries during intelligence probes without search warrants.

The police force has argued that those operations were not illegal because those conducting the operations had no criminal intent.

McWilliams, a former Crown prosecutor in Halton County and author of a text on criminal evidence, said criminal intent in a break-and-enter offence need not be intent to steal, only conspiracy to violate the mischief provisions of the Criminal Code.

Rule Change Proposed On Bank Leases, Data

OTTAWA (CP) — The finance department released proposed new rules Wednesday for banks that want to enter into financial leasing or banking-related data processing services for customers.

They are the first part of draft regulations under revised banking legislation before Parliament. The legislation, introduced last May, amends the Bank Act and is reviewed every 10 years.

The regulations issued Wednesday closely follow the original proposals made in the 1976 government white paper that led to the latest set of revisions to banking rules.

In the past, chartered banks engaged in financial leasing of equipment only through partly-owned affiliated companies. Now the government wants to specifically authorize them to enter the business.

The regulations spell out that leases must be the functional equivalent of credit by requiring that the lease be tied to specific equipment. As well, it must be on a non-operating basis, which means the banks have no responsibility for operation or maintenance.

The lease has to be on a full pay-out basis, so the banks receive their full compensation from the rental revenues and do not depend on a residual value of the equipment for their profit, except for a maximum amount of 20 per cent of the cost of buying the equipment originally.

The second part of the regulations deals with banks entering into data processing services by competing with independent computer service companies.

As the 1976 policy paper noted, there was concern that banks could compete unfairly with independent companies because they operate both as commercial lenders and as sellers of computer services.

The regulations limit the banks to offering certain "banking-related" services where the data processing is done by the bank. Specifically, they say banks can offer services directly related to the making of payments, like classifying deposits and payments, reconciling cheques, preparing payrolls and processing pre-authorized debits and credits for a client.

But banks could not offer services such as accounts payable, sales analysis and inventory control systems or data preparation services.

A bank can offer data processing services to a financial institution that the bank has developed for its own use and that are an integral part of banking operations.

$280,000 Dredging Payoff Admitted

TORONTO (CP) — Sydney Cooper, former president of Pitts Engineering Construction Ltd., testified Wednesday that he accepted $280,000 in payoffs from two competing dredging companies in return for making an artificially high bid on a 1967 federal government dredging job at Trois-Rivieres, Que.

Cooper, 57, was testifying in his own defence under the protection of the Canada Evidence Act in the Ontario Supreme Court trial of 11 dredging company executives and nine of their firms charged with conspiracy to defraud public agencies of $4,279,000 by rigging bids for dredging contracts between 1969 and 1973.

The Canada Evidence Act provides that a witness' testimony cannot be used against him in subsequent criminal or civil proceedings except for perjury.

Cooper earlier denied taking part in any bid-rigging arrangements in the four counts against him.

He also denied taking part in collusive bids on 30 other dredging contracts on which prosecution alleged similar evidence implicating Cooper.

Cooper said Albin Louis Quinlan, head of McNamara Corp. Ltd.'s marine division, asked him as a favor in late 1967 to submit an artificially high bid on the Trois-Rivieres job.

He said Quinlan told him McNamara Corp. had financial problems and wanted the job, but was worried it might not get it because not enough companies were bidding.

"I was sympathetic to his company's position and to his position, and I told him I would put in a complimentary bid," Cooper said.

He said his firm was not really interested in bidding for the job.

He said he obtained the $280,000 payoff by sending McNamara Corp. and Canadian Dredge and Dock Co. Ltd. phony invoices claiming payment for equipment rental and dredging work.

He said he received a $32,000 payoff from Canadian Dredge and Dock.

Cooper said he stopped sending invoices before collecting the $310,000 sum he initially agreed to because Quinlan had become intolerable. Quinlan indicated he had Cooper in his pocket and he felt used.

He said it was the first time he was invovled in such dealings and never felt good about it afterwards.

CHICKEN BOARD HATCHED AT LAST?

OTTAWA (CP) — After several false starts, an overdue national agency to control production and marketing of broiler chickens appears ready to be hatched.

Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan has been brooding over the broiler agency for months but now has the approval of Prime Minister Trudeau and the cabinet to go ahead. He has told farm groups to expect it this week.

Make-up of the agency's board of directors will fulfil a long-standing government promise to put consumer representatives on the boards of marketing agencies.

Lydia Patry-Cullen, a member of the royal commission on beef marketing several years ago, is expected to be the consumer representative. Representatives of the processing and retailing sectors will also be appointed.

Consumer groups have attacked the board saying it will only result in higher chicken prices in the grocery stores. Facing sharply rising inflation, fueled by higher food costs, and a possible general election, the government didn't want to upset consumers by bringing in the board earlier, some critics say.

The agency will set production levels and prices to farmers and will control imports of chicken.

Family Farm Program Cost-Cutting Victim

By JIM ROBB
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — An unborn family farm improvement program "to foster the development of family farm businesses" is one of the major casualties of federal government cost cutting.

Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan was authorized by cabinet at the end of June to open discussions with the provinces on the proposed joint program.

But sources in two provinces said this week there have been no discussions with the federal minister on any agricultural program in the last three months.

And officials in the federal department said Wednesday that any consideration of new programs has gone by the wayside because of the spending cuts.

The family farm program was one of two initiatives Whelan was supposed to pursue in the further implementation of a federal agricultural development strategy.

The other was to discuss provincial cost-sharing in a "new technology development fund."

However, Whelan wasn't allowed to start spending money without reporting back to his fellow cabinet ministers.

A report to cabinet dated June 29 instructed the minister to conduct the negotiations but go no further, pending a review of possible costs by Treasury Board.

The cabinet was reminded that the government had decided that "no additional resources were to be committed or promised to the provinces for agricultural development until (the department of) agriculture, in consultation with DREE and Treasury Board, evaluates current federal agricultural stabilization and development programs and identifies funds which might be more effectively spent in the agricultural development area."

Seasoned corn flakes coat chicken.

Chicken Goes Metric

Metric measuring is gradually being introduced to the kitchen. It is easy and simplifies food preparation and measurements. The best way to learn it is to use it.

Because the transition to metric measuring is inevitable, this chicken recipe lists all ingredients, dimensions and oven temperatures in metric units rather then the conventional measure. Teaspoons, tablespoons and cups are replaced by millilitres and pounds and ounces are replaced by grams.

Chicken is a food that rates high in protein. One way to make sure your family receives enough protein is by serving them foods high in protein several times a day.

Why not start your collection of metric recipes with the following one? Chicken Roma . . . chicken pieces coated with a seasoned corn flakes cereal crumb mixture before baking until crisp.

Try thinking metric when measuring the following ingredients.

CHICKEN ROMA

1 1.5 kg broiler-fryer chicken
1 L Corn Flakes, crushed to fine crumbs
5 ml salt
1 ml pepper
30 ml chopped parsley
2 ml crushed oregano
1 clove garlic, crushed
100 ml light cream or undiluted evaporated milk
fresh lemon wedges

Wash chicken pieces and dry thoroughly. Combine finely crushed Corn Flakes, salt, pepper, parsley, oregano and garlic.

Dip chicken pieces into cream or undiluted evaporated milk, then roll in seasoned Corn Flakes crumbs until evenly coated.

Place chicken pieces, skin side up in a single layer in a well-greased shallow pan; do not crowd pieces.

Bake in preheated oven at 180°C (350°F) about 1 hour or until drumstick is tender when pierced with a fork. No need to cover pan or turn chicken while cooking. Serve with fresh lemon if desired.

Makes 4-5 servings.

Grain Extras Health Aid

WINNIPEG (CP) — A milling industry expert says nutrient-enriched grain products could become the basis for the most effective health programs ever devised.

Peter M. Ranum of the Chicago-based Penwalt Corp. said in an interview Tuesday during the International Cereal and Bread Congress that fortification of grain products could be an important way of combating nutrient deficiencies.

"Cereal as a carrier for deficient nutrients can supply any nutrients at whatever level necessary to overcome a nutritional deficit," he said.

Ranum said the development of synthetic vitamins has brought the cost of fortifying 100 pounds of flour from 14 cents to two cents in only three years.

However, he said some countries are still opposed to synthetic additives in cereal products.

Even under a U. S. program for long-term, low-interest loans for grain purchases by developing nations, few are taking advantage of an offer by Washington to pay for the cost of improving nutrient levels, he said.

Ranum also urged that grain products be fortified to meet the specific needs or deficiencies of different areas.

"Most countries have used Canadian or U. S. standards in looking at enrichment, which is unfortunate, because each country needs to regulate its own program to be sure of meeting its own needs."

Correction

In the 60-Minute Gourmet column in Wednesday's food pages, there was an ommission of two cups of chicken broth in the curried shrimp and chicken recipe.

LEMONS, NUTS MIXED IN TASTY SOUFFLE CAKE

1 pound shelled hazelnuts or filberts
2 lemons
2 1-4 cups granulated sugar (about)
10 large egg yolks
2 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1 tablespoon butter
1-2 cup superfine sugar
12 large egg whites
2 cups heavy cream (optional)

Chop the nuts, in two batches, using the steel blade and stopping and restarting the processor every 3 or 4 seconds until they are finely ground. Reserve each half separately.

Remove the peel from the lemons with a zester or potato peeler and chop in the processor. When finely minced, add 2 cups granulated sugar and blend for 10 to 15 seconds. Reserve in a third bowl.

Place 5 egg yolks in the bowl with the steel blade. Run briefly to break up yolks, then add half the lemon-flavored sugar, half the nuts and 1 teaspoon vanilla extract. Mix thoroughly. Transfer to a mixing bowl.

Repeat this operation with the remaining yolks, sugar, nuts and vanilla.

Preheat oven to 300 degrees.

Select a 10-inch tube pan with a removable bottom. Lightly grease the bottom and sides with butter, then sprinkle on a thin coat of superfine sugar.

Beat the egg whites until they stand up in stiff peaks. Then, with a rubber spatula, gently fold them into the nut mixture. Pour at once into the tube pan and set in the center of the oven. Cook for 2 hours without opening the oven door. Test with a knife point or cake tester (it should come out dry). When done, remove from oven an let cool completely in the pan.

Squeeze juice from the two lemons and place in the bowl of the processor with the steel blade. Add 1-2 cup superfine sugar and mix briefly. Spoon over the cake. Let the cake set overnight before cutting and serving. If desired, whip heavy cream just before serving and mound it in the centre of the cake.

(8 to 10 servings)

YOUR VERY OWN YOGURT

Nutrition Buyline

QUESTION:
How is Yogurt made and could I make it myself?

ANSWER:
Yogurt is prepared from skim milk or 2% milk. A bacterial culture is added to the pasteurized milk, which is incubated at a controlled temperature. You can make your own yogurt if you own a wide mouth vacuum bottle.

Heat 1 qt. of fluid milk, (skim milk if you are counting calories) until warm. It should feel comfortable on your wrist similar to testing milk for a baby's bottle. When it reaches the desired temperature stir in ¼ cup of PLAIN YOGURT which is made only from milk and culture. Check on the ingredient list to be sure you have the right yogurt. Stir gently together. Pour into a clean wide mouth thermos. Cover tightly, and leave overnight. Next morning, you will find creamy thick yogurt. Save some of this as the starter for your next batch of yogurt. It is delicious and nutritious.!

M'room: Dieter's Delight

NEW YORK (AP) — Neither vegetable, fruit nor grain, mushrooms grow best in the dark and are one of the most popular foods in existence, although they possess little nourishment.

The nutritional value of the mushroom is dubious, but they are delicious and make an excellent diet dish. A pound of fresh mushrooms runs 100 calories or fewer and contains virtually no cholesterol.

Many ancient peoples believed mushrooms had special qualities because of their habit of popping up in the ground overnight. The Egyptians made it an offence to eat them, except in the pharaoh's court.

Cultivation of the mushroom began about 200 years ago in France, where they add them to omelettes, poach them in cream and flame them in cognac, among other things.

Cooks used to believe the mushroom had to be peeled before it was eaten. Actually, much of the flavor and most of what nutritional value there is lies in the skin. Another mistake is to throw the stem away. It is just as tasty as the cap.

Late-Night Snacks Okay If Dieter Watches Calories

By Dr. Jean Mayer and
Dr. Joanna Dwyer

Food for Thought

Q. Unfortunately, I have gradually put on about 10 pounds, which I am currently trying to shed. My problem is that my husband and I have always enjoyed having a snack before going to bed. I really miss that since it's the one time we have to sit down for a quiet chat. Can you tell me how I can work snacks, other than something like celery sticks, into my diet?

A. There is absolutely no reason to give up a sociable late-evening snack, nor is it necessary for the snack to consist of only very low-calorie foods. In a diet plan calling for only 1,200 calories a day, an evening snack can be included nightly. It might be anything from a piece of fruit with a modest 75 calories to a far more generous 205-calorie half of a peanut butter sandwich with a half cup of skim milk. Just how generous the snack is depends, of course, on the rest of the day's menu.

Other excellent snack ideas that can fit easily into a 1,200-calorie menu include a half cup of yogurt with a sliced banana half (115 calories), a bran muffin (120 calories), ¾ cup of wheat flakes with a tablespoon of raisins and a half cup of skim milk (145 calories) or an ounce of cheese and a piece of fresh fruit (180 calories).

To have interesting evening snacks and still lose weight, it's essential that you do two things. First, you must have a daily menu plan so that you will know how many calories you have left for your evening snack. Second, you must be just as precise about the serving sizes included in that snack as you are during the rest of the day. A half of a peanut butter sandwich made with a tablespoon of peanut butter contains 160 calories. But if you have a heavy hand with the spreader, the same sandwich could easily contain 260 calories.

Q. Our 2-year-old son has just been found to have something called gluten-sensitive enteropathy and has been put on a very strict diet. Our physicin says he will be fine, but I'm not sure I understand what is entailed with this disease. Can you explain?

A. Gluten-sensitive enteropathy (GSE) sometimes is called celiac disease in children and nontropical sprue in adults. It involves problems of the lining of the small bowel and seems to appear most commonly in children between one and five years old and in adults in their 30s.

The classic symptom of the disease is a particular type of diarrhea producing fatty, foul-smelling, loose stools. In addition, changes in the lining of the small intestine result in a greatly impaired efficiency of absorption. If left untreated, a child fails to grow properly and develops a number of other nutrition-related problems.

The cause of the disease is not clearly understood. One theory suggests that is is the result of a lack of an enzyme necessary to the digestion of gluten, a protein found in most cereals. It is supposedly a buildup of these products in the gut that causes the problems. A second theory suggests that the symptoms result from an abnormal immune response to gluten.

While we don't yet know why it happens, it is perfectly clear that gluten, the protein found in large amounts in wheat, rye, oats and barley, is the offending factor. When these grains are completely eliminated from the diet, symptoms rapidly dissappear. Improved appetite, weight gain and normal bowel movements also return within weeks.

Admittedly, learning to follow this diet is difficult, and for the person doing the cooking, keeping the menus interesting, varied and nutritionally adequate presents a constant challenge. But strict dietary compliance is the one sure way to control the disease.

The eight-page folder New Facts About Bread packs a lot of interesting information into a question and answer format.

The folder says, for example, that from a nutritional standpoint, there is no difference between fresh and stale bread. Provided the bread is well packaged, all nutrients are retained.

However, no baker keeps bread on retail shelves longer than it should be there. He delivers every day and usually picks up unsold bread. Returned bread is sometimes offered at reduced prices. If it remains unsold, even though it is still reasonably fresh, it is sold for animal feed.

You will also learn that in Canada buns and doughnuts are generally made from dough which contains more shortening and sugar than enriched white bread. In most cases enriched flour is used. Therefore the nutritional value of these products on an equal weight basis is not much different from that of enriched white bread, except that their calorie content is higher.

In addition to the above, you can read about other interesting facts such as bread enrichment.

To obtain a copy of New Facts About Bread, write to: Bakery Council of Canada, Box 61, Toronto-Dominion Centre, Toronto, Ontario M5K 1G5.

ENZYMES FOUND EATING MUSCLES

By BAYARD WEBSTER

NEW YORK (NYT) — Scientists at Rutgers University have isolated two enzymes that can cause the rapid breakdown of muscle tissue in degenerative diseases like muscular dystrophy. Their research is expected to provide a focal point in the scientific quest for more effective treatment of these diseases.

The enzymes, protein-like substances that initiate or speed up chemical reactions in the body, were isolated in the tiny cell particles called lysosomes, which are found in all human cells except bacteria and red blood cells. Lysosomes contain enzymes which break down any known biological substance.

In normal cells, lysosomes act as a kind of recycling centre. As parts of the cell wear out they are broken down by lysosomal enzymes into basic substances that can be used to make new cell parts. But in degenerative diseases such as muscular dystrophy it is thought that enzymes break down cell parts at a faster rate than normal, resulting in destruction of muscle tissue.

The research into the lysosome's role in degenerative disease has been spearheaded by Dr. John W. Bird, director of the New Jersey university's Bureau of Biological Research. Last year, with doctors from the University of Chicago and Cambridge University in England, he demonstrated for the first time that two of the lysosomal enzymes, of which there are more than 40, cause muscle degeneration like that seen in muscular dystrophy.

The enzymes and muscle proteins were purified and tested in test tubes, as well as in animals. By use of an electron microscope, the lysosomal enzymes were photographed in the process of digesting muscle tissue.

The findings are significant, Dr. Bird said, because they provide a focal point for future research. "For the first time we know which enzymes are degrading muscles," he said. The findings are applicable to any degenerative disease, he added, because the lysosome is the only source of enzymes that break down cell parts.

Scientists at Rutgers and elsewhere are now investigating various chemical substances that inhibit the action of lysosomal enzymes. Rutgers researchers have discovered that cells contain a natural inhibitor to one of the enzymes and are trying to learn the chemical makeup of the inhibitor in the hope of synthesizing it.

Scientists elsewhere are exploring the possibility that enzymes escape from the lysosome when the cell is subject to certain stresses, and are seeking an agent to stabilize the outer wall of the lysosome.

The fruits of such research could provide more effective treatment, but not a cure, for muscular dystrophy, which is an hereditary disease that takes several forms, Dr. Bird said.

Dr. Bird's research at Rutgers was funded by the National Institutes of Health and the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Wickett Heads Militia

Col. William T. Wickett has been named new commander of the Victoria Militia District.

Wickett, 41, payroll supervisor of Vancouver Community College, replaces Col. Michael E. Heppell, 37, commander of the district since 1975.

Heppell, deputy chief of the Victoria fire department, will now serve as deputy commander of Militia Area Pacific.

Wickett previously commanded Vancouver's 15th Field Regimemt, Royal Canadian Artillery, and has just completed a tour as senior staff officer operations.

Bio-dex

HOW TO USE YOUR CHART:
Locate your month of birth. The dots on each graph highlight your biorhythm readout. Check the scales on the left or right for your Intellectual, Emotional and Physical factors, from 1 to 5. Add these three numbers to obtain your Bio-dex. The Bio-dex is computed on average population age based on official Government statistics.

BIO-DEX READOUT:

0-5 Negative Cycle	This is not the time to make an important decision involving work or money. Think about it over the weekend.
6-10 Neutral Cycle	Don't allow yourself to get into debt through an unnecessary purchase. Listen to your conscience.
11-15 Positive Cycle	You can easily forgive and forget problems of the past week. You'll avoid similar difficulties easily.

Will we ever be able to change our biorhythms? There's hope that one day a pill may do the trick. A Harvard Medical School researcher is working on the problems of "jet-lag" and how the body's internal clocks can be "reset" to different time zones. Once that pressing problem is overcome maybe we can hope for a pill to modify our longer term "ups and downs".

Coffee Used by Swedes For Basting Lamb Roast

Q. — I have been told that in some Central and South American countries there are numerous recipes — other than for beverages and desserts — that use coffee as an ingredient. Do you have any information about this and can you specify recipes?

A. — At least two examples of coffee's use in cooking — other than in beverages and desserts — come to mind. Neither is from Central or South America, however. In Sweden, lamb is sometimes roasted (after rubbing with dry mustard and salt and studding with garlic) and basted with stock until half cooked. It is then basted with a cup of coffee containing sugar. In the American South, red eye gravy, made with a splash of black coffee added to the skillet when a slice of country ham is cooked, is a standard.

Q. — Some sources state that parsley, for the best results, should not be chopped with a knife but rather snipped with kitchen scissors. Do you agree?

A. — It is said that the late great chef Alexandre Dumain, proprietor of the Cote d'Or Restaurant in Saulieu, recommended the use of scissors for cutting parsley as opposed to chopping it.

With all due reverence and respect for "Alexander the Great," as he was called, and not without reason, I find this snipping business a bit exaggerated and am not certain but what the preachment is apocryphal. In any event, chopping with a knife is faster and it would take a rare nose and palate, indeed, to tell the difference in how the parsley was chopped in sniffing or sampling the finished dish in which the herb is used.

Q. — What is fenugreek?

A. — It is a spice commonly used in Indian cooking, particularly in what are known as curries. The name derives from the Latin and means literally "Greek hay." Fenugreek seeds are yellow in color and somewhat bitter in flavor. Madhur Jaffrey, the actress, author and Indian food expert, recommends them in eggplant and potato dishes. One of the most interesting characteristics of fenugreek can be found in Tom Stobart's "Herbs. Spices and Flavorings," (McGraw Hill, 1970). There he states that "It has a reputation for preventing wind, a reputation it certainly does not share with other members of the pea-bean family." He adds that you can grow fenugreek in your own herb garden and that "it makes a five-star salad when dressed with oil and vinegar. The taste is refreshing, new and unusual."

Q. — What is vanilla sugar and where may I obtain it?

A. — Vanilla sugar, often used in the preparation of desserts that require a vanilla flavor, is made by packing a vanilla bean in granulated sugar. To the best of my knowledge, there is no such thing as a commercially prepared vanilla sugar on the market.

Many home cooks do not seem to realize that a vanilla bean can be used to advantage over and over again. If, for example, a whole bean is used to prepare a vanilla custard (English custard, vanilla cream and so on), the bean may be retrieved once the custard is prepared and rinsed off. It may then be stored in a container — a glass jar with a tight-fitting cover — and packed with sugar around it. Both the vanilla-flavoured sugar and the bean itself may then be used for future dessert making.

Readers are invited to send in questions about food and cooking techniques to Craig Claiborne,, Food Editor, The New York Times, 229 West 43rd Street, New York, N.Y. 10036. Unfortunately, unpublished questions cannot be answered individually.

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married for 10 years and have two children, 6 and 8.

My wife works outside the home, and I am in charge of the household duties. It has worked out very well for us, but our children's friends think we are a weird family and they tease our kids, and therein lies our problem.

We have explained to our kids that we are a normal family except that Mother works and Dad takes care of the house. They understand it, but their friends don't, and they keep ridiculing our kids mercilessly. We have even asked the parents to explain the situation to their children, but it seems that the parents themselves have a prejudice against us and consider us oddballs.

Any suggestions?

HOUSEHUSBAND

DEAR HOUSEHUSBAND: If others aren't able to understand your lifestyle, that's their problem. Don't worry about your children. They'll survive. In time, when they see how well your arrangement has worked out, they'll become impervious to the taunting. Never apologize for being "different."

DEAR ABBY: Ralph and I are both 23 and we've been happily married for 18 months.

My problem is my father-in-law. He's a golf nut, and he keeps inviting my husband to go on these fabulous golfing vacations with him. They are always held at fancy resorts, and Ralph (who is also a golf nut) finds these trips hard to pass up. I'm glad he and his father have such a good rapport, but I hate being left alone for long weekends every few months.

Please don't suggest that I go somewhere with a girlfriend, or do something with my mother-in-law, because I'd rather not.

Ralph and I are usually very open and frank with each other, but I can't bring myself to tell him how unhappy I am when he takes off on those golfing vacations. Am I being selfish?

GOLF WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: No. After only 18 months of marriage, you're still honeymooners. Tell Ralph AND his father that their frequent golfing vacations are handicapping your marriage. And drive your point home now before those golfing vacations become a habit!

DEAR ABBY: I think your response to RED was 18th century. Red said every man she met made a pass at her, and she was sick of it. Then you put the blame on her, saying she must be sending out signals. And you topped it off with, "No man in is right mind would make a pass at a statue."

Abby, why should women have to go around acting like statues? You should have told Red not to feel guilty about being attractive — or even flirting a little.

So how about some helpful advice for a change, instead of trying to turn women into cold, unresponsive statues?

ANIMATED

DEAR ANIMATED: I am NOT trying to turn women into cold, unresponsive statues. But I certainly would not advise a woman to "flirt a little" unless she was ready, willing and able to deal with the men who rise to the bait.

It's more 18th century to tease a guy into making a pass, and then to act insulted when he does.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't start crusading for separate cheques. I'm a waiter, and I can tell you that when a group of people come in together during the rush hour and demand separate cheques, it's easy for one or two to walk out without paying. It happens often, and guess who gets stuck?

TONY

DEAR TONY: What you say makes sense. I surrender, dear.

CONFIDENTAL TO "SHOULD I?" No. Don't put him on the spot by asking him to tell you in so many words. When a boy stops calling a girl, he is silently telling her that it's all over. Accept it, and turn you attention elsewhere.

Tumors are Best Removed

Dr. L. L. COLEMAN

A close friend of mine in his mid-30s was told that he has a mixed cell growth underneath his chin. I would appreciate hearing more about this — the cause, treatment, and seriousness of it. — Mrs. C.Q.

DEAR MRS. Q.:

Tumors can, of course, occur in every body tissue and in all organs. The salivary glands are not exempt. Tumors of the salivary glands occur very frequently. Fortunately almost all of them are not malignant (cancerous).

Of all the salivary tumors, the mixed tumor is probably the most common. The name originates from the fact that when the tumor is removed and studied under the microscope, a variety of tissues is present. There may be muscle, cartilage, and nerves in addition to the gland itself.

As you undoubtedly know, the cause of this or any other tumor, benign or malignant, is not known. The treatment depends on the size of the tumor and whether or not it invades adjacent tissue. The seriousness depends entirely on what the microscopic report indicates.

Almost always, surgical removal is the ideal approach to this problem. If surgery has been suggested, you should urge your friend to have it done. Too many people wait much longer than they should, and this delay can often convert a relatively simple operation into a complicated one.

I have been advised to have my hemmorrhoids operated upon. My problem is that in the past two years I have had six major operations for a variety of illnesses. I feel one more operation is just too much and seriously wonder whether it it worthwile living on the operating table as a means of survival. Do you know anything about removing hemorrhoids with a rubber band? I was told about it but can't find anyone who does it. — Mr. A.R.

DEAR MR. R.:

Six major operations are more than anyone deserves yet I do not see why you should suffer with hemorrhoids when there are so many different ways to control them.

The rubber band technique has produced a great deal of interest by specialists in the field of proctology. Not all patients are candidates for this particular procedure. The number of hemorrhoids, the location, the degree of severity, and the presence of fissures all determine who the ideal candidate would be for this simple technique.

I do know that there is an excellent hospital in your immediate vicinity where you can seek the advice of a specialist in proctology. He can direct your to the person who is doing this procedure if he himself is not using it.

I do hope that this is the very end of the unpleasant surgical events that have dominated your recent life.

Court Upholds Contempt Verdict

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — The New Jersey Supreme Court upheld the criminal contempt conviction of The New York Times and its reporter Myron Farber today for withholding notes in a murder case.

The high court ordered Farber to report back to jail on Sept. 26.

Farber and The Times were expected to appeal today's ruling.

The court disagreed with Farber's argument that he is protected by the First Amendment to the U.S. constitution and New Jersey's shield law for reporters.

Farber was in jail for 27 days after he refused to give his notes to the judge presiding over the murder trial of Dr. Mario Jascalevich, who Farber dubbed Dr. X in a series of articles for The Times.

The Supreme Court ordered Farber released while it considered his claim that the First Amendment and the state's shield law protect him from divulging his sources or turning over his notes to a court.

Farber, meanwhile, was served Wednesday with yet another subpoena for the notes he took while investigating a series of patient deaths at Riverdell Hospital in Oradell in the mid-1960s.

The subpoena, which seeks his notes on any interviews conducted with three physicians at the hospital, was the third served on the reporter since the Jascalevich trial began in February.

Eugene Scheiman, Farber's lawyer, said the reporter would not surrender the files.

After The Times published Farber's articles, Jascalevich, the hospital's former chief surgeon, was charged with murder in connection with five deaths at the hospital. He was acquitted of two of the murders.

Farber completed his third day of testimony Wednesday as defence lawyer Raymond Brown worked to support his contention that the reporter conspired with former Bergen County prosecutor Joseph Woodcock and the New York City medical examiner, Dr. Michael Baden, to frame Jascalevich for the murders.

The defence says it needs access to Farber's notes to insure Jascalevich has all evidence that might benefit him.

Farber and The Times say surrendering reporter's notes, even for only a judge's inspection, would compromise the confidentiality of news sources and harm the reporter's ability to gather news.

Rewards For Boy's Killers

LONDON (AP) — British newspapers were offering £8,000 (about $16,000 U.S.) today as reward for information leading to the killers of a newspaper delivery boy who apparently found them burgling a farmhouse.

Carl Bridgwater, 13, was shot in the head at point-blank range with a shotgun Tuesday afternoon as he delivered a newspaper to Yew Tree Farm near Wolverhampton in the English midlands.

Police believe he came upon burglars pilfering antiques from the farmhouse and may even have recognized one of them. "It was a coldblooded killing and callous in the extreme," said detective chief Supt. Bob Stewart who is leading the investigation.

The killing has shocked many Britons and the boy's picture was carried this morning on the front page of every London newspaper except The Financial Times.

The Daily Mirror has offered £5,000 for information leading to the killing. The Daily Express offered £2,000 and The Sun £1,000.

Callaghan, Kaunda To Meet

LONDON (Reuter) — British Prime Minister James Callaghan will fly to Kano, Nigeria, Friday for talks with Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda, an aide said today.

The two leaders are expected to discuss the controversy over Rhodesian sanctions-busting by British oil companies and the Rhodesia and Namibia (South-West Africa) independence disputes.

Kaunda threatened earlier this week to take unspecified action against Britain over the oil sanctions issue, accusing the British government of cheating him.

Callaghan's spokesman, Tom NcCaffrey, said the prime minister had invited Kaunda to meet him in Kano this weekend for an informal talk on matters of mutual concern to Zambia and Britain.

Although there was no specific agenda for the meeting, Southern African issues and the deteriorating situation in Rhodesia likely will be topics.

Striking Teachers Jailed

Associated Press

A Superior Court judge sent 60 more Bridgeport, Conn., teachers to jail Wednesday—bringing to more than 240 the number of teachers jailed there for refusing to return to the classroom.

Judge James Henebry found the 60 in contempt of his back-to-work order. Nearly one-fifth of the city's 1,250 teachers have thus far been imprisoned at National Guard camps for continuing their strike.

The Bridgeport teachers want an 8.6-per-cent raise and have rejected an offer of seven per cent. Present salaries range from $9,450 to $20,180.

Elsewhere, teachers in Cleveland agreed to resume negotiations and school bus drivers in Dayton, Ohio, returned to work after a judge ordered classrooms opened.

Lawyers for the Cleveland school board and six unions agreed to resume negotiations after a judge refused for the second time to order the employees — on strike for two weeks — back to work.

The walkout by 10,000 teachers and non-academic employees has crippled Cleveland's school system which serves 100,000 students.

In Lakewood, a suburb of Cleveland, teachers set up picket lines for the first time at the city's 14 schools.

Another teachers' strike which began Wednesday at the Southern Maine Vocational-Technical Institute in South Portland forced the cancellation of classes for nearly 1,000 students.

Washington state teachers also returned to work in the University Place School District after ratifying a new contract, and striking Everett teachers returned to classrooms rather than face $100-a-day fines.

Ongoing strikes in Tacoma and Seattle kept some 86,600 students out of school.

Finnish scientists say: Baldness can be halted.

LONDON — Two Finnish scientists say they have designed a scalp treatment that can halt baldness and even start new hair growing in many cases.

The scientists, who are putting the treatment on sale in the form of a solution, say that among volunteers who applied it to their scalp for 28 weeks, hair growth resumed in 60 per cent of the cases and hair loss decreased within four weeks.

The product called Bioscal, contains a synthetic detergent, which clears away dead hair and other dirt clogging the follicles — the tiny sacs in which hair grows.

Another ingredient, a compound, then sets in motion a process which allegedly results in the growth of new hair.

Water Fight Predicted

WASHINGTON (CP) — Water-supply problems could sour Canada-U.S. relations unless Canada acts soon to explain its position, a Canadian embassy official has warned.

Writing in International Perspectives, the bi-monthly publication of the external affairs department, Robert McGavin predicts that water shortages "could soon occupy centre stage among U.S. domestic problems."

"If Canada does not examine and satisfactorily explain its water-resource situation and adequately state its position concerning this resource, water-supply problems could have a bad effect on Canadian relations with the United States."

The situation, he suggests, could be similar to that created by the oil embargo, when fuel-short Americans assumed that Canada could come to their rescue and reacted with irritation as Canada instead reduced oil and gas exports to the United States.

McGavin, an officer of the trade commissioner service seconded to the embassy as press chief, advocates "broadly-based, comprehensive public affairs initiatives" to explain to Americans now that Canada's water resources are limited in practice.

Only three of the 18 federal water regions on the U.S. mainland, he says, are expected to be able to live comfortably with their water supplies by the year 2000.

Canada, meanwhile, has rivers that discharge nine per cent of the world's renewable water supply and has only one per cent of the world's population.

Such statistics would certainly attract the attention of U.S. cities, businesses and farmers who in future have to curtail expansion because of water problems.

But, McGavin says, Canada cannot in practice afford to solve U.S. water irob-lems.

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

When today's deal was played many years ago, our South declarer came up with a fine example of "card reading". The hand arose in a rubber-bridge game.

Both sides vulnerable.
East deals.

♡ 10 5 3
◇ 10 5

♣ A Q J

SOUTH
♠ Q 8 7 6 3
◇ A K J 6 4 2

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
2 ♡	3 ◇	Pass	Pass
4 ♡	4 ♠	Pass	Pass
5 ♡	Pass	Pass	5 ♠
Pass	Pass	Dble.	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♡.

East won the opening lead with his heart ace, after which he cashed the ace of clubs. Upon receiving the encouraging ten from his partner, East continued with the club queen, which South ruffed.

A trump was then led and when West followed suit with the deuce, declarer paused for a few seconds. Finally he put up dummy's ace — and caught East's singleton king. Next came the ace and king of diamonds, after which a third diamond was ruffed in dummy, West's queen falling. The jack and ten of trumps then picked up West's remaining trumps; and the contract was now there for the taking.

Taken out of context, the proper way of playing the trump suit would be to finesse against West's hoped-for king, since the chance of catching East with the singleton king was remote. Why did declarer choose to spurn the finesse?

As declarer expressed it, the answer was found in the interpretation of the East-West bidding and play. First, based on the bidding, West was known to have a poor hand, for he had passed at his first three opportunities to bid. Secondly, assuming that the defenders' play was honest, West had the club king based on his "come on" play of the ten when East had led the ace of clubs at trick two.

And, thirdly, declarer reasoned that if West had possessed both the king of clubs and the king of spades, he would have taken some action over South's four-spade bid, instead of passing. Hence declarer concluded that West just couldn't have the spade king. Thus declarer's sole hope of avoiding the loss of a trump trick became the outside possibility that East had been dealt the singleton king.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Friday, September 22
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21 - April 19): Accent humor, adaptability — keep diet resolutions. You'll be on the go — and tempted to break every sane rule of nutrition. Know it and take care of yourself. Short journey, significant telephone call could top agenda.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Accent on specifics connected with money. Leave nothing to chance. Valuables, personal possessions are spotlighted. Aquarius, Scorpio, Leo individuals figure in scenario. You will do very well—if you don't trip yourself with carelessness and a subconscious desire to "lose."

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): You shine—natural talents surface. Popularity surges upward — members of opposite sex pay you meaningful compliments. You're at right place at right time. Take initiative; make changes, express views, imprint style. Be independent in thought, action.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): Go slow, gather data, realize that you are on brink of discovery — and of being "discovered." Taurus, Libra, Scorpio persons figure prominently. Major domestic adjustment grabs spotlight. Money and emotions could clash. Be diplomatic without abandoning principles.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Check associate who "has a dream." Know difference between a dream and a scheme. Pisces, Virgo figure prominently— and so does the number 7. Define terms, perfect techniques, steer clear of self-deception. Accent on romance, hopes and wishes.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Emphasis on superiors, goals, ambitions, being rewarded for efforts. Relationship intensifies—you learn where you stand and what to do about it. Capricorn, Cancer and Libra persons figure prominently. You get "promoted."

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Highlight ideas, and finish with those who take with no thought of giving anything in return. Aries is in picture — and so is the number 9. Be ready for quick movement, trips, relatives who cry the blues, associates who do plenty of talking—and little else.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Emphasis on resolutions, determination to improve diet, recreation and work routines. Leo, Aquarias figure prominently. You might be involved in a "mystery." Something that was missing is located — you're instrumental in finding it through unorthodox or occult procedure.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Emphasis on legal affairs, public relations, cooperative efforts. Permit spotlight to shine on partner or mate. Play waiting game as you gather material. You do best by letting others show their hands, reveal their plans. Hold tight to your own secrets.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Probe, examine, ask, give full play to intellectual curiosity. You'll get some interesting—and—useful—answers. Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius persons figure in scenario. One who depends upon you returns the favor.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Good lunar aspect coincides with creativity, affair of heart. Give of yourself and you'll receive much in return. Young persons respond to you—vitality is much in evidence. Leo figure in significant way.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Utilize marvelous ability to perceive, analyze. Stick to factual data—get appaisal regarding property. Gemini, Virgo figure prominently. You will finish a major cycle — it is time to cut restricting ties.

IF SEPTEMBER 22 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are determined, creative, somewhat rebellious—you were "on your own" early. You might have been separated from one or both parents while relatively young. Scorpio, Leo persons play important roles in your life. You travel and have a more active social time in October. You will soon have more responsibility — you could be happier and more affluent as result.

U.K. Reports Cambodia Killings

LONDON (Reuter) — Many hundreds of thousands of people have perished in Cambodia directly or indirectly as a result of the policies of the Communist regime which came to power in 1975, says a British government report released Wednesday.

The report cited "reputable observers" for this estimate.

It spoke of wide-scale executions, forcible evacuation of cities, and complete suppression of the Buddhist religion.

The Cambodian government, in a note to the United Nations last April, said it had taken action only against a "handful of traitors." It criticized Britain for demanding action on alleged human rights violations in Cambodia.

But the British government report, released by the foreign office, makes the following allegations:

1. Since April, 1975, thousands of refugees have fled Cambodia, following a radical upheaval which involved the "forcible evacuation of the cities, wide-scale executions, and the destruction of much of the traditional Kampuchean (Cambodian) way of life."

2. There was widespread execution of military officers of the former regime after the Communist government came into power. "It is clear from many accounts from different sources that the execution of officers of the former Khmer Republic's army was not an act of revenge conducted in the heat of victory but a calculated act of policy," the report said.

3. Most senior officials "disappeared" at this time and have not been seen again.

4. Father Francois Ponchaud, the noted French authority on Cambodia, prepared a report drawing on the evidence of 40 Cambodian refugees from eight Cambodian provinces, all of whom left their country in 1977. This provides evidence the executions were continuing on a considerable scale in 1977, the British report said.

5. No refugee and no official Cambodian statement had ever referred to a trial. There were no courts, no defence and no appeals. Refugees had frequently reported that laziness or the mere expression of a complaint about the conditions of life had been sufficient grounds for execution.

6. It had been estimated that at least 85 per cent of the population of Cambodia used to practice Buddhism, which was the state religion. In the past three years, however, Buddhism has been completely suppressed, said the report.

7. Families had been divided and it had been general policy to separate men from women. "Extra-marital relations and even flirtations between the young are heavily punished," the report alleged.

The population of Cambodia in March, 1976, was about eight million.

GAME PUT OFF

BAGUIO CITY, Philippines (AP) — Champion Anatoly Karpov postponed the 25th game of the world chess championship today against challenger Viktor Korchnoi. The game now will be played Saturday.

The postponement came after Karpov and Korchnoi had played on seven of the last nine days.

Korchnoi used his third postponement to delay the 18th game on Aug. 31. Now he and Karpov are entitled to one postponement each during the next eight games.

500 GUNS UNCOVERED AT AIRPORT

LONDON (Reuter) — A consignment of 500 machine-guns bound for Mogadishu, Somalia, has been found at London's Heathrow airport in cases marked as agricultural machinery, customs officials said.

The guns, in 100 wooden crates, were under armed guard today at an airport warehouse while customs officers were investigating.

The discovery was made by handlers at the Trans World Airlines cargo shed when one of the cases split open. They called customs men who also found 18 metal drums, listed as containing oil, which held hundreds of ammunition belts but no ammunition.

Britons Want Out Of Ulster

LONDON (Reuter) — A majority of Britons want the government to withdraw troops from Northern Ireland, according to an opinion poll published today.

A growing number of public figures and organizations are now calling for troop withdrawal as the only solution to the 10-year sectarian and guerrilla struggle.

The latest demand came at the weekend from John Pardoe, deputy leader of the small Liberal Party. And last month, the mass circulation Daily Mirror urged the government to set a date when the 14,000 troops will be pulled out.

Details of the opinion poll, commissioned by the Irish Republic Radio Network, were published in The Times today. It said 55 per cent of those interviewed favored either an immediate or a phased withdrawal of troops over five years.

Independence Supported

LONDON (Reuter) — The five Western powers dealing with the Namibia (South West Africa) independence dispute intend to go to the Security Council shortly to recommend acceptance of Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim's report on proposed independence for the territory.

A Foreign Office spokesman said Wednesday the five powers — United States, Britain, France, West Germany and Canada — will affirm that Waldheim's report was in line with the proposals that the five countries had put for Namibian independence earlier this year.

The spokesman made the statement when asked to comment on South Africa's unilateral decision to call an election in disputed Namibia.

Waldheim's report envisaged a UN transitional force being dispatched to the territory to ensure peace and supervise one-man-one-vote elections leading to independence.

In calling elections, South Africa rejected Waldheim's report and accused the Western powers of backing down on earlier agreements for elections before the end of the year.

Castro Dines in Canada

GANDER, Nfld. — Cuban leader Fidel Castro made a brief stopover at the international airport here Wednesday en route to Havana from Moscow where he met top Soviet officials.

Castro was on the ground here for almost two hours while his Soviet aircraft was refuelled and enjoyed a steak dinner with airport manager Dick James.

HOLLYWOOD — Actor Carroll O'Connor, television's hot-tempered Archie Bunker, was put on a special diet and ordered to quit smoking and drinking after being treated for high blood pressure at University of California at Los Angeles Medical Centre.

O'Connor, 55, suffered a nosebleed backstage after winning an Emmy Award on Sunday for his role in the series All in the Family.

TORONTO — A funeral service was to be held today for David Dunkelman, founder of the Tip Top Tailors' clothing store chain. He died died Wednesday at 97.

Dunkelman started his firm in Toronto in 1910, producing $14, made-to-measure suits when off-the-rack suits were selling for $18 to $15.

HOUSTON — David, the famed Bubble Boy who has lived his entire life in a germ-free environment, will celebrate his seventh birthday at home today, complete with schoolmates, presents and a dinner of spaghetti and chocolate cake.

"I can't tell you what he's getting for his birthday because he might hear about it," said David's nurse, Brynn Holcombe. "It's supposed to be a surprise."

David was born with a rare blood disorder that does not allow him to fight disease-causing germs. He must live in a sterile isolation at his home or at Texas Children's Hospital.

To step out of his sterile environment would mean almost certain death so David will enjoy his birthday celebration from inside his so-called isolator while family and friends celebrate outside.

ST. PAUL, Minn. — Feminist leader Gloria Steinem gave a sermon Sunday, provoking hundreds of protests from angry Roman Catholics.

Ms. Steinem, editor of Ms. magazine and a supporter of women's right to abortion, delivered two sermons during masses at St. Joan of Arc Catholic Church in Minneapolis. The church was packed for both services, and many were turned away because there was no room.

PARIS — The city of Paris honored the late Maria Callas on Wednesday when a commemorative plaque was placed on her former residence in Paris' elegant XV1 district. Among those present at the ceremony marking the first anniversary of the opera singer's death were her sister, Evangelista Calogeropoulos, and the widow of former French President George Pompidou.

NEW YORK — Drama student Cat Davis, who said she's just a regular woman, Tuesday became the first woman to be given a licence allowing her to box in New York State.

Two other female pugilists — Marian "Tyger" Trimiar and Jackie "Tonawanda" Garret, a drug and alcohol abuse counselor — were also given wallet sized cards entitling them to meet other women in the ring by state Athletic Commission Chairman John Prenderville.

"It wasn't a feminist thing," said Miss Davis, a 26-year-old New Orleans native. "If a person could do a job, why not?"

Miss Davis, a slim 5-foot, 10-inch blonde with a Farrah-Fawcett hair style, first entered boxing for exercise and to improve her fencing skills.

SNAKE LOVER PET'S VICTIM

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — A 33-year-old reptile collector has died of strangulation after a pet python more than 10 metres long overpowered him at his home during a feeding.

The victim was identified by Boone County authorities as Douglas Martin, an electrician.

His wife told Kentucky state police she found him unconscious in the basement of their home late Tuesday with a python coiled around his neck. Boone County Coroner Don Stith said he was certain death was attributable to strangulation by the snake.

Martin owned three reticulated pythons and a boa constrictor, alligators, lizards, turtles and other snakes.

"If it crawls or slithers, it's down there," said policeman Mike Evans.

In Holland, the Dutch treat themselves to Canadian Club.

In reclaiming land from the sea, the Dutch have built a country admired both for its beauty and its great sense of tradition. Visit the land of tulips, dikes and windmills and you'll also find the whisky that's a tradition in lightness, mellowness and smoothness: Canadian Club.

It's nice to know the world can get together about something. Around the world when people think of the finest, lightest, smoothest whisky, they think of Canadian Club.

Canadian Club. Two-Bit Fracas a Real Traffic Stopper

DETROIT (AP) — In a freeway free-for-all, dozens of drivers stopped their cars in afternoon traffic to scramble for an estimated $5,000 worth of quarters that spilled from a moving armored truck on the busy Chrysler Freeway.

Street-level pedestrians swooped onto the freeway to join the two-bit fracas.

Several bags of quarters split open as they hit the pavement, scattering the silver along the concrete.

Traffic backed up for two miles in northern Detroit as word of the spill spread.

Police, called to help clean up the coins and return them to the Purolator Security Co. truck, chased a swarm of quarter-grabbers up the freeway embankment and over a fence.

Short Tulips Best for Pots

A number of home gardeners have told me they have not had too much luck growing tulips in window boxes and patio planters.

There are several reasons for this, and since some are difficult to overcome there is no reason for listing them now, but you can expect better results if the plan outlined here is followed.

For a start you will need a short growing variety of tulip, not the tall ones commonly seen in gardens during late spring.

There are varieties especially suited to pot culture and these are the ones that do best in window boxes and planters.

Any bulb dealer that knows his stock can tell you the names to look for, and his list will probably include Prince of Austria, Madam Testout, together with others of later vintage.

Pot up the bulbs in a good potting mixture of soil, sand, and compost, adding a four-inch potful of bonemeal to a garden wheelbarrow of mixture.

The number of bulbs to a pot will depend on the size of bulbs and the size of the pots. A five-inch pot should hold four top-size bulbs. These are the most expensive but the results more than justify the extra pennies.

Next, dig a trench in the garden deep enough to take the pots and allow a covering of about two inches of soil.

Leave the pots in the trench for the winter so that the plants grow just as they do in flower borders and beds.

Buried in this manner they will get all the moisture they need, which rarely happens in flower boxes over winter, and they will be better protected from frost which soon penetrates the small amount of soil in a window box or wooden planter.

Next spring, just before the plants are ready to bloom, lift the pots from the trench and "plant" them, pot and all, into the window boxes or planters.

By using varieties with different blooming periods it would be possible to change the pots and have good color over several weeks.

After bloomng has finished the bulbs can be properly ripened by burying the pots again in the garden, watering and feeding as for border or bed plantings. Annuals could then go into the boxes and planters without delay.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS. It seems right to say a few words about the magnificent chrysanthemum blooms which have been so abundant in the local fall shows.

I am thinking especially of the ordinary non-specialist home gardener who visited these shows and made notes of the finest varieties with the intention of purchasing plants.

Such a gardener would expect to meet with the same success in the garden, but I am afraid there would be some disappointments.

One reason is that many of the giants of the show bench are selected exhibition varieties not necessarily good for growing in the average garden border.

Another reason is that a knowledge of the culture of these plants has to be grasped before success can be achieved. It is not a case of putting in a plant in spring and picking perfect blooms at show time.

On the other hand their culture is quite possible in the average garden and the necessary knowledge is not difficult to obtain.

There is a group devoted solely to culture and showing of these plants, the Victoria and District Chrysanthemum Society, founded to increase interest and knowledge in this particular flower. There is also a Chrysanthemum Group associated with the Victoria Horticultural Society.

Any gardener whose interest in chrysanthemums has been stimulated by visiting the shows would do well to join one or bkth of these groups so as to learn immediately the preparatory steps to good results next season.

308 CARD OF THANKS

STODDART

We would like to express our sincere thanks to all our relatives and friends for their kind words and letters during our recent sad bereavement. — Ina, Sandra, Sue and Rob and Family.

Mr. Robert Johnson and family wishes to express their sincere thanks for the cards and donations on behalf of a loving wife and beloved mother. A special thanks to Dr. G. B. McLean and staff of Royal Jubilee Hospital.

I wish to extend my heartfelt thanks and appreciation to all our friends for the cards, and kind thoughts shown me in the recent loss of my beloved husband John (Jack) A. McMaster. From Mrs. Linda McMaster.

309 IN MEMORIAM

EVELEIGH—In memory of a beloved mother and grandmother Freda Helene who passed away September 21st, 1973. And beloved father and grandfather who passed away September 13th, 1972.

We miss you Mom and Dad,
more than words can say,
We still cannot remember two sadder days,
Our only wish is that you were here today,
To see your three little grandchildren.
We miss you more than ever.
—Bob, Diane, Heidi, Scott and Graeme.

EVELEIGH—Loving memories of Dad, Gerald Charles, died September 13, 1972, and Mom, Freda Helene, died September 21, 1973.

Your memory is our keepsake,
With which we'll never part.
God has you in His keeping,
We have you in our hearts.
—Sadly missed, Irene, Ken, Terry, Gerry, Cherie and Lori.

REIMER — In loving memory of Kerry, who we lost at 6 months old, Sept. 21, 1977. Missed deeply by Mommy, Daddy, Kelly and Shawn.

We never sang her a lullaby,
Or tucked her into bed,
But we are happy in the knowledge
That You do these things
For even though we lost her,
She went straight to Your arms,
And she must be the in tiniest
Angel that's in Heaven.

Thank you, Lord for healing the hurt,
And for sending us
two other children—
Not to take her place,
But to ease the pain of our loss and thank You, most of all,
For rocking our first little daughter
To sleep each night.

REIMER—In loving memory of my granddaughter, Kerry Elizabeth Reimer, who passed away Sept. 21, 1977, aged six months.

She had a nature you could not help loving.
A heart that was purer
than gold.
And to those who knew her and loved her,
The memory of her will never grow old.
—Always loved and missed deeply by Grandma Paige.

HOW TO WRITE

A GOOD

CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc., for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, 8:00 to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

INTRICATE detail goes into these miniature Cossacks. Mary Makvavor, 72, of Thornhill, Ont., sells the models of the famous Russian cavalrymen that she makes.

A Soothing Word So Switch Stations

STE. ADELE, Que. (CP) — Sounds unlikely, but drivers travelling in the Laurentian Mountains north of Montreal will soon be warned by announcers on Radio CIME after 11.30 p.m. to switch stations for their own safety.

Beginning Monday, the station plans to experiment with soothing "subliminal messages" during its late-night music program.

The messages, inserted into music at seven-minute intervals, are meant only to relax listeners, but owners of the station, which called itself "the voice of the Laurentian Autoroute" when it went on the airwaves in May, 1977, don't want to take any chances of putting drivers to sleep.

Subliminal messages — which are "seen" or "heard" only by the subconscious — are forbidden by the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission in advertising, but there are no regulations outlawing such messages in music or other non-advertisement programming.

Station owner Colette Chabot, wife of a psychiatrist who has been conducting tests with subliminal messages as a way to reduce stress, thinks the CIME-FM experiment may be a North American first.

During the late 1960s, patrons in some United States movie theatres were "shown" images of popcorn shortly before intermission. Too quick to be perceived by the naked eye, they were apparently a great success in enticing viewers to buy up snacks. Since then, the messages have been outlawed.

But Ms. Chabot says the radio has no commercial reason for the subliminal messages — they are simply a way to help some listeners relax and others combat insomnia.

The messages "are not meant to put our listeners to sleep," she said, "but simply to help them relax and attain real rest."

The station's experiment poses the question for federal regulatory officials of how to control subliminal messages that might not be in the public interest.

Michel Arpin, the CRTC's programming director, says he does not know of any technical means of keeping tabs on subliminal information spliced into radio programs.

Many Students Shown Opposed to Casual Sex

OTTAWA (CP) — A recent student study about sexual and contraceptive attitudes shows many do not engage in premarital sex indiscriminately.

Data obtained from 106 girls in two southern Ontario high schools and 447 women from two Ontario universities and three community colleges, was made public by university researchers in the July-August issue of the Canadian Journal of Public Health.

The schools were not named.

Three quarters of the students sampled said they approved of premarital sex if they felt a strong affection for their partners; only five per cent approved of sex in a casual relationship in which they did not feel a strong affection, the study said.

However, it was emphasized that since the samples were chosen in a random manner, they are not necessarily representative of Canadian youth as a whole.

But, the study said, "a generation gap in sexual values is shown since almost all the young women believed their parents would disapprove of premarital intercourse."

Those sampled who had not experienced premarital sex said they were not opposed to having sex but that they were not ready to engage in it, the study said.

"The reason given most often by the high school females (32 per cent) was they had not met a person with whom they wanted to have intercourse."

The second most common reason given by the high school girls and the most common given by the older women was they did not feel ready to have premarital sex, the study said.

Most women sampled gave strong support for birth control, but many did not use a contraceptive device at first sexual experience, the study showed.

Thirty-five per cent of high school students did not use a contraceptive method during first sexual encounter and 29 per cent used withdrawal as a means of birth control. Of the older students, 22 per cent did not use protection at first encounter and 26 per cent used withdrawal.

However, "fear of pregnancy is a real concern and there is no evidence to support the contention that many sexually-active young women desire to become pregnant or that they consider abortion an easy alternative to contraception."

Trigger Happy Fraser River Shots Rapped

VANCOUVER (CP) — The vice-president of the Ontario Humane Society said Wednesday the scarcity of waterfowl hunting grounds in southeastern British Columbia has resulted in "trigger-happy" hunters vying for a dwindling number of birds.

Tom Hughes, a former B.C. resident and hunter, was speaking to the annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Humane Societies.

"The competition is so stiff that they're often shooting at birds they can't hit or that they can only wound," he said. "They take shots at anything because they know it might be the only shot they'll get."

He said the establishment of the Westham Island sanctuary and Roberts Bank coal port south of Vancouver has aggravated the congestion and resulted in "the most dangerous place to hunt in Canada", more dangerous than the crowded Luther marshes in Ontario.

The high-intensity shooting has made the Fraser River marshes the worst lead-laden estuary in the country, he said, adding that the spent shot poses enormous danger for waterfowl which eat the pellets.

"Fewer and fewer ducks will be eaten when people realize that lead poisoning provides a danger to the person who consumes the duck," Hughes said.

Norm Perret of the Canadian Wildlife Service said Hughes' comments were exaggerated and that overcrowding on the marshes is improving.

Union Slams Kenworth

BURNABY (CP) — The Canadian Association of Industrial, Mechanical and Allied Workers (CAIMAW), which represents 500 Kenworth Canadian Co. workers here, Wednesday accused the corporation of causing Canadian disunity by threatening to close its Quebec plant.

"This is a flagrant example of the economic and political interference in the internal affairs of the Quebec people, which has caused so much disunity in our land," CAIMAW president Jess Succamore said. The CAIMAW national executive board is meeting in Vancouver this week.

Succamore said the union learned that the corporation has delivered individual ultimatums to striking Kenworth workers, represented by the United Auto Workers in Ste. Therese, Quebec. He said Kenworth president R. A. Buckner is threatening to shut the plant unless the workers vote to return to work.

He said a contract has been tentatively reached but the Quebec workers refuse to work without an amnesty on disciplinary action by the company.

He said the union believes the company action is unlawful. "The company should be prosecuted for violation and contempt of Quebec labor laws," he said.

Kenworth's truck-making plant here was closed for one day last month in response to Quebec pickets. Earlier this week, Succamore said he and a Burnaby plant representative appealed to Buckner to lift the threat of disciplinary action.

"We asked him to give consideration to the fact that he would be adding to the disunity of the country and that a unique critical time is prevailing in Quebec right now," Succamore said.

Edmonton Teachers Back

EDMONTON (CP) — The city's public school teachers and students returned to classrooms today for the first time since Sept. 7 when the teachers went on strike over a contract dispute with the school board.

But it was not known how long the classes will stay open.

The 3,900 teachers, members of the Alberta Teachers' Association (ATA), were ordered back to school Wednesday by Labor Minister Neil Crawford.

However, the teachers were planning to play for a court injunction today against the back-to-work order, said ATA negotiator Nick Leskiw.

The public system's 67,000 students had been attending classes for only two days when the schools were closed by the strike.

Teacher spokesmen said the strike was not caused by monetary issues. They said the teachers wanted the board to eliminate split-class teaching methods in the system and increase the number of teachers in proportion to students.

Trustees, however, have claimed the teachers' demands infringe on management rights of the board, which is elected by taxpayers to manage the system. They said financial restrictions require the method of split classes, whereby one teacher supervises two classes in the same room.

After a series of meetings with the cabinet and both sides, Alberta Labor Minister Neil Crawford announced the back-to-work order Wednesday, saying classes would start today.

AUTO TRADE DEFICIT CUT

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's deficit in auto trade with the U.S. was $311 million in the first half of 1978, compared with $593 million in the same period last year, Statistics Canada reported Wednesday.

The reduction in the deficit was accounted for by a $716-million surplus in trade in trucks and a finished automobile surplus of $820 million.

There was also a surplus in tire trade of $19 million in the first half of this year compared with a deficit of $13 million in the same period of 1977.

But automotive parts trade, always a trouble spot, showed a deficit of $1.866 billion in the first six months, up 12 per cent from the total for a year ago.

Total exports of automotive products to the U.S. rose by nearly $800 million, or 15 per cent, to $5.946 billion in the first half of the year.

Strike at Inco 'A Moral Thing'

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Employees at Inco Metals Ltd. knew they faced incredible odds when they voted to strike against the multinationl nickel corporation "but it was a moral thing, we have no other choice," says union vice-president Ron MacDonald.

The strike, begun Friday by 11,700 members of United Steelworkers of America, "is going to be a long strike unless attitudes change drastically," MacDonald said Wednesday.

Inco, largest employer of this Northen Ontario community, has enough nickel stockpiled around the world to keep its customers supplied for six or seven months. Its operations at Thomson, Man., and Port Colborne, Ont., are still going.

The union has enough money to feed its members and their families — "it might just be bread and beans" — and a determination to fight what it says are Inco attempts to whittle away contract guarantees won in previous negotiations.

"They have us backed into a corner, we know we are not in a good bargaining position," MacDonald said in an interview. "But we are fighting for something we believe in."

Joyal Plans to Wrest Montreal off Drapeau

MONTREAL (CP) — Liberal MP Serge Joyal announced Wednesday he will be a candidate for mayor of Montreal in the Nov. 12 municipal elections.

Joyal told a news conference he was running for the Municipal Action Group, a newly-formed political party opposing Mayor Jean Drapeau.

"Every indication which normally allows one to measure the health of a city, a great city, a city which 20 years ago was the metropolis of Canada, shows signs of a turning-point which risks dragging us into social and economic difficulties without a solution," Joyal read from a prepared statement.

Joyal, who represents the Montreal riding of Maisonneuve-Rosemont, said he has advised Prime Minister Trudeau and other Liberal party leaders of his intention to run for the mayoralty. If he wins, he said, "I shall terminate my mandate at the next federal election."

He said that while the population of Miontreal was dropping — "a hemorrhage" — the burden of the taxpayer was increasing. "The Montreal region is less able now than it was in the past to play its primary role in the provincial economy, in maintaining its relative position on the North American scale."

Taxes have a stranglehold on Montrealers because of a "waste of public funds with no mechanism for control."

Referring to the present administration and the city council, Joyal said: "When a system of government has no means of stopping its extravagances, one may seriously wonder whether its elected assembly still has any sense in the framework of our democratic institutions."

The first role of an elected assembly, he said, was to control the use of public funds. But in Montreal, the task had devolved to the executive body, dominated by the mayor.

"Re-establishing control of public funds, putting an end to financialabsues and stopping the increase in taxes is the first priority," he said.

Mayor Drapeau, Joyal said, had done many important things for Montreal but "his administration is worn out," and the mayor's Civic Party is "too dominated, domesticated and vassalized by one man."

Quebec Permits Crack In Language Laws

OTTAWA (CP) — Quebec will permit federal government installations to breach provincial legislation and post bilingual signs, a senior public servant said today.

Maurice LeClair, secretary of the federal treasury board, said in an interview that the Quebec government has indicated in informal communications that "common sense will prevail," and bilingual signs will remain.

But if the Quebec government attempts to prosecute a private company operating in the name of the federal government, Ottawa will aid the company in a court defence, said LeClair, who has deputy minister status in the treasury board.

LeClair said the Quebec government realizes the federal Official Languages Act, which demands bilingual signs be posted at federal installations, prevails over Quebec's Charter of the French Language, which says signs should be in French only.

The situation is less clear for private companies or agencies under contract to the federal government or operating within federal buildings, he said.

For instance, the federal government would not require a tobacco shop in a federal building in Quebec to post bilingual signs.

However, a private company under federal contract to serve passengers in an airport would need to post bilingual signs, according to the Official Languages Act.

LeClair said the federal government is willing to be flexible regarding sign requirements for this type of a private company. He doubted Quebec would make a fuss if bilingual signs remain.

"We have had some contacts with La Regie," he said, referring to the provincial government agency overseeing the implementation of Quebec's language legislation.

"They are pretty well motivated . . . they don't want to make a fuss."

LeClair wrote letters to all Crown agencies and deputy ministers of all federal departments saying a study is being conducted into the ramifications of the provincial legislation on signs and publications.

"We particularly want to know if federal departments . . . as well as those acting in their name can be required to conform to these articles," the letter said.

LeClair said he believes that companies of a strictly commercial nature would not be required to post bilingual signs but those of a more public service nature would need to.

Dozers Bury Quake Victims

TEHRAN (Reuter) — Bulldozers piled more bodies into mass graves today in the disaster town of Tabas, flattened by the worst earthquake in Iran this century.

More than 9,000 quake victims have now been buried, their bodies shrounded in white cloth.

Some were buried in single graves, others in long, shallow pits dug by bulldzoers in a makeshift cemetery on the outskirts of Tabas.

The precise death toll from the quake, which devastated Tabas and more than 40 surrounding villages in northeastern Khorassan province last Saturday night, is still not known. It has been officially estimated at 16,000, but is thought to be higher.

Rescue workers Wednesday dug out a young girl kept alive for four days in an air pocket under planks which prevented debris falling on top of her.

The Shah, who visited Tabas Wednesday, said there might be more survivors still alive and ordered special detectors to be rushed to the town.

Army and civilian medical workers have already sprayed disinfectant powder on the town to prevent disease spreading from putrefying bodies and contaminated water.

More than 900 survivors have been inoculated against typhoid, but no cases of infectious illness had yet been reported.

The Shah hinted that relief supplies and blankets were not all going to the people they were intended for, and newspapers reported that several people had been arrested for looting.

Officials are planning to start rebuilding Tabas in two to three weeks. But it is not yet known whether the oasis town on the ancient silk route between Europe and China will be moved to a new site.

A spokesman for Iran's Geophysical Institute has rejected suggestions from the Bochum Observatory in West Germany that the quake might have been caused or amplified by an underground nuclear test in the Soviet Union 36 hours before.

There was no evidence of any link been the nuclear blast in Siberia and the disaster in Iran's most dangerous earthquake belt, the spokesman said.

Trade Problem Over Six Items

WASHINGTON (CP) — U.S. trade negotiators have reported that their major problems with Canada concern footwear, fruit, vegetables, chickens, eggs and liqueurs.

In the annual presidential report to Congress on U.S. trade negotiations, those six items are singled out for mention in the brief section on U.S.-Canada trade problems.

The report notes that Canada instituted quotas on footwear imports last December, threatening to reduce U.S. footwear exports to Canada "substantially" and leading the United States to request consultations under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

On fruit and vegetables, the report says the United States wants consultation on Canadian Tariff Board recommendations that duties of those two items be substantially increased.

Canadian proposals to expand the powers of the existing Broiler Marketing Board "could markedly reduce U.S. exports of chickens and eggs to Canada," the report says.

In general, "proposals for trade restrictive measures on agricultural imports continue to be of concern to the United States."

The other U.S. complaint is that Canada in 1976 withdrew a tariff concession on liqueurs in retaliation against European Economic Community lead-zinc measures.

NO QUESTIONS ALLOWED . . .

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal human rights commission has developed a policy which bars federal employers from asking job applicants to pass medical examinations or to provide basic personal information about sex, age, marital status, birthplace and other details.

The policy affects all employers under federal jurisdiction ranging from government departments and agencies to Crown corporations and institutions such as chartered banks.

It was developed in detail after the commission received requests from employers for guidance on a section of the Human Rights Act prohibiting the collection of any "potentially discriminatory" information on an employment application form or in an employment interview.

The policy becomes effective when the employers have received policy guides currently being translated for publication in coming weeks and have had a chance to design and print new job forms.

The commission flatly bars some questions, including any indicating the applicant's race or color of skin, eyes and hair.

The employer is barred from seeking some information until after the person is hired. This includes a medical examination, verification of age, marital status, documentary proof of eligibility to work in Canada and photographs.

And for some questions now routinely asked, the commission recommends "acceptable" replacements.

Go Slow Agaih In France

AIX EN PROVENCE, France (Reuter) — French air controllers will start a new work slowdown on Friday for an indefinite period, union officials announced Wednesday.

The slowdown—after a summer of similar work actions that left thousands of vacationers stranded at airports for days—was announced after talks here between unions from France's four air control centers.

A joint statement said the controllers were resuming their action to protest the French government's refusal to negotiate.

Talks between controllers' delegates and the French Transport Ministry broke down last week when the controllers walked out, saying the ministry had made no new proposals and was refusing to negotiate.

RESIGN, CHRETIEN TOLD

Ottawa Again Borrows Abroad

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Jean Chretien made another move Wednesday to support the troubled dollar, saying the government plans a new sale of $750 million U.S. worth of bonds in New York.

Counting this issue, the government has arranged for credit and loans totalling $7.7 billion in the last year to back the dollar. Interest payments on those loans and arrangements are costing the country more than $100,000 daily, finance department estimates indicate.

The announcement brought a call from Sinclair Stevens, the Progressive Conservative finance critic, for Chretien's resignation. The finance minister has lost control of his portfolio, Stevens said.

Chretien's statement came after money markets closed, showing the Canadian dollar at a new 45-year low of 85.43 cents U.S. At noon today the dollar was up 4-25 at $0.8559.

The decline came despite efforts last week by the Bank of Canada to halt devaluation through an interest rate increase.

The bond sale will be the second this year in the New York market. The first also totalled $750 million U.S. and was supplemented by credit arrangements with Canadian and foreign banks, sales of reserves holdings and a borrowing of 1.5 billion West German marks (about $705 million) as the government struggled to defend the dollar.

Chretien said the new borrowing represents another step in an ongoing government program to attract foreign capital that could help prop up the dollar's value.

He gave no details of the issue, saying these will come when the government files a required registration statement with the U.S. Securities and Echange Commission.

Stevens, noting that recent government efforts have failed to halt the dollar's fall, said one of the more important steps that could be taken is for Chretien to resign.

MONTREAL (CP) — Police said two hooded men hijacked a truck carrying 250 boxes of cigarettes with a value of about $96,000 Tuesday night.

Posties Gearing For Midnight . . .

There appears no way out of rotating strikes by letter carriers beginning at midnight tonight as negotiations between the union and the federal government are at a standstill.

Postmaster-General Gilles Lamontagne said Wednesday, following a full cabinet meeting, that he would contact union leaders to resume talks in an effort to head off the strikes.

But Robert McGarry, president of the 19,000-member union, said in a telephone interview late Wednesday that Lamontagne had not reached him and that he was not optimistic about a settlement.

"I don't expect to hear from them (government negotiators) until tomorrow now," he said. "I know them better than that."

Asked if he thought last-minute talks would avert a strike, McGarry said, "Not unless there's a sure settlement."

Lamontagne said Parliament was unlikely to be recalled immediately to put an end to any walkout, although Prime Minister Trudeau has suggested legislation to force letter carriers back to work if the strike is prolonged.

Lamontagne said there is no easy solution to the dispute, which centres on wage demands.

"The cabinet explored all possible avenues and we will try to find a solution, but I am caught between the government's restraint program and union demands that go beyond the acceptable limits. There is no easy solution."

The government has rejected union proposals for a cost-of-living formula which is 19 cents more than the government says it can accept over a proposed 18-month contract.

Union leaders said Tuesday they chose rotating strikes rather than a country-wide walkout to allow delivery of monthly old age pension and family allowance cheques.

But since then two groups have split with the national executive on the issue. About 1,000 Quebec City members voted Wednesday to undertake a general strike in their area rather than follow the executive's order for rotating strikes.

And letter carriers in Red Deer said the Alberta plan calls for rotating strikes in Calgary and Edmonton only.

NEW OWNERS FOR AIRWEST

VANCOUVER (CP) — AirWest Airlines Ltd. has been sold to a group of B.C. and Alberta businessmen for between $4 million and $8 million, according to the Vancouver Sun.

The agreement is subject to the new group of owners getting a commercial licence from the air transport committee of the Canadian transport commission. The commission is expected to rule on the application next month.

Transport Canada provides the operational licence dealing with such matters as whether an airline is meeting safety and operational requirements.

Daryl Smith, regional comptroller of civil aviation of Transport Canada in Vancouver, said AirWest "last week, as a mater of course, was subjected to an audit.

"AirWest, according to that review, was found to be complying with all the various pieces of legislation affecting an airline. That review concluded that the company's performance was satisfactory."

Assad Fears Attack on Syria

THE BYRDS

Times News Services

Syrian President Hafez Al-Assad has opened a summit of Arab leaders determined to wreck the Camp David Mideast peace package with a blistering attack on President Anwar Sadat of Egypt.

He suggested Wednesday that Egypt and Israel might launch a joint military attack against Syria.

Assad is host to a summit meeting of the five-member Front for Steadfastness and Confrontation, which groups Syria, Algeria, South Yemen, Libya and the Palestine Liberation Organization.

All regard the Camp David agreements between Israel and Egypt as a sellout of the Arab cause and an Egyptian surrender to Israeli and American conditions.

"I do not rule out the possibility that Sadat, in association with his friend Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, will launch an offensive operation against Syria," Assad told the Arab leaders at the opening of the meeting.

Sadat, meanwhile, begins his campaign today to win Arab support for the Camp David proposals when he confers with Morocco's King Hassan.

Egyptian officials said he hoped to gain the private backing of the king, who last year spoke in favor of Sadat's peace mission to Jerusalem.

U.S. State Secretary Cyrus Vance failed to win Jordan's backing for the Camp David accords and flew to Saudi Arabia today to seek that powerful kingdom's help in the U.S.-mediated peace plan.

Jordanian Foreign Minister Hassain Ibrahim, standing with Vance at Amman airport, said Jordan still has reservations about the Camp David plan's failure to deal with the question of the ultimate status of the Israeli-occupied West Bank and the Palestinian people.

Pat Bay Highway Kills Again

A 69-year-old Abbotsford woman was killed Wednesday in a two-car collision at the Pat Bay Highway and Sayward Road.

Derkje Oldenhof was the second person to die in Greater Victoria traffic mishaps this week.

She was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Gerrit, 74, who is in serious condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital with multiple injuries.

Saanich police said the Oldenhof car was proceeding south on the highway and turning on to Sayward when in collision with a northbound van driven by Erich Eichhorn, 48, of 9882 Seventh Street in Sidney.

Eichhorn escaped with only a bump on his head.

AirCan Strike Backed

MONTREAL (CP) — Even though all strike votes have not been counted, the union for Air Canada's 2,700 flight attendants says it has overwhelming support for a walkout to back contract demands.

Merl Day, business agent for the Canadian Air Line Flight Attendants' Association, said Wednesday he could not give exact figures on how many ballots had been counted, nor on the margin in favor of striking.

But he said results from the major centres of Toronto and Montreal had been tabulated, and outstanding ballots — mainly from Winnipeg and Halifax — would not be enough to reverse the results.

There appeared to be some confusion as to just when the attendants will be in a position to strike.

One report said the mediator's report had been sent to the federal labor department on Monday allowing the employees to walk off the job next Monday.

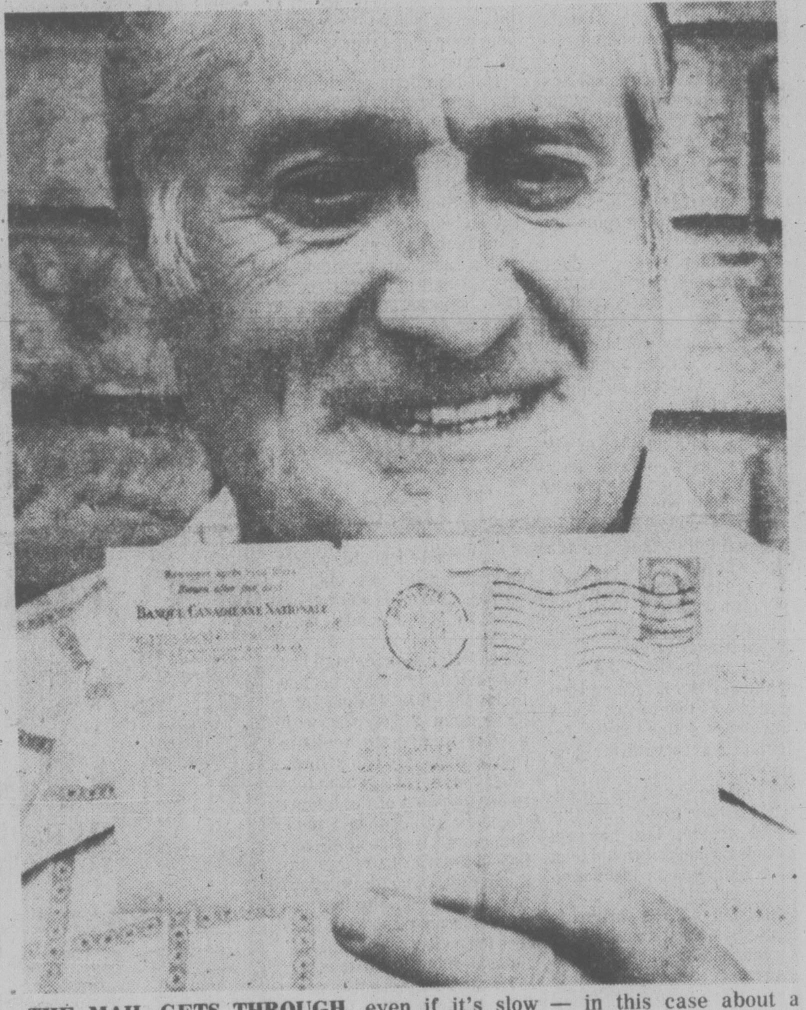
Federal labor law requires employees to wait seven days after the labor minister has received a mediator's report before going on strike.

However, Gordon McCaffrey, a special adviser to the labor minister, said today the mediation report has not yet been received by the department.

He said he doesn't know when the report will be forwarded to the department. That was up to the mediator.

"But we expect the collective bargaining to continue after the report is received," said McCaffrey.

The airline has already said it will keep flying if the attendants walk out, using more than 600 office volunteers trained to take over the jobs of cabin crews.



THE MAIL GETS THROUGH, even if it's slow — in this case about a generation late. Montrealer Willie Rabinovitch received notification in the mail Wednesday of a cheque which bounced — 23 years ago. The letter was postmarked Jan. 27, 1955, and addressed to his wife's first husband.

LEGION MUST SHARE ROAD DEATH BLAME

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — An Ontario Supreme Court jury Wednesday awarded damages totalling $387,000 to two children who were injured and whose parents were killed in a 1975 car accident.

The jury found the Royal Canadian Legion — where a man involved in the accident was said to have been drinking prior to the mishap — 15 per cent responsible and ordered the legion to pay into court $58,000 for Jeffrey Picka, 15, and his sister, Jennifer, 11, for their injuries and the loss of their parents.

Brenda and Jerry Picka of Kitchener were killed Sept. 12, 1975, in a collision with a car driven by Beverly Porter, 60, of Woodstock, on a highway near New Hamburg, Ont. A passenger in the Porter car, Wilfred Callan of Woodstock, also was killed.

Porter, who from earlier evidence was said to have run a stop sign at high speed before the accident, was held 85 per cent responsible.

The jury found Porter had been drinking beer at the legion branch in Woodstock on the afternoon of the accident and had in his blood at least twice the legal limit of alcohol for impaired driving.

The legion allowed Porter to drink to excess and was negligent in not providing adequate supervision of its patrons on the day of the accident, the jury held.

Only one man was assigned to keep an eye on patrons and the legion bartender apparently was too busy to do so, the jury found.

The patrons' practice of buying rounds of drinks for the table was also cited as a factor in the inadequate supervision.

Jennifer, now living in Hamilton, who suffered extensive facial scars and head injuries in the accident, will receive $259,000. Medical specialists said she suffered brain damage that causes spells of forgetfulness and vagueness.

Jeffrey, now living in Ottawa, will receive $119,000. He suffered a broken collarbone and what medical specialists called a delayed grief reaction over his parents' deaths.

The award consists of $252,000 for general damages, mainly physical injuries, and $135,000 for the loss of the parents.

Socred Surplus Shelled

Social Credit financial policies that led to a $140.5 million surplus in the last fiscal year have been attacked on both the political and economic fronts.

NDP finance critic Dave Stupich (Nanaimo) said today if the surplus had been injected into the economy instead of stashed away for propaganda purposes at least 10,000 new jobs would have been created.

And Prof. Leonard Laudadio, chairman of the economic department of the University of Victoria, says such a surplus only shows politicians get a "psychological kick" out of overtaxing the people.

The surplus does nothing to fight inflation or reduce unemployment, he said.

Finance Minister Evan Wolfe Wednesday released the province's financial and economic review for the 1977-78 fiscal year which ended March 31.

He said surprisingly high revenues, especially from the sale of oil and gas exploration permits and from increases in sales tax revenues, led to the $140.5 million surplus.

Conservative leader Vic Stephens said the surplus shows the people have been overtaxed and that Wolfe's statement that it resulted from good money management was nonsense.

"Creating a surplus doesn't take a genius, just a heavy hand with taxes."

Surplus Threat Irks Civic Leaders

PENTICTON (CP) — A threat by the British Columbia government to control excessive municipal surpluses brought an angry response from civic politicians attending the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention here Wednesday.

Hugh Curtis, municipal affairs and housing minister, warned that the provincial government was examining controls in view of what he saw as excessive surpluses.

Speaking to about 1,000 delegates, the minister said they meant "an unjustified surtax on every class of property taxpayer."

Curtis said over the years municipalities have accumulated a total of $324.6 million in surpluses, while provincial government guidelines permit them to have a total surplus of $144 million.

Victoria Ald. Murray Glazier, chairman of the city's finance committee, said today in Penticton that Curtis' remarks were obviously not directed at Victoria because the city had an exemplary record in this respect.

"We just don't have these undesignated surplus accounts," he added.

Glazier noted that the city does have a waterworks capital reserve of around $125,000 in the event of major replacements being required for water services.

Its general revenue reserve stands at about $300,000 and in addition there is "a bunch of equipment depreciation accounts."

But he pointed out that a $514,000 surplus last year was carried forward to appear as a revenue item in this year's budget, and the same thing was done with a $1.18 million surplus at the end of 1976.

New Westminster Mayor Muni Evers, a former president of the UBCM, accused the minister of "making accusations against municipalities that are really a matter of book-keeping."

"I could come up with any manner of surpluses in the different ways I could juggle the books," he said. "It all depends where the money is and what is earmarked for the future.

Kelowna alderman Jim Stuart, chairman of the Municipal Finance Authority, said Curtis' comments are misleading and "show the old expression about figures don't lie but liars can figure."

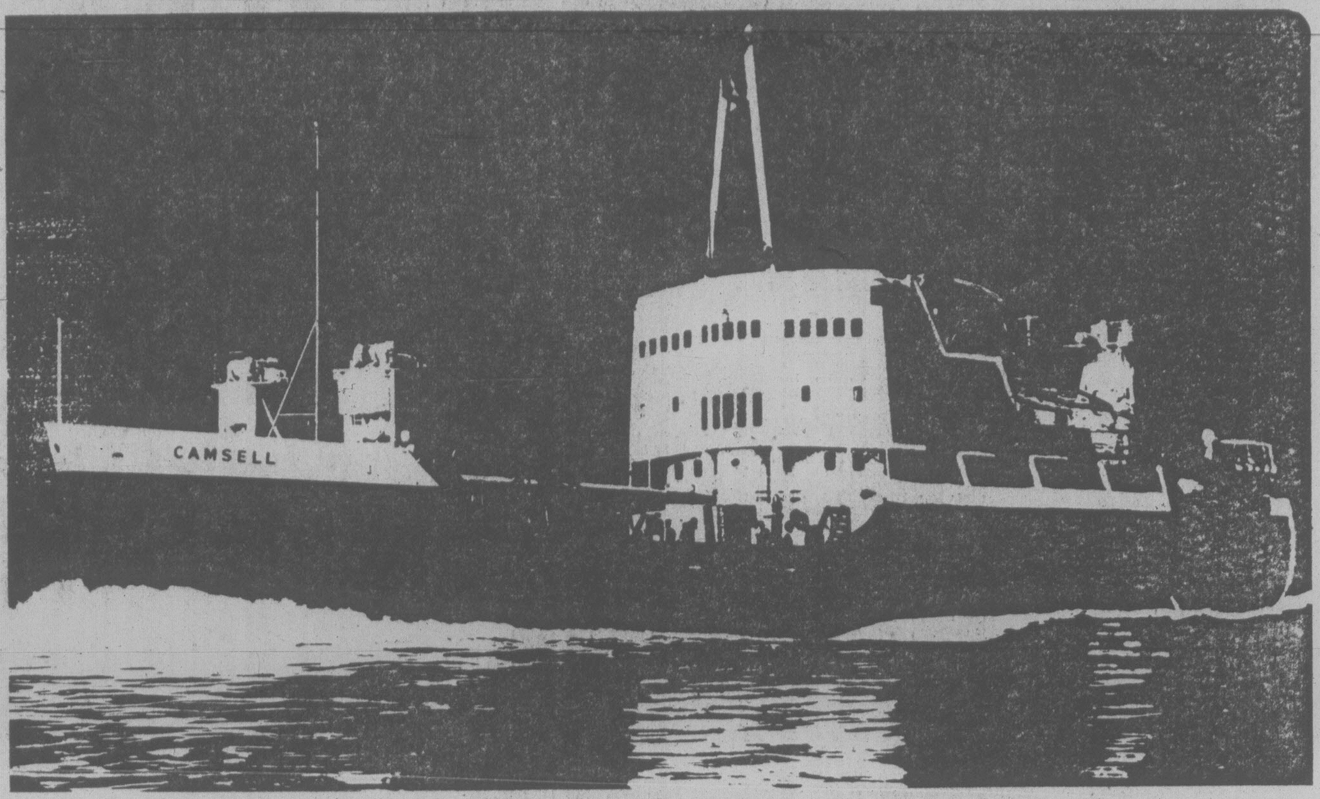
Oiler Anne Cameron of Sidney was asleep when the Victoria-based icebreaker Camsell was holed . . . but in seconds she had pulled on her coveralls and was heading for the watertight door she was assigned to close



The engine room of the Arctic veteran Camsell was flooded in only 20 minutes

'A Hollow Thud' She Won't Forget

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

IT was 5:05 a.m. Sept. 10 when the icebreaker Camsell was holed by Arctic ice and Anne Cameron, 24, of Sidney will never forget the moment and what came after.

An oiler on the ship, Cameron was asleep in the cabin she shared with the only other woman aboard, ship's clerk Alice Goldsmith.

She said even when sleeping she is aware of the various shipboard noises and it was the abnormal sound that awakened her.

"You could hear this sort of hollow thud."

She looked out the porthole, saw what appeared to be oil on the water and knew something was wrong.

She scrambled into her coveralls, after waking Goldsmith, and was making her way to the engine room when she heard Harry Jones, the oiler on watch, calling for the other oilers.

"He was yelling about a hole in the ship's side."

At the same time the Camsell's deck crew was organizing a damage control party.

She said the watertight door was closed, sealing off the shaft tunnel, and her job was to secure the watertight door in the generator flats. The ship's pumps were put into action but the water came in so fast the engine room was flooded in 20 minutes.

"It was the huge pumps dropped from the Hercules (aircraft) that saved the day," she said.

"You could see some of the pumps short-circuiting and surges of electricity going through the water."

She recalled the only time she was really concerned was when two crew members were trapped on the other side of the engine room and had to thrash through the water, over the engines, to make it to the ladder near where she stood watch.

"We had an excellent crew, everybody was acting so quickly and reliably for the safety of the ship.

"People were tender with their feelings. I never had my hand shaken so much or my back patted. That was a great feeling."

The mishap happened in 20 fathoms off Jenny Lind Island shortly after the Camsell had escorted the tug Agnes Sherwood to the island.

Cameron said the Camsell's helicopter later that day transported some of the crew to the D.E.W. Line camp on the island. She was on the fourth flight.

The next day they were flown back to Victoria.

Cameron said the experience has not affected her desire to go to sea because seamen have "no pretensions . . . I love it."

This was her first time in the Arctic and she says, like many other crew members, she spent a lot of time outside when she was off watch during the first month watching the Camsell crashing through the ice fields.

Some of the crew, she said, reported ice conditions were the worst in 15 years.

Before joining the Camsell, Cameron worked aboard the weatherships Quadra and Vancouver.

She had studied English classics for two years in university, but her love of the sea drew her to where the Vancouver was docked. It was the summer of 1976 and she was looking for a job.

SHE met Bob Stuart, the ship's engineer, who gave her her first job — cleaning bilges.

The day before the Vancouver sailed she was given the option of becoming a stewardess but chose to stay in the engine room.

She said her biggest challenge was to gain confidence in herself.

"As soon as I realized I had to be tough and know what I was doing then I was on an equal with the others."

She asked for a transfer from the weatherships because she wanted experience in steam and diesel. She's set her sights on earning her fourth-class combined ticket.

"It kind of gets into your blood," she said, "Being at sea, you live in a vacuum, you become part of an intense family."

$140,000 Damage In Fire At Nursery

Fire investigators are attempting to determine the cause of a $140,000 fire that destroyed the main building and a greenhouse at the Marigold Nursery in Central Saanich Wednesday night.

A Central Saanich police spokesman said a nursery employee spotted a small fire at the rear of a large storage-cum-office building at 7874 Lochside about 6:45 p.m.

As the employee approached to investigate, the front door blew off and the structure erupted in flames.

It took Central Saanich volunteer firemen more than two hours to control the blaze. One nearby greenhouse was destroyed and three others damaged.

The spokesman said the fire had probably smouldered for some time before it was detected. Several residents reported seeing smoke as early as 6 p.m. but thought it came from the nursery's incinerator.

The fire is believed to have started behind a large boiler in the area of an electrical panel. A quantity of oil burning and heating supplies was stored nearby.

The nursery is owned by Leslie Smith of the same address.

FALL VICTIM ON MEND

An 83-year-old woman has undergone hip surgery for injuries suffered in a fall down her basement stairs.

Mrs. Florence Richards, who spent the night Monday on the floor of her basement, is in satisfactory condition, a Victoria General Hospital spokesman said.

She was found Tuesday morning by two passers-by after tapping on her basement window for almost 24 hours.

Ad Nets Return Of Tools

A $1,000 reward has led to the recovery of more than $15,000 worth of tools stolen from two Victoria automotive repair shops last week.

Ken Fleming, owner of Victoria Four-Wheel Drive, 597 Hillside, made the offer in ads in local papers following the theft of the tools and a jeep from his shop and Ellice Automotive Repairs of the same address overnight Sept. 13.

The ads ran six days and paid off when a Port McNeil man called on Monday to say he had the tools.

Fleming and Neil Gustafson of Ellice Automotive flew to the northern Island community the next day.

Fleming said the man told them he got the tools from his brother who had acquired them and the jeep in a trade-in of his (his brother's) car with another person.

The jeep has not been recovered.

Fleming said he decided to place the ads on the advice of his father, but was skeptical at first.

"I didn't think it would work," he said today. "But I had to try something. Those tools were my bread and butter."

He said the reward won't be paid until he recovers all items taken, including the jeep.

Lt.-Gov. Facts Wrong on Lakes, Says Sierra Club

Lieut.-Gov. Henry Bell-Irving — who holds what has traditionally been considered a non-political office — drew fire today for criticizing opponents of the use of the herbicide 2,4-D in the Okanagan Lake system.

Sierra Club executive officer Bob Nixon said Bell-Irving' claim that 2,4-D opponents have their priorities wrong is both uninformed and a transparent attempt to cover-up government errors in establishing priorities to preserve the Okanagan Lakes.

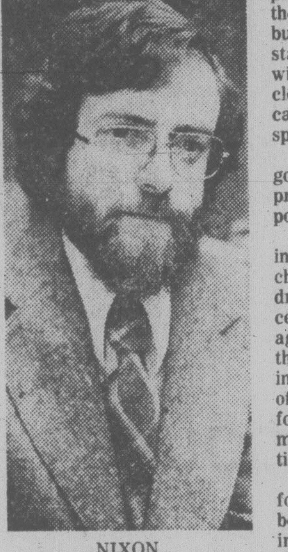
In a speech to the annual meeting of the Union of B.C. Municipalities in Penticton Wednesday, Bell-Irving said environmentalists are too concerned with the dumping of 2,4-D to control milfoil in the lakes.

He said they do not show enough concern with the "disease itself, which perhaps come out of the bathroom and how it is disposed of."

He was referring to Okanagan cities disposing of sewage in the lakes.

Bell-Irving said he was recently asked to oppose the provincial government's use of the herbicide but refused.

Nixon said Bell-Irving has got his facts wrong.



NIXON
. . . 'sane approach?'

He said environmentalists fighting the 2,4-D milfoil program have waged a ceaseless campaign to convince the government to implement disposal techniques which would eliminate dumping of sewage in the lakes, he said.

Environmentalists have already achieved moderate success in achieving their primary goal of preserving the water quality of the lakes but have faced a major obstacle in the government's willingness to ignore needed clean-up for simplistic political solutions such as 2,4-D spraying.

Nixon said the provincial government is not ready to provide funds for this purpose.

"If Bell-Irving is announcing that his government is changing its priorities to address the basic issue of concern — maintenance of Okanagan water quality — then the lieutenant-governor has indeed endorsed the position of environmentalists and found cause to seek a realignment of government priorities," Nixon added.

He said a major problem for environmentalists has been the curtain of silence imposed upon government staff because of orders to promote 2,4-D spraying as the solution to lake problems.

"Perhaps now we shall witness the implementation of a sane approach to solving Okanagan water qualilty problems," he said.

"However, 2,4-D still has no place in such a program."

Q. Could please tell me the addresses Mae West, Bob Hope and Arnold Palmer? R.P.

A. Mae West's address is: c/o William Morris Agency Inc., 1740 Broadway, New York City, N.Y. 10019. Bob Hope, 10000 Riverside Drive, Suite 3, North Hollywood, Calif. 91602. Arnold Palmer, Box 52, Youngstown, Pa. 15696.

Q. It is imperative that I locate the present facilities of Narcanon, X-Calay and Synanon in Western Canada and northwestern United States. Could you be able to provide me with this information? J.D.

A. We have only two phone numbers for Narcanon. They are 382-0762 and 385-3851. Synanon can be contacted at P.O. Box 786, Marshall, Calif. 94940 and 5025 17th. N.E. or 1525 37th Street in Seattle. We could find no address for X-Calay.

Q. I have a couple of questions for you. (1) Do you know where I could write to Buster Crabbe? I just saw him on TV in Flash Gordon and I think he's great. (2) Is the Alan Hale that played on Gilligan's Island related to the Alan Hale who made films all through the 30s and 40s? D.C.

A. Buster Crabbe lives at 11216 N 74th St., Scottsdale, Ariz. 85260. Yes, The Alan Hale who made films throughout the 20s, 30s and 40s is the father of Gilligan's Alan Hale.

Q. Can you tell me where the term "fourth estate" comes from and what are the other estates? B.R.

A. The term was first coined by British essayist William Hazlit to describe the power of British journalist William Cobbett, who was born in 1763. Cobbett was fined and jailed for his writings against the establishment, both by the British and Americans. He had such a following, however, he was finally elected to Parliament where he was able to put some of his reformist ideas into effect. The other estates are: First, the clergy; second, the House of Lords; third, the House of Commons, and fifth, scientists.

Salmonella Strikes 56

No common source has been found for the scattered outbreak of salmonella in the Capital Regional District in the past six weeks, regional health officer Dr. Allen Arneil said Wednesday.

Arneil says 65 persons from 45 families were affected.

Of these, about one quarter of the patients contracted salmonella while off the island. Those who had not been out of town appeared to have nothing in common but the salmonella.

"They hadn't been to the same place, or eaten the same foods," Arneil said. "Some had eaten out and others had only eaten at home."

He said the outbreak had peaked around the end of August and now appears to be abating.

"Still, I would feel happier if we had been able to pinpoint a source," he said.

Arneil said ways to control salmonella include washing hands after handling food or going to the bathroom, keeping hot foods hot and cold foods cold.

BNA Act Used As 'Scapegoat'

By LORRAINE LOCHERTY
Times Staff

The British North America Act is alive and well and being used as a scapegoat, says lawyer Edward McWhinney.

A specialist in federal constitutional law, McWhinney told the Canadian Club Wednesday a new Canadian constitution isn't the balm needed to soothe the country's discontent.

McWhinney, a professor at Simon Fraser University, said Canada's ills stem mainly from people's frustration with the bureaucratic process.

Major constitutional reform is not the remedy.

McWhinney is an advocate of what he called "direct action" by people — participatory democracy.

He will appear next week before the Senate-House joint committee studying the constitution.

The committee will get the same message, McWhinney said.

The biggest problem facing Canada is the same one other coutries must contend with — a popular reaction against governments.

Alienation toward large bureaucracies is a major cause of discontent, McWhinney said.

It resulted in Proposition 13 in California where citizens protested against government spending by demanding large tax reductions.

And it has caused separatist movements in other countries that make Canada's Quebec separatism problem seem like a minor headache.

Corsica must contend with plastic bombs in town halls and in West Germany, terrorist activities are rampant, McWhinney pointed out.

He predicted Quebec will eventually work out its problems in the traditional way and reject a referendum to separate.

Quebec's examination of nationalism is nobody's fault and everything that could be done has been done and in the long run, Quebec's conception of the constitution will emerge as conventional.

McWhinney said a decade from now Quebec will participate in constitutional negotiations with the rest of the provinces.

He said the holier-than-thou attitute of federal negotiators is changing back toward one of co-operative federalism involving sensible discussions between governments.

He said the federal government should show more self-restraint instead of seeking the power of the courts to impose its will on provinces.

It also needs to use more diplomacy and pragmatism in provincial relations.

Normandy Suites Listed in Error

Victoria fire officials said today they erred Wednesday in including the Normandy Apartments at 1106 Balmoral among apartments posted as fire hazards.

Deputy chief Mike Belton said notices have not been put up in the apartment as discussions are still under way between the owner and fire inspector Ray Best over what work must be done to bring the building up to safety standards.

Seven city apartments and the Empress Hotel have already been posted as unsafe and fire chief Eric Simmons said Wednesday three other apartments and five hotels are on the hazard list and may face the same exposure.

Firebombing Charge

A 36-year-old man has been arrested in connection with a firebomb attack at the Hillside Auto Court in the 700-block Hillside late Tuesday.

The man will appear in provincial court charged with setting a fire.

The firebomb caused little damage to the auto court, described by police as a headquarters for the Bounty Hunters Motorcycle Club.

A firebombing of an elderly couple's home at 1136 Empress earlier this month saw the arrest of a 24-year-old man.

A trading halt issued about 10:30 a.m. continued in shares of Steetley Industries Ltd. at the company's request pending dissemination of news of a planned amalgamation with two subsidiaries. Shares last traded at $13½.

Among other industrials, Bow Valley Industries declined 1¾ to $39¾, Husky Oil ¾ to $42½, Power Corp. A ¾ to $18¾, Westburne International ¾ to $33½ and Dofasco A ¾ to $27.

Canadian Tire A gained ⅞ to $26, Nu-West Development A ¾ to $18⅛, Northern Telecom ¼ to $38, Dominion Textile A ¼ to $12½ and Interprovincial Steel and Pipe ⅛ to $16⅛.

McIntyre Mines fell ⅝ to $25⅞, Dome Mines ½ to $101½ and Afton ⅜ to $10½. Canada Tungsten Mining advanced 1⅛ to $21⅜ and Camflo Mines ½ to $17.

Total Petroleum North America eased ¼ to $14⅜, Canada Southern Petroleum ¼ to $5½ and PanCanadian Petroleums ¼ to $33¼. Ocelot Industries B rose ¼ to $13¾ and Ranger Oil Canada ¼ to $17⅜.

London

LONDON (CP) — Prices moved moderately lower at the close of light trading on the London stock market.

The Financial Times Index of 30 industrials closed at 525.7, off 3.4.

Leading industrials declined, while oil issues firmed and gold shares climbed sharply with higher bullion prices.

China To Buy Sask. Potash

REGINA (CP) — China has agreed to purchase 300,000 metric tons of potassium chloride worth about $18 million from Saskatchewan, Canpotex president Roger Hatch said.

Hatch said the contract, the largest single purchase of potash by Peking, calls for shipment of the potash between Oct. 15, 1978, and June 30, 1979.

"Potash price levels in the off-shore market have started to increase significantly during the last few months and the Chinese recognize that now is a good time to buy," Hatch said in a statement.

"The Chinese have established challenging agronomic targets in recognition of the importance of agriculture in providing a solid foundation for industrial development," he said.

The Chinese recently constructed a substantial number of modern urea plants and have found that much greater use of potash fertilizer is required to obtain maximum benefits from their urea, Hatch said.
